SPALDING'S

ATHLETIC LIBRARY

Spalding's Athletic Library is the leading library series of its kind published in the world; in fact, it has no imitators, let alone equals. It occupies a field that it has created for itself.

The Library was established in the year 1892, and it is conceded by all authorities that Spalding's Athletic Library has been an important factor in the advancement of amateur sport in America.

The millions that read the Library during the year will attest to its value. A glance at its index will disclose the remarkable field that it covers. It is immaterial what the pastime may be, you will find in Spalding's Athletic Library a reference to it, either in a book devoted exclusively to that particular game or in some of the books that cover many sports.

It has been the aim of the editors to make the books Official, and they are recognized as such, all the important governing bodies in America granting to the publishers of Spalding's Athletic Library the exclusive right to publish their official books and official rules.

The best authorities in each particular line of sport or physical culture, the men best qualified to write intelligently on their respective subjects, are selected to edit the books and, as a result, there is not another series in the world that is as authoritative as Spalding's Athletic Library.

No matter what new game or form of sport be conceived or advanced, it is invariably the aim of the publishers to have a book on that sport. In that way Spalding's Athletic Library is in the field at the beginning of the sport, follows it year in and year out, and there can be no doubt whatever that the present popularity of athletic sports can attribute the same to the "backing" it has received from Spalding's Athletic Library.

In looking back over the teams selected since, in 1889, I named the first All-America eleven, it is impossible not to feel a sentimental pleasure in adding another list to a roll that has contained names of so many chivalrous, skillful, and plucky players.

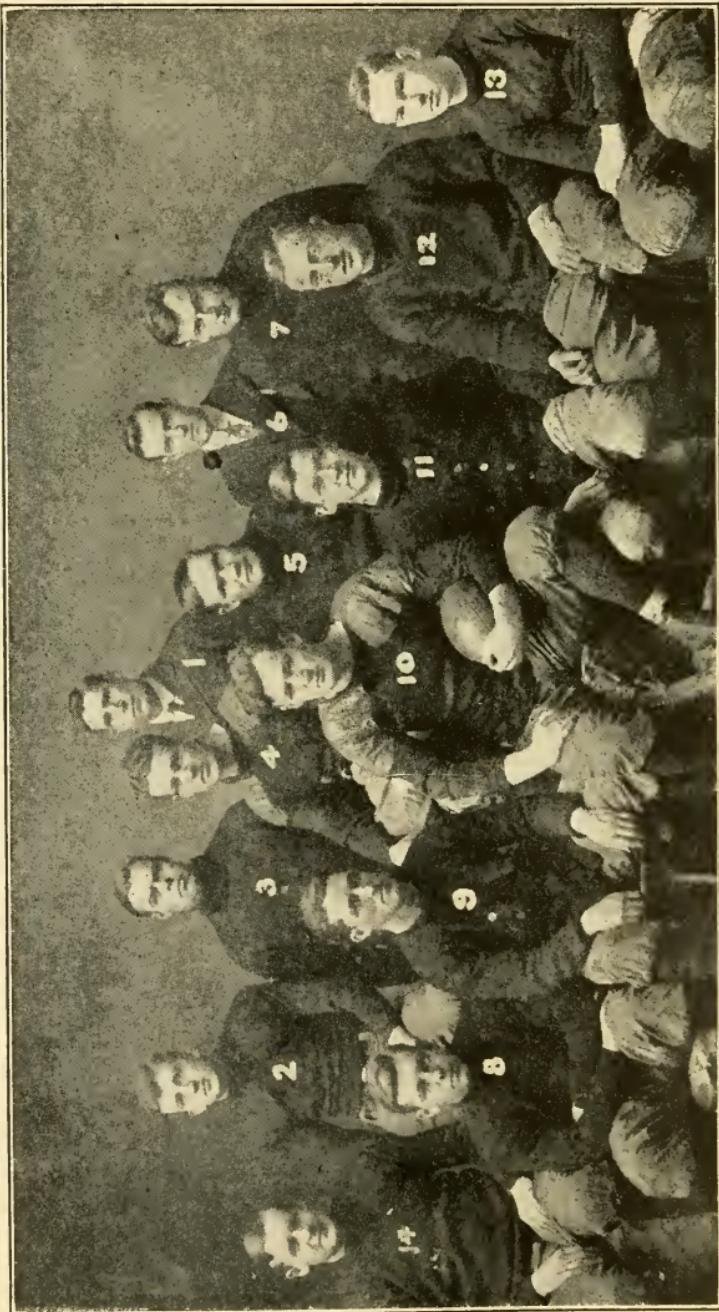

This team of 1907 would furnish a first eleven equipped to play the necessarily varied forms of attack and defense essential to victory under the present rules. First, as to attack by, and defense to, that most important feature, the forward pass. Jones is par excellence the most skillful man in any back field to-day in executing not one kind of forward pass, but both kinds, namely, the short one and the long one. He can, moreover, throw equally well the spiral and the "end-over-end" that stays so long in the air, and, executed from about forty yards away from the goal line, sends chills down the backs of the defense. In Alcott he has the best man to take either kind of pass, while in Dague he has a man who can be absolutely relied upon to get the ball if touched by some other man. Jones himself would play the midway position on defense from which he not only did his remarkable running back, but also spoiled the forward passes of opponents.

Next as to on-side kicking. In this we have Harlan of Princeton, admittedly the most successful performer of the year of this kind of kick. With it he put his opponents in serious difficulties and proved that it was far more valuable to his team than any of the longer distance kicks of the other teams. Thus for the two special features of the new game we have chosen four men, each easily the leader of his class in some particular part of the work.

Next as to ordinary attack and defense. In McCormick we have the strongest simple line bucker when we consider that such a man must not only be able to carry the ball himself, but be equally competent to carry another man, this other man having the ball. In that way line bucking becomes valuable because of the deception as to the man in possession of the ball, as well as the point where the play strikes. In McCormick and Harlan the combination is complete, while for the wider runs we have Wendell, who made the best record in this respect and is at the same time good on pushing and on defense. With McCormick and Wendell backing up a line the power of the secondary defense would be ideal. Then for kicking Harlan would furnish punts, drops, and on-side kicks, with McCormick as an occasional alternate just enough to deceive opponents. Draper gives us the best combination of offense and defense as tackle, as he can carry the ball well and also make openings (Horr of Syracuse is the only man to match him in running with the ball), while Biglow adds that greatest of essentials to a line to-day, namely, a tackle so fast and so tireless as to share the ends' work down the field, while having weight and power enough to fully complete the tackle's duty. In Ziegler and Erwin flanking Schulz we have an ideal centre trio, one of them, Erwin, acknowledged by all to be the quickest and most active of the season's guards, with a record of spoiling many an opponent's play, and yet not leaving his place uncovered. In Schulz there is the steady experience and accurate passing so essential, combined with wonderful speed and tremendous power. Finally, Ziegler completes the trio with strength, steadiness, and ability to last out any amount of hammering attack, as instanced in the Pennsylvania-Cornell game, both in 1906 and 1907.

I have endeavored to complete the second and third elevens in similar fashion just as I would if coach of the team, combining elevens that should be fairly complete in themselves and at the same time furnish second-string men for all my positions—men who could work into the general scheme.

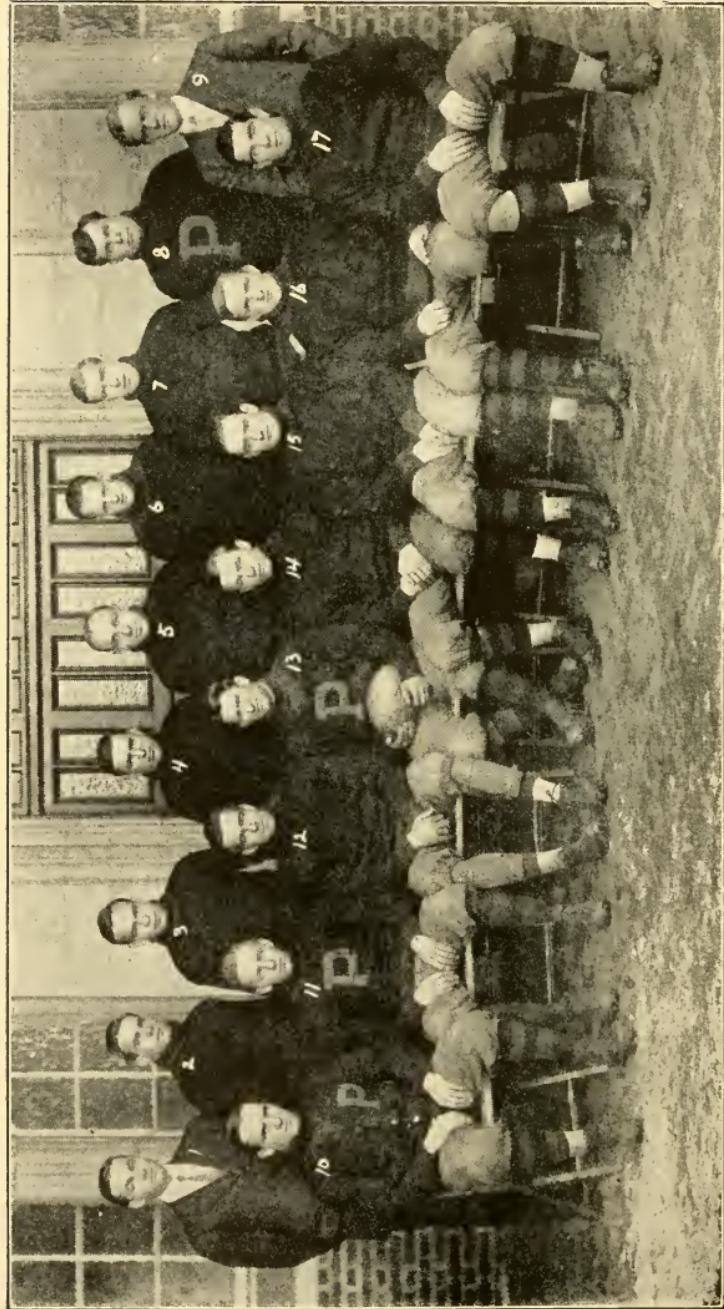

Dague of Annapolis was the best man on the gridiron at securing a loose ball, and such a quality is exceptionally valuable in the chances that are from time to time occurring in the new game. He not only kept his 1906 form but improved under the trying conditions which faced all the ends last season. He was fast down the field, tackled well, and was ready for emergencies.

Alcott of Yale was the man whose work at a critical moment won the Harvard game in 1906, and whose same handling of forward passes in the Princeton game went far toward a similar result last season. He was admittedly the most certain catcher last year of any forward pass, and for that reason is essential to the team. Heavier than Dague, he had some advantages in working against a tackle on the offense, a point quite effective in Yale's play. A good interferer, he put his man out of the way without the slightest tendency to the use of hands or arms.

Scarlett of Pennsylvania made himself, or rather, thanks to good coaching, was developed into a player from what did not seem to be a good natural start, and it is all the more creditable. Very fast getting down the field, he tackled clean and strong, was good at blocking and interfering, and watched the ball well. His work on the rather greasy field at the time of the Cornell game was first-class.

Exdine of the Indians was fast and clever, and in almost all his games was well down under the ball in tackling so as to prevent runs back.

Dillon of Princeton cut loose from him two or three times, and, on one occasion, seriously. But otherwise the Indian end's slate was clean. He was good at recovering the ball and quick to box, and in this as well as blocking off aided greatly the runs around the end.

McDonald of Harvard improved toward the end with marked rapidity, and in his Yale game was as good as any end on the field. Harvard did not give him an opportunity to shine as a catcher of forward passes, but his defensive work was very strong and his tackling good.

Wister of Princeton, while apparently somewhat below his form of 1906, was still a first-class man, and, with the exception of a part of the two games, when his physical condition seemed not of the best, he played a strong all-round game.

Other men worthy of notice are: H. Jones of Yale, Blake of Vanderbilt, Hammond of Michigan, Starr of Harvard, Pryor of Brown, Rowlands of Swarthmore, Brown of Princeton, Rogers of Wisconsin, Maddox of Virginia, Hewitt of Chicago, Troutman of Lehigh, Moores of Oregon.

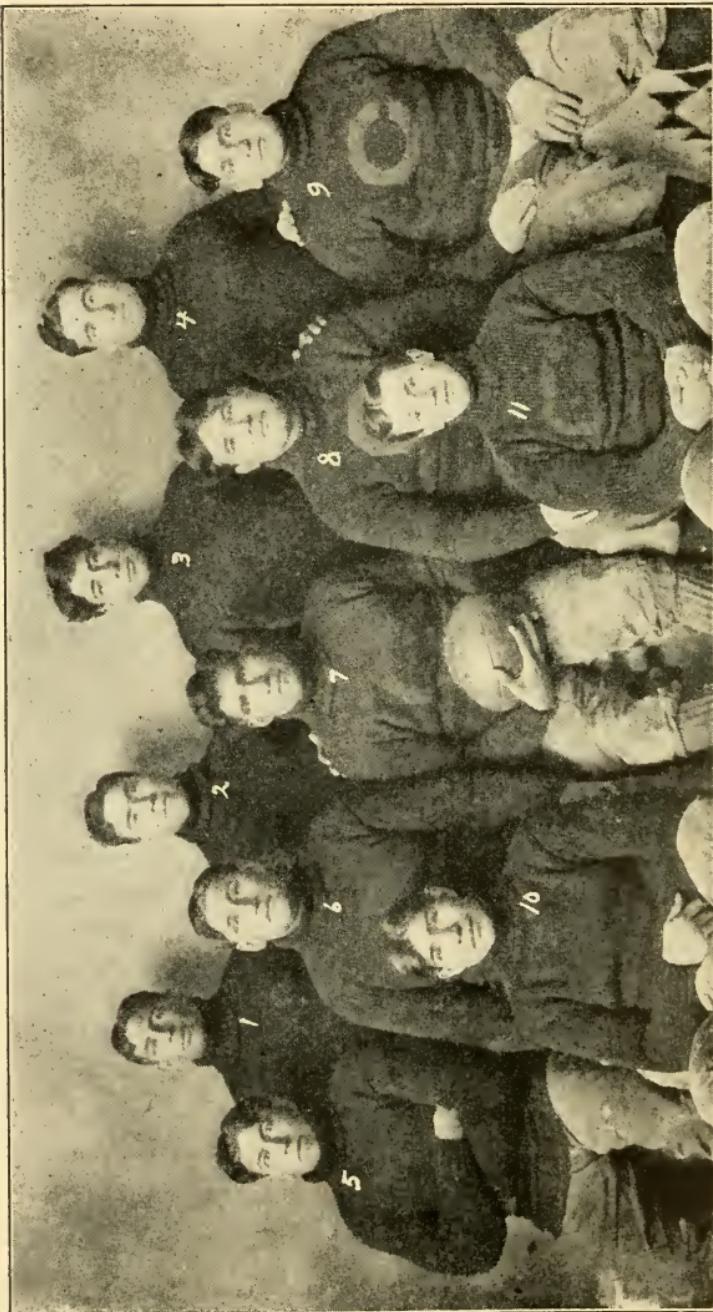

Draper of Pennsylvania more than answered hopes in both of his big games, namely, that against Michigan and the one against Cornell. He was extremely fast in getting down the field, and his tackling was good. Apart from the fact that he could also carry the ball on the offense, his defensive work and his making openings were alone strong enough to rank him.

CARLISLE INDIAN SCHOOL

Biglow of Yale was the fastest tackle on the gridiron last year, and, while playing, as he did, next to a green guard he did not cut loose as fully as he would with a veteran next him, he put up his usual absolutely reliable and certain game. He was frequently down before his ends on kicks, and took chances at flying tackles accordingly. His work on the offense was clean and sure.

Horr of Syracuse had much play thrown upon him; in fact, too much; but he again demonstrated his remarkable qualities in the position. He is one of the most powerful men on the gridiron both in attack and defense, knows the game thoroughly, and is a glutton for work.

O'Rourke of Cornell seemed almost the only man, with the exception of Thompson, on the Cornell team who did not go to pieces against Pennsylvania. He was roaming around doing more than his own work, and doing it well, and proved himself a man of quality.

Weeks of the Army was also a good barrier and bulwark at the time of disaster, and in the Navy game, when things seemed to be crumbling around him, he worked all the harder.

Dague (Annapolis), End

Lang of Dartmouth was a very active and powerful player, whose work was one of the features of a strong and aggressive line, a characteristic of the Dartmouth general play.

Northcroft of the Navy showed his ability at the tackle position in almost as marked form as in 1906, and put up a strong game. Foster of Yale was one of the best defensive tackles of the year.

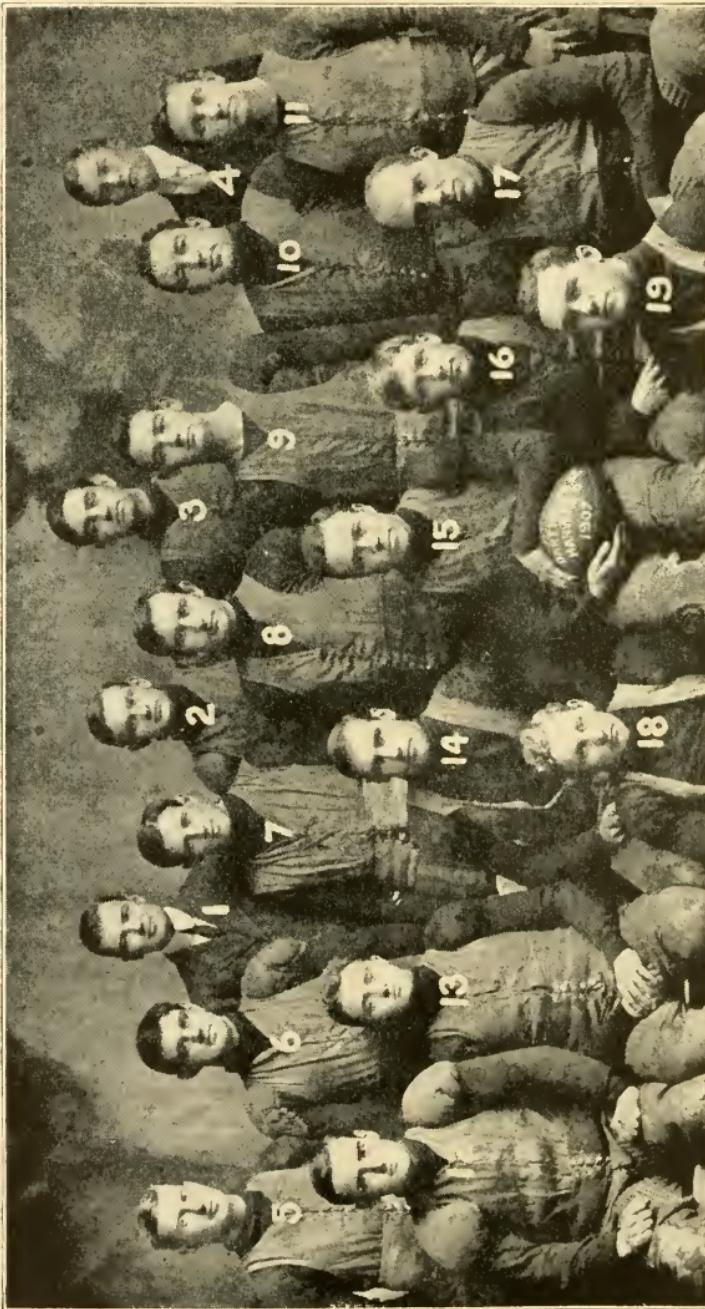

Sherill of Vanderbilt, Stone of Sewanee, Booth of Princeton, Bankhart of Dartmouth, Lubo of the Indians, E. J. Donnelly, captain of the Trinity team, Rheinschild of Michigan, Hazard of Brown, Case of Minnesota, and Dimmick of Whitman are all good men.

Ziegler of Pennsylvania is experienced, worked harder last year than ever before, and took great advantage of his coaching. He has upon other occasions come to the front when necessary, but his general form last year, both in offense and defense, was cleaner cut, and that, too, in a game where the guard's work is even more important than in the old days.

Erwin of West Point played all through the season an extremely accurate and aggressive game. It is the kind of game that takes some backing up from the tackle and the centre, but, properly protected, as it would be on this All-America team, it is good for the place.

DARTMOUTH COLLEGE,
Copyright, 1907, by C. W. Hearn, Boston, Mass.

Thompson of Cornell put up a first-class game for the majority of the season, but was a shade under his 1906 form, especially in his final game. He is big enough and powerful enough with his natural advantages to stand where he did in 1906—at the top—but in the Penn game he had his hands full.

Rich of Dartmouth was another man whose play, while not showy, was very effective, as was exhibited in his games last season, particularly in the Harvard contest. He was quick and cool, kept his wits about him, and was ever ready to break through on the defense and spoil a kick, while on the offense he assisted his runner very materially.

Goebel of Yale is of a similar type, though less active in blocking kicks, and both these men put up reliable games.

Krider of Swarthmore was a power both on attack and defense, and those who faced him realized this, as did every man on his own team.

Brides of Yale would have been a sure choice for an All-America guard last year had the game Yale mapped out left him in his original place in the line. Burr of Harvard by his shift to tackle was another man who suffered in his rating.

Van Hook of Illinois also deserves mention as a very powerful guard, as do also Wright and Meyer of the Navy, Messner of Wisconsin, Beebe of North Carolina, Hodgson of Virginia Polytechnic, and Parker of Harvard.

Schulz of Michigan was the best centre of the year. Not more active than Grant, nor steadier than Phillips, nor a better open-field tackler than Congdon, he had all the advantages of all these men, together with experience, and he turned them all to account. He is well over six feet in height, and yet a fast, powerful man who gets well over the field and makes more tackles in a game than any other man on his team. In addition he is an accurate passer and feeds the ball well to his backs either for kicks or runs.

Grant of Harvard played a plucky game of tremendous activity from the time he was put in to the very end. His passing was good and his eye for the ball keen. He was tireless and impressed one as a man who felt responsible for more than the mere routine duties of the position.

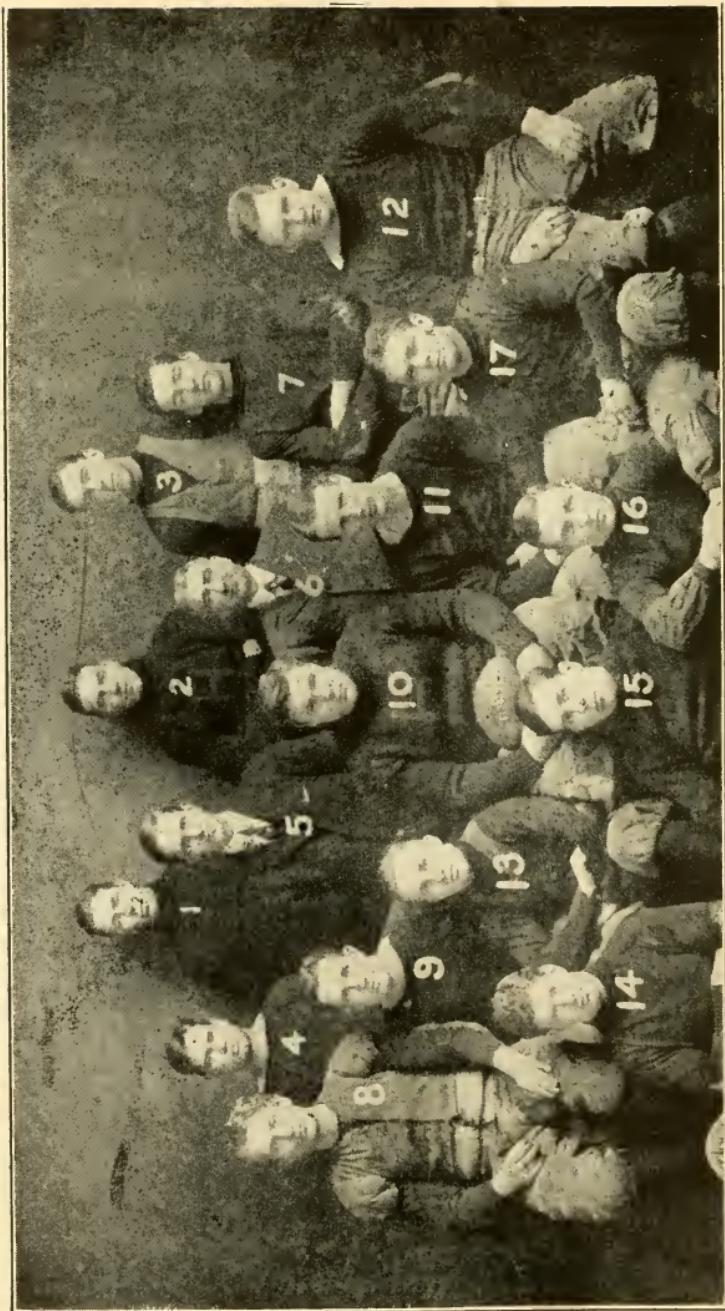

Phillips of Princeton showed his experience of 1906 and played one of the steadiest games of the season. He had some difficult passing to do, too, but was not found wanting. His handling of the ball to the back-field men was accurate, and his work in this respect in his Indian game, when the ball had become like a lump of sodden leather, was as good an exhibition of reliable work as seen on any gridiron last season.

Congdon of Yale was another type of the active, aggressive centre who was particularly strong in defensive work and whose passing was reliable. He might have had the place had he been able to play in the Harvard game. In finishing out the Princeton game on an ankle sprained in the first half and still keeping up his speed there was a fine showing of quiet pluck quite typical of the man who had worked for four years and through all positions to reach his goal on the 'Varsity. Dunbar, who took Congdon's place in the Harvard game, rose to the occasion and showed a quality and steadiness that would have placed him in a season's work. Slingluff of the Navy pressed them all closely, especially for steadiness and general reliability.

Dwyer of Pennsylvania, Coble of Swarthmore, May of Cornell, and Turner of Western University of Pennsylvania were all good men.

Jones of Yale came to his own as a quarter-back last year and not only ran his team well, but showed, on occasions when necessary and vital, a power of rising to the emergency, and carrying his team with him in deliberate but deadly certainty of attack, a quality that wins games. This was especially true in the use of the forward pass, a most necessary essential in the rounding out of last year's play. In the Princeton game it was not only his ability to run his team, but his individual deeds which were of great moment. Particularly was that true in his forward pass, and a man who can perform this, either a straight, short, quick pass or a long end over end, as Jones unquestionably showed in his most important contests that he could do, and that under pressure, is an asset that brings victory to his side. In these latter respects he surpasses any one who came up against him in actual contest.

Dillon of Princeton is one of the cleverest quarters that ever handled the ball. Not only does he drive his team well, but he uses his plays with judgment, and he himself is a wonder at catching kicks and running them back. He does not himself enter into the interference or the push as much as some other quarters, and Princeton's plan of play does not give him the kind of forward passing to do as mentioned above in the case of Jones. He acts as though he could perform these duties if they were given him, and I look to see him develop along this line this season.

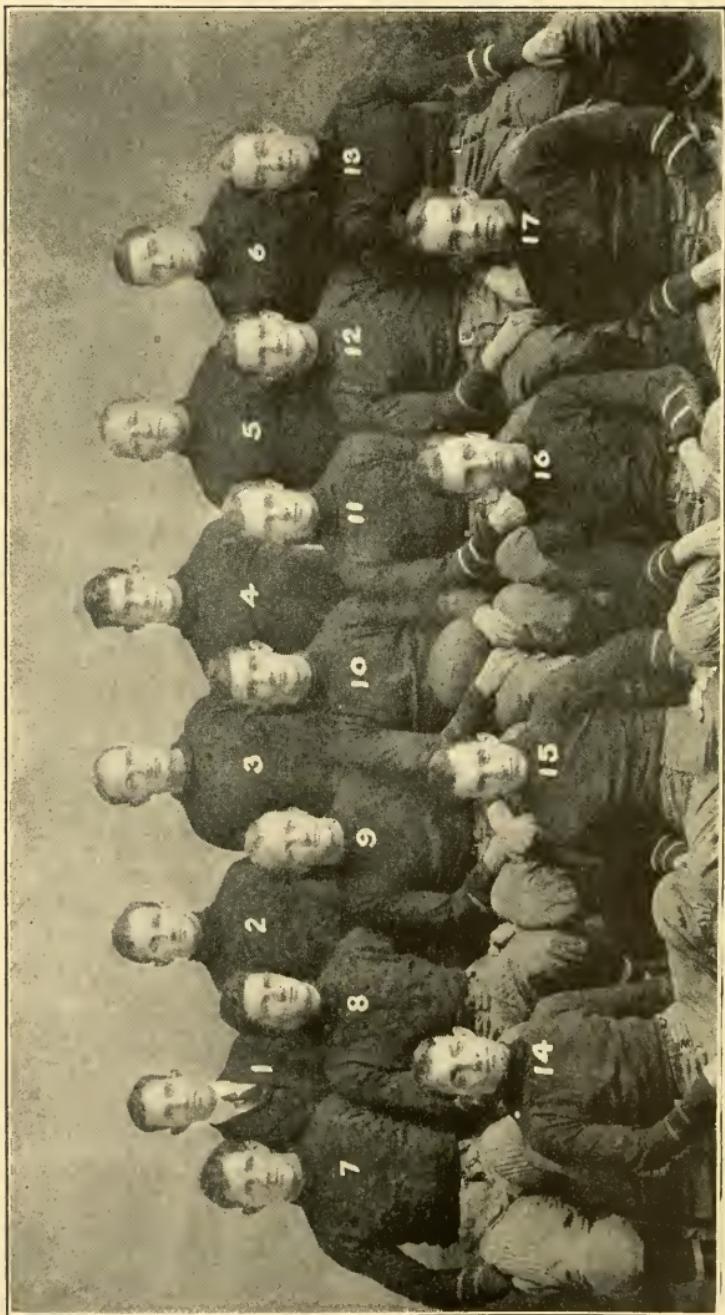

Steffen of Chicago is an able successor to Eckersall, although not up to that young man's remarkable stand. He is a good man at handling the ball, runs his team well, is a powerful player himself, and can upon occasion, as instanced in the Indian game, respond to an extra demand by kicking a field goal from a difficult position.

Mt. Pleasant of the Indians is one of the best quarters of the year, but less rugged in physique than the others mentioned. He is brilliant, and up to the time of the Princeton game had made more out of the team than any of the other quarters, but Dillon proved more successful in that game, and he and Jones lasted out the season better.

Glaze of Dartmouth, Newhall of Harvard, O'Brien of Swarthmore, Green, captain of Tufts, Keinath of Pennsylvania, Lange of the Navy, Stewart of Georgetown, Honaker of Virginia, are all clever players.

Harlan of Princeton proved the most successful kicker of the year. While not punting as far as some, he placed his kicks well and had under excellent control an on-side kick most disagreeable to meet. This was particularly effective in the Indian game. Harlan is also a first-class drop-kicker, most consistently successful in the games, and, added to all this, a good runner with the ball. As a matter of fact, distance, except on a windy day, did not prove as valuable an asset in a kicker for his team as ability to kick on the run, and this was Harlan's forte.

Wendell of Harvard showed himself a strong, heady player, with excellent ground-gaining qualities, especially in end runs on the offense and good diagnosing of plays on the defense and powerful tackling. He was a most important factor on the Harvard team in their final game and did much to make their showing what it was.

Hollenback of Pennsylvania is a tall, powerful, offensive and defensive player, with excellent kicking abilities, sending one of the meanest balls for backs to handle, barring possibly some of Harlan's low kicks across the rush line. Hollenback was consistent ever since the middle of the season and is a good ground-gainer. He places his kicks extremely well and uses his head in all his work.

Marks of Dartmouth put up a strong game all through the season, and is clever at diagnosing plays and follows the ball well. Besides this, he is himself a ground-gainer of marked ability. He has great power, keeps his feet well, and adds the necessary yards, even when surrounded.

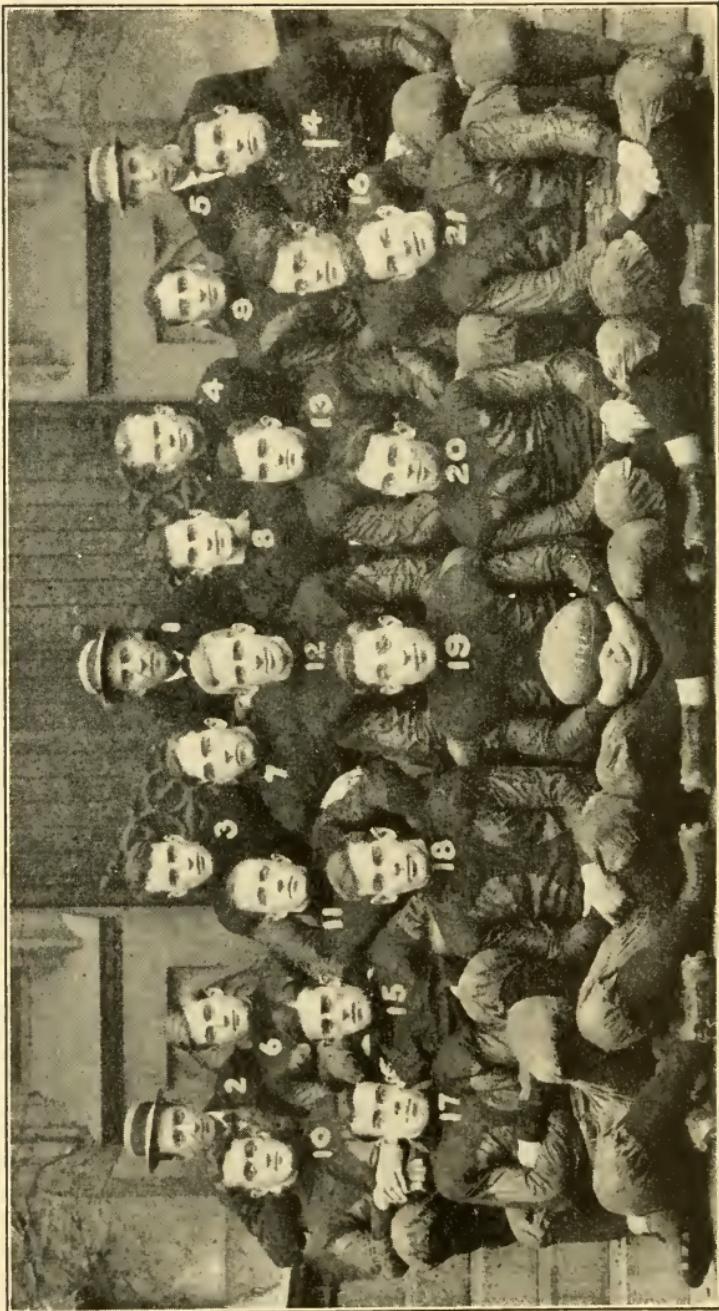

Hauser of the Indians, while playing normally the position of full-back, could make his runs equally well from the position of half, and with the proper pair working with him would be even more effective than in his present position. He was probably the most accurate kicker of goals from placement on the gridiron last season, and his end runs, as demonstrated against such ends as Wister and Brown of Princeton, were first-class. He is also able with the forward pass, but was not at his best under adverse conditions of ground and ball.

Capron of Minnesota is a good man and even more remarkable than several of the men already mentioned in point of kicking ability. Minnesota's scoring has been very largely due to this young man.

Brides of Yale has already been mentioned as having sacrificed an All-America position as guard for the benefit of his team at half-back. He is one of the best defensive players, and is also particularly strong in assisting his own runner.

The other men who deserve mention are Bomar, Philbin and Murphy of Yale, Mayhew of Brown, Folwell of Pennsylvania, Lament of Williams, a first-class kicker, McCaillie of Cornell, McCleary of Penn State, Tibbott of Princeton, Chalmers and McCaa of Lafayette, McGoffin of Michigan, and Kirk of Iowa.

McCormick of Princeton, between carrying the ball himself and his carrying the man who had the ball, probably did more ground-gaining for his team than any back on the field last year. Time and again he would come through the middle of the line, and whether he had the ball in his possession or his arms around the man with the ball, there was no stopping him short of eight or ten yards until the line closed up and determined, no matter what else happened, to make sure of McCormick. He is well built, powerful, and was far stronger last year on offense than in 1906. He is also good at diagnosing plays on the defense and quick to reach the danger spot.

Coy of Yale was one of the brilliant backs of the season, and as soon as he gets a little more experience will make one of the most marked men on the gridiron. He showed by flashes last year an ability not matched by any other player. He runs with tremendous power in the open and went through teams for touchdowns almost without effort. His running from formation with his own men close to him is not yet as well developed as his running in the open, but it will come. He is withal one of the longest kickers on the field to-day and is a good man in the forward pass.

Douglas of the Navy, while not in the best physical condition during the early part of the season, came splendidly toward the end, and in his big game did wonderful work for his team. He is not only a star in advancing the ball, but also in defensive work, and in addition to this his punts were so well placed as to be a source of constant menace to the Army backs.

Beavers of West Point, Walder of Cornell, De Tray of Chicago, Dutcher of Georgetown, and Weller of Nebraska, all deserve mention.

TEAM RANKING 1907.

1. Yale.	6. Cornell.	11. Minnesota.
2. Princeton.	7. Michigan.	12. Brown.
3. Carlisle.	8. Chicago.	13. Dartmouth.
4. Pennsylvania.	9. Annapolis.	14. Swarthmore.
5. Harvard.	10. West Point.

Good backs and ends and quarters were plentiful this year, but no new line man of notable strength has been developed, and curiously Yale, Princeton and Harvard had not a really high class guard among them.

Many earned a right to honorable mention.

Full-backs.—Beavers, West Point; Appolonio, Harvard's human battering ram ; Walder, Cornell ; Weller, Chicago.

Half-backs.—Mayhew, Brown ; Greene, Penn ; McCallie, Cornell ; Tibbott and Harlan, Princeton ; Folwell, Penn ; Brides, Yale ; Kirk, Iowa ; De Tray and Iddings, Chicago.

Quarter-backs.—Mount Pleasant, Carlisle ; Lange, Annapolis ; Newhall, Harvard ; Keinath, Penn ; Glaze, Dartmouth.

Centers.—Dwyer, Penn ; May, Cornell ; Phillips, Princeton ; Congdon, Yale ; Coble, Swarthmore ; Slingluff, Annapolis.

Guards.—Goebel, Yale ; Van Hook, Illinois ; Messmer, Wisconsin ; Kreider, Swarthmore.

Tackles.—Bankart, Dartmouth ; Pullen, West Point ; Donnelly, Trinity ; Horr, Syracuse ; Booth, Princeton ; Case, Minnesota ; Rheinschild, Michigan ; Northcroft, Annapolis.

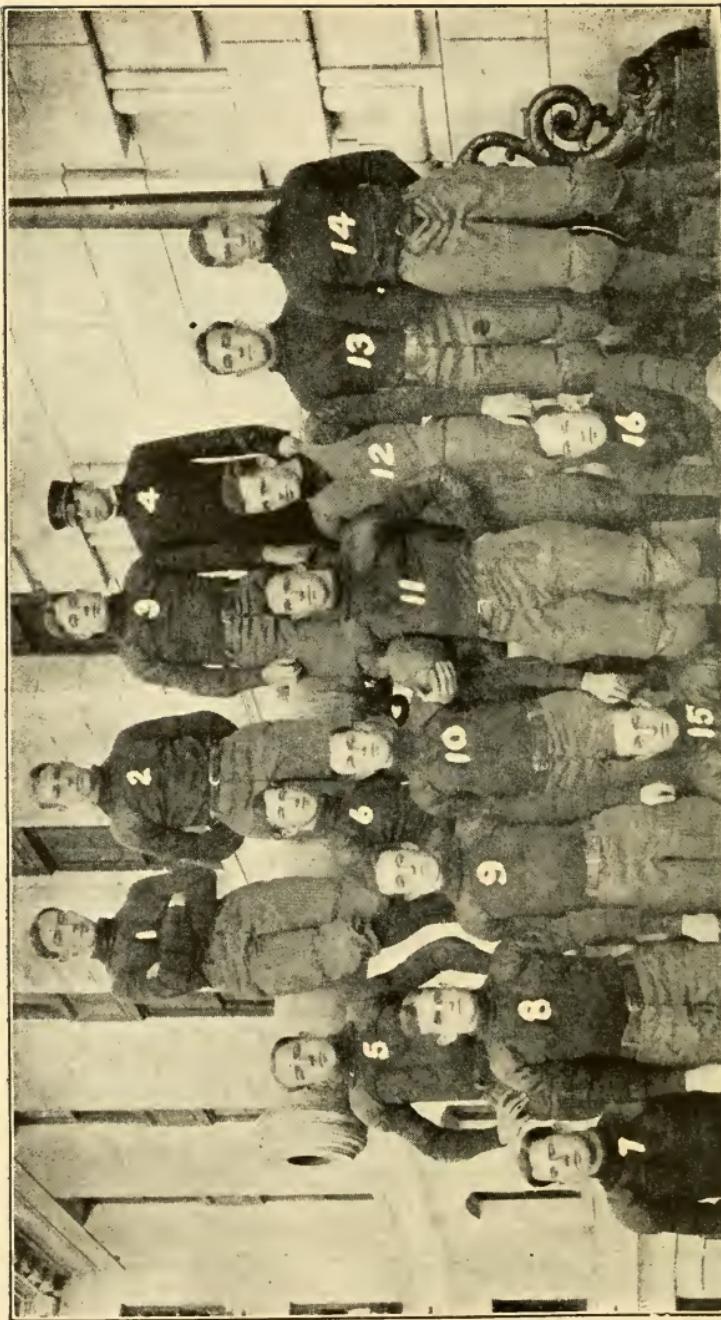

Ends.—Brown, Princeton ; Dague and DeMott, Annapolis ; Pryor, Brown ; Starr, Harvard ; Scarlett, Penn ; Hewitt, Chicago ; Hammond, Michigan ; Capron, Minnesota.

Some Representative Teams and Their Work in 1907

YALE PRINCETON

On Yale Field, New Haven, November 16, Yale added one more triumph to her record for gameness by defeating Princeton by a score 12 to 10, after the visitors had the game apparently won at the end of the first half with a score of 10 to 0.

The first score of the game came from a weak attempt by Yale for an on-side kick after they had carried the ball to Princeton's forty-yard line. The full-back punted the ball and it struck the Yale quarter in the back and bounded directly across at right angles into the arms of Princeton's tackle, Booth, who had a clear field and ran the length of it for a touchdown. Soon after, Princeton, by an excellent running game, carried the ball down near Yale's five-yard line from which point Harlan drop-kicked a field goal, making the score 10—0.

In the second half Yale, with a change of tackle and a fresh back, commenced an attack that has hardly been matched in foot ball history. Within six minutes they had secured a touchdown, which Captain Biglow converted into a goal, making the score 10—6. Then phenomenal runs by Jones and Coy put the ball once more into Princeton's territory and up to within Princeton's ten-yard line, where Coy was sent over for another touchdown. There was a claim of holding, however, and Yale was set back fifteen yards, bringing the play to the twenty-five yard line, but even this did not seem to relieve the pressure on Princeton or even to make Yale hesitate, for they came back with a forward pass to Alcott and then another call upon Coy and the ball was put over for the winning touchdown.

YALE HARVARD

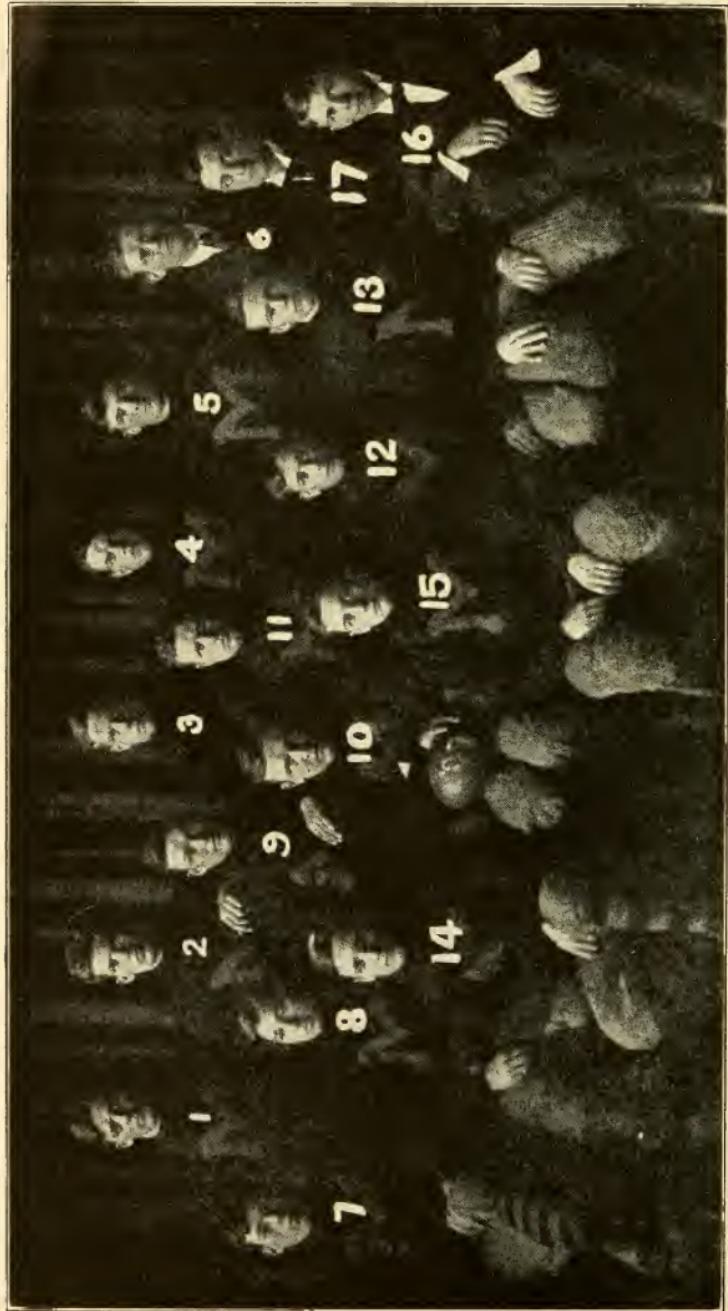

Yale met Harvard on Soldier's Field, November 23, for the final game of the year, and with good weather and before a most enthusiastic crowd of some forty thousand won by a score of 12 to 0, securing one touchdown in each half.

Harvard played an individual, plucky and even brilliant game, while the Yale stars manifestly showed evidence of the strain of the previous week, but the greater machine-like precision of the visiting team was enough to settle the issue. At the very end of the game Harvard came desperately and forced the ball up to within inches of the Yale goal line, only to be held by the Yale defense.

The first half was nearly over before Yale secured her first touchdown. The ball was in the middle of the field when a good on-side kick of Jones to Alcott gave Yale possession within striking distance. Philbin, a fresh half, was sent in and carried the ball nine yards on his first attempt and speedily Yale pushed the charge home and soon had the touchdown, Coy going over the line.

Yale's second touchdown came in the second half, in not a dissimilar fashion, Coy once more being the man to put the ball over in the final plunge. From that time on the game varied until Harvard made her remarkable brace toward the end which so nearly resulted in a touchdown and went far to show the Crimson partisans the pluck and spirit possessed by their eleven which could thus respond, even though defeated.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI.

PENNSYLVANIA once more defeated Michigan. A large crowd filled Ferry Field, as there was a special interest in the game this season. The game was fiercely contested, and the only score resulted from the fumble of a short kick.

Something over fifteen minutes of the first half had been played when, after a punt of Hammond's, Hollenback came back through the Michigan tacklers, running all of fifteen yards to the forty-yard line. After two ineffectual attempts to gain, Pennsylvania punted. Magoffin of Michigan fumbled the punt. Pennsylvania securing the ball on Michigan's fifteen-yard line. Here it seemed as if Pennsylvania would surely score by a forward pass, but Magoffin secured the ball on Michigan's fifteen-yard line. Hammond punted, but the punt was high, Pennsylvania getting a fair catch on the thirty-yard line. Failing to gain on the first down, Keimath, the Pennsylvania quarter, kicked a little punt that was generally scrambled for by everyone before Gallagher of Pennsylvania finally secured it near the ten-yard line and easily carried it over for a touchdown. This proved to be the only score of the day, although Michigan carried the ball on a triple pass across Penn's goal line for a touchdown, which was not allowed, as his pass crossed the line of scrimmage inside the five-yard limit.

PENNSYLVANIA the annual match between Pennsylvania and Cornell, and once more history repeated itself.

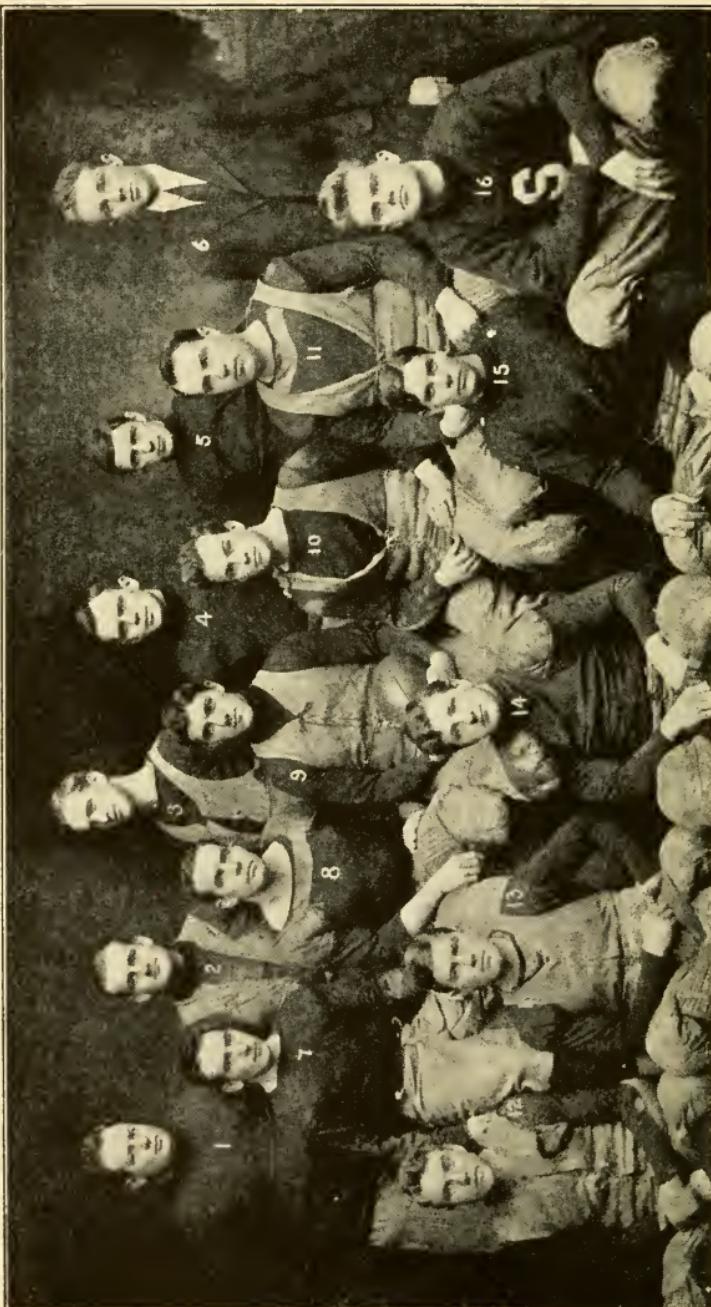

No matter how strong Cornell may seem to be in the middle of the season or even on the very day of the Pennsylvania game, there always seems to be some strange reversal of form that has taught Pennsylvania to feel a perfect confidence that the Red and Blue will always win this contest. Last season it was the same. Cornell had defeated Princeton and West Point, had beaten Swarthmore worse than Pennsylvania, while Pennsylvania had been overwhelmed by the Indians and scored on by Swarthmore and Bucknell. Nevertheless, in the game, in which it must be confessed that Pennsylvania played good foot ball from start to finish and really deserved even more than they finally got, Cornell, using bad judgment, particularly in plays, went down to defeat by a score of 12 to 4.

ANNAPOLIS WEST POINT

It was generally understood that West Point meant to turn the tables and wipe out the disgrace of last year's defeat. The early part of the season they showed excellent form, and although defeated by Cornell in a close game, they overwhelmed Syracuse 23 to 4 and came down to Philadelphia confident of victory over Annapolis, who had been beaten by Swarthmore 18 to 0 and had only barely won out from Penn State. The game, however, was more or less a repetition of the contest of last year except that West Point used poor generalship and did not seem to be able to get the right team in the field at the right time. It even seemed as though Annapolis should have scored more, considering all the opportunities. However, the final result was: Annapolis 6, West Point 0; and the Navy had added another victory to her credit.

CORNELL PRINCETON

On October 26 Princeton journeyed to Ithaca for their annual match with the Cornell team. Already the Ithacans were making a name for themselves as "the big red team," and with the memory of certain other successes over the Princeton Tigers, they entered the game with a fair amount of confidence, which was not shaken after the game opened.

The first half developed into more or less of a punting duel between McCormick of Princeton and Walder of Cornell, although the Cornell line had the better of the Princeton forwards. At the end of the first half no scoring had resulted, but the 15,000 people had reached a pitch of intense excitement. Cornell had not only gained in exchange of kicks by nearly one-third, but had also gained more in running.

Cornell in the second half got the ball from a punt of McCormick's on Princeton's forty-yard line and began an attack similar to that by which they scored on Princeton at the meeting in New York last year, Earle took eight yards and Walder followed with a first down. Then a failure to gain cost them some yards, but was followed by a forward pass to Earle, which took twenty-five yards. Walder repeated with ten yards more, carrying the ball inside Princeton's ten-yard line, where in three plays Cornell put the ball over, converted the touchdown and placed the score at 6 to 0 in Cornell's favor.

Princeton's touchdown came later in the game from a blocked kick when Walder tried to punt the ball, but as Princeton failed to convert the touchdown, the game ended with a victory for Cornell, 6—5.

CARLISLE PENNSYLVANIA

The Carlisle Indians have always had an especial delight in taking the scalps of the Philadelphians, and 1907 was no exception. They met Pennsylvania at a poor time in Pennsylvania's schedule, and not only defeated them, but "ran rings" around them. The Indians had perhaps reached the top of their execution of the forward pass, while the season had not developed far enough for Pennsylvania on their side to have their defense properly perfected. In addition to this, the Indians seemed to have an especial confidence in going at the ball that was almost an abandon, but it worked well, so well in fact that it added an element that told largely in the increased score. The final result of the game was no less than 26 to 6 in favor of the Indians.

DARTMOUTH HARVARD

On Soldier's Field at Cambridge, November 16, before a crowd of some 25,000 people, Dartmouth defeated Harvard overwhelmingly by a score of 22 to 0. The team play of Dartmouth was far superior to that of Harvard, and it was this that resulted in such a tremendous defeat for the Crimson.

It was fine weather, and as Dartmouth failed to score during the first half of the game, the crowd felt that the game was most interesting. There were already, however, indications that the tide of battle would turn Dartmouth's way, and in the second half, not only was Dartmouth's play superior, but, as nothing succeeds like success, so every jump of the ball seemed to favor the visitors and they seized upon their opportunities well.

Dartmouth's first touchdown came from blocking one of Burr's punts, which he got off too slowly. The Dartmouth forwards blocked it and then Kennedy seized it and ran across from the fifteen-yard line for the first touchdown. The next score came practically from an attempted on-side kick by Wendell of Harvard. It was tried on their own thirty-yard line and went high and straight, so that the Dartmouth back caught it just past the middle of the field, and with good interference ran through the entire Harvard team for a touchdown. Glaze, the captain of the Dartmouth team, soon added four more points by a field goal from the twenty-five yard line, and Dartmouth's third and last touchdown came from another blocked kick.

CARLISLE HARVARD

At Soldier's Field, November 9, the Indians, who always seem to particularly enjoy a chance at the Crimson, bewildered, deceived and defeated the Harvard team by a score of 23 to 15.

A crowd of some 30,000 came out to see the new foot ball, and in spite of the result enjoyed the game.

The field was soggy and slippery. Harvard played an individual game, but a tremendously plucky one. For all that, it was ineffective, because lacking in team qualities. It was this very thing that led to the game being rather unusually rough at one time.

Carlisle scored two touchdowns in the first half and two in the second, principally coming from forward passes of from five to thirty-five yards. Mount Pleasant, the little Indian quarter-back, made a run of eighty yards through the entire Harvard team for a touchdown.

Carlisle scored first, in about seven minutes, and no more than five minutes later Harvard returned the compliment by means of a good on-side kick by Newell. Once more the Indians scored through a forward pass and Harvard fighting gamely secured a field goal, which added four points to their score, after making a fair catch on the Indians' forty-yard line.

Then it was that the first half ended and there seemed to be a fair show for Harvard, but in the second the Indians cut loose, gaining in confidence every moment, and in spite of anything Harvard could do, the Indians won, 23 to 15.

PRINCETON CARLISLE

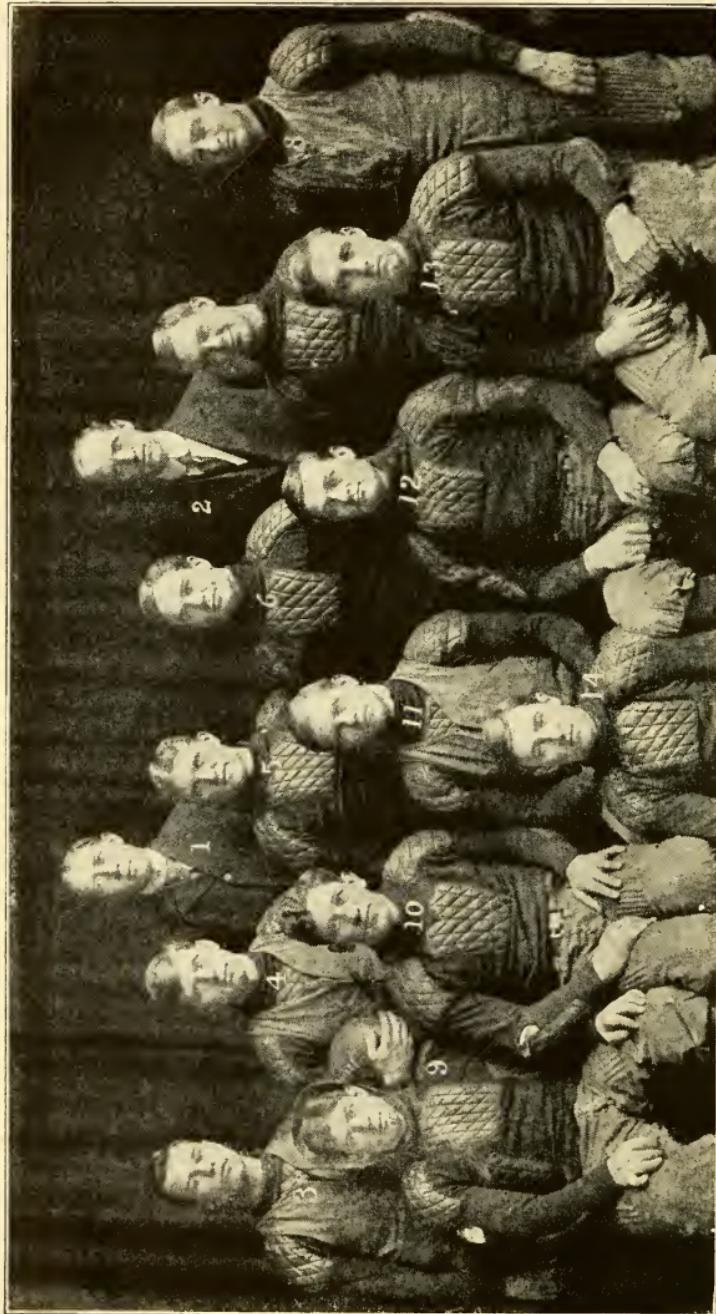

Princeton defeated the Indians on a wet day and greasy field in New York. It was an especial triumph for Princeton in that they had made a study of the Indians' game and particularly the effectiveness of Carlisle's forward passing for scoring. Hence Princeton's blocking of forward passes practically put out of commission anything like a scoring play by the Indians.

Meantime, the Tigers' own game was first class. They handled the wet ball splendidly and never let up in the determination of their attack. As the game progressed it became evident that unless Carlisle had something else to rely upon than the forward pass, there was no chance at all to win and very little chance to score. The result proved this, for Princeton ran up 16 points. Carlisle never crossing Princeton's goal or really being within dangerous striking distance.

CHICAGO MINNESOTA

One of the most important games in the Middle West was that between the University of Chicago and Minnesota. This was played at Northrop Field, Minneapolis, November 2.

A crowd of some 20,000 people watched a most interesting game.

An accident to the grandstand (coming from the sudden strain of the crowd at the time when DeTray of Chicago crossed the Minnesota goal line) promised a shocking catastrophe, but fortunately only one of the entire number of spectators on the defective stand was seriously injured.

The game was a most exciting one at times, the Chicago backs being particularly strong at ground gaining, but Capron of Minnesota being a dangerous factor in kicking, the first score coming from this clever young man, who made a field goal from the twenty-yard line. Then a long run by Page, Chicago's right end of half the length of the field, put the visitors in the lead, Page kicking the goal and making the score 6 to 4. Once more Capron came to the front by dropping a kick from the forty-five-yard line on to the cross bar of Chicago's goal, from which it bounded over, putting Minnesota once more in the lead with a score of 8 to 6, and the first half ended with no change.

The game had not gone far into the second half when Chicago scored again, DeTray getting the ball from a forward pass. Page kicked the goal, making the score Chicago 12, Michigan, 8, and once more transferring the lead. This seemed somewhat to take the heart out of the Minnesota team and a little later on a good forward pass by Steffen to DeTray enabled the Chicago captain to score once more, giving Chicago practically a commanding lead of 18 to 8. But Capron of Minnesota had not yet finished and before the game was over he succeeded, after getting the ball on a forward pass, in kicking a field-kick goal from the thirty-yard line, bringing Minnesota's score up to 12. But here it remained and the most exciting game, in which the lead had alternated in a startling fashion, ended with a score of 18 to 12 in Chicago's favor.

MICHIGAN VANDERBILT

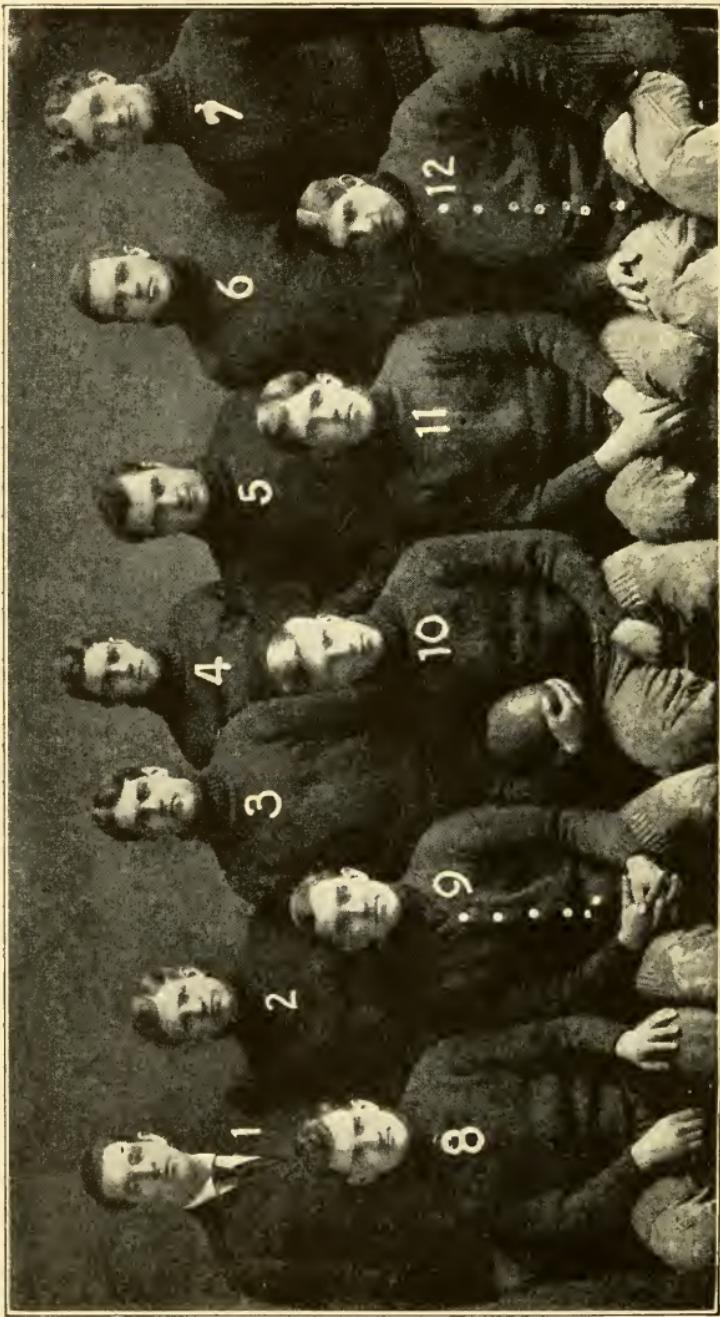

while saying little, had faith in Captain Blake and his team. Failure to handle punts successfully proved Vanderbilt's undoing, for outside of that the play was very even, and Costan's running back of punts in the second half, especially good. Graham of Michigan succeeded in getting the first score by means of a goal from placement. Vanderbilt's defense having proved so strong that it was useless to try to get across the goal line. Again, a little later on, from practically Vanderbilt's fifteen-yard line, Graham kicked another goal from placement, and this total of eight was all the scoring of the game.

CARLISLE MINNESOTA

and showed excellent ability in diagnosing plays and in handling the general tactics of the game so that although the final score was 12 to 10 in favor of the Indians, the game was extremely close.

The two touchdowns which came to Carlisle were secured by Exdine making long runs after forward passes. Minnesota scored once with a run four-fifths the length of the field by Chestnut, their left end, after Carlisle had fumbled up in Minnesota's goal. Minnesota's other score was early in the game and was secured by a good field-kick goal by Capron, who had several other opportunities, trying no less than six times in all, but securing but one goal.

The Carlisle Indians' game on Northrop Field, Minneapolis, on November 16, was a most instructive one. Minnesota had had some time to study out the method of play of the Indians

Carlisle making use of the same style of play which had proven so effective against Pennsylvania and Harvard, but which had failed against Princeton, defeated Chicago at Chicago.

The general play of the Indians in this game was good and the character of their attack was better rounded out than in some of their earlier games. Chicago struggled manfully against the superior work of the Indians, but could not stem the tide, and the final score was 18 to 4.

WISCONSIN MINNESOTA

This proved an unusually interesting game and one worthy of record. It was played on Camp Randall Field, Madison, November 23. Minnesota won the toss and chose the east goal. Wisconsin proved the stronger on line plunges and general work outside the kicking department, and very soon had a touchdown which was converted into a goal. Then the tables were turned and Minnesota finally sent Dunn, their full-back, over for a touchdown, but failure to kick the goal left the score, Wisconsin 6, Minnesota 5. Wisconsin soon had the ball going again and on a triple pass reached Minnesota's one-yard line, from which point they easily pushed their right half over for another touchdown, which was converted into a goal. This made the score 12 to 5, in favor of Wisconsin. Minnesota, after a succession of forward passes, attempted a field goal, in which Capron succeeded making the score 12 to 9. After some more forward passes, Capron was called upon once more, and from the forty-five yard line made another field goal, thus putting Minnesota in the lead, 13 to 12. Here some good end running on Wisconsin's part carried the ball up to Minnesota's five-yard line, where again their right half-back went over for a touchdown. This time, however, Messmer, who was doing the kicking for Minnesota, failed to convert it, leaving the score 17 to 13 in Wisconsin's favor at the end of the first half. It certainly seemed as if the see-saw had ended and Wisconsin had secured the lead, but in the next half Capron once more came to the front for Minnesota with a field goal from the forty-yard line, thus tying the score—17 to 17. Time was soon called thereafter, putting an end to one of the most remarkable and exciting games of the year.

Middle States Foot Ball

BY GEORGE W. ORTON, UNIVERSITY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

The Middle States last year proved that the standard of play throughout their part of the country is fully up to that of any other section of the United States, New England alone vieing with them for excellence of performance. Such teams as Pennsylvania, Princeton, Carlisle, Annapolis, Swarthmore, Lafayette, State, Western University of Pennsylvania, and Washington and Jefferson may be duplicated in the New England States, but not beaten. As usual, we shall leave the ranking of Princeton and Pennsylvania to the critics, merely stating that the majority of writers in their summaries of the season placed these teams second to Yale in ranking the teams of the East. The great work of these two elevens, and the high standard of play which they exhibited in their final games, should be credited to this district, were any comparison of districts to be made.

The 1907 season was most interesting throughout the Middle States. The general standard of play, due to the new rules as much as anything else, was higher. A greater knowledge of the game was shown, which is a good augury for future continued excellence throughout the Middle States. Besides the members of the "Big Four" (Princeton and Pennsylvania spoken of above), there were some really remarkable teams in this district. Carlisle, Swarthmore and Annapolis played ball that was distinctly first class in every department of the game. At their best they were worthy rivals of any teams in the country, as was shown by the actual results in the games played. Carlisle beat both Harvard and Pennsylvania, Annapolis was barely beaten by Harvard and won from the Army team, while Swarthmore played a high class game all season and defeated Annapolis. For some years the ranking of these three teams has been difficult. This year, on performances, the order should be Carlisle, Swarthmore, Annapolis.

Carlisle had a remarkable team. They had a very hard schedule, requiring much traveling. In addition, the games were all played practically in their opponents' territory, but with it all they registered defeats against Harvard, Pennsylvania, Syracuse, State, Bucknell, Villanova, Chicago, the Western champions, and Minnesota, the runners-up for the Western title. The defeat of the Western champions by Carlisle and Pennsylvania's victory over Michigan proved rather conclusively that the West have yet a little to learn from the effete East. Princeton was the only team that defeated Carlisle. This was done in the midst of a pouring rain, which just suited the heavy Princetonians, and was exactly the worst condition possible for a team that had brought the modern game up to its highest state of development, the backbone of whose play was quickness rather than strength, an ability to use the forward pass and a versatility of attack that was bewildering. Those who saw the Carlisle Indians play noted that they took greater advantage of the new rules than almost any other team in the country. They played a very open game, being very successful with the forward pass and also in scoring goals from the field. Mt. Pleasant again showed himself a wonderful quarter-punter and handler of punts. Hauser proved to be a fine line plunger and great field goal kicker from placement. Exdine and Gardner, as ends, excelled as receivers of forward passes and in general end work. Last season was probably the best Carlisle has ever had and the team the best she has ever produced. Considering the handicap of traveling and strange grounds, it is a question whether any other team in the country could have made an equally good showing for the same schedule. Carlisle must be ranked high in the list of American teams.

In the absence of any other determining cause, Swarthmore's 18 to 0 victory over Annapolis gives her second place in the Middle States colleges. This is said with a knowledge of the fact that when Annapolis met Swarthmore the Navy players were in a rather crippled condition. Swarthmore played good ball all season, her greatest slump being in her most important game against Cornell. The heavy Cornell line revelled in the mud and atoned for their defeat of the previous year by defeating the Quakers, 18 to 0. But victories over Annapolis, Gettysburg, Villa Nova and Bucknell made up a season of high class ball. When Pennsylvania was played, the team was rather disorganized by the loss of their captain, W. F. Krueger, whom typhoid fever kept out of the game for the rest of the season. Millman and Rowlands proved giants in the line, while O'Brien when at his best played a very brilliant game at quarter in running the team, handling the ball and in punting and drop-kicking.

Annapolis ranks very close to Swarthmore. Barring this one defeat, her season was the best she has ever had. Harvard's 6 to 0 win was really a victory for the Navy. Lafayette, West Virginia, State, Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and finally the Army fell before the sturdy sons of Old Neptune. Captain Douglas played a fine game all season at half-back and with Dague, left end, well deserved to be chosen—as they were—by many foot ball critics for their All-America selection.

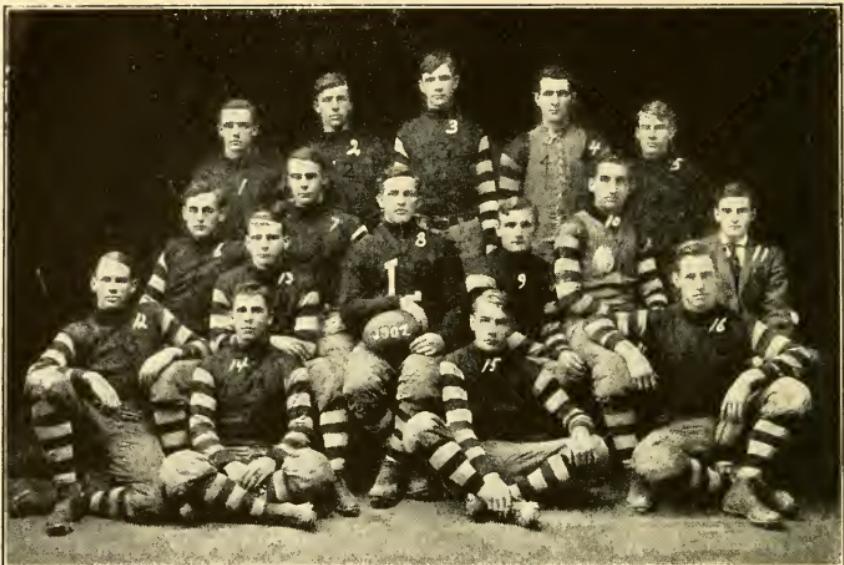

Lafayette, though not quite up to her general standard, should be ranked next. Annapolis and Pennsylvania defeated her, but she scored victories over Bucknell, Colgate, Ursinus, and her old rival, Lehigh, and tied the heavy Syracuse team in a 4 to 4 game. The Eastonians played good ball and showed great knowledge of the modern game.

Washington and Jefferson, Western University of Pennsylvania and State College were practically on a par. If it were possible to separate them, it would be necessary to place them as above. Washington and Jefferson had the best team in its history. They played good ball all season. Though defeated by Yale, they gave the Elis a very stiff argument. Morrow at center and Kerberger at guard tore up the Yale line for many first downs. Kimber, in the game with the Western University of Pennsylvania, averaged forty-two yards in his kicks.

Had the Western University of Pennsylvania not been beaten by Washington and Jefferson they would be placed next to Lafayette. They were defeated also by Cornell, but won all their other games, finishing the season by a great victory over State College, 6 to 0. A feature of the game with Cornell was that at the end of the first half, W. U. P. was ahead, 5 to 0. But they weakened in the second half and Cornell scored 18 points. Last year we commented on the great improvement in standard of play for this team. Their play during the last season proves that this was not merely a flash in the pan, but that from now on Western University of Pennsylvania must be reckoned with.

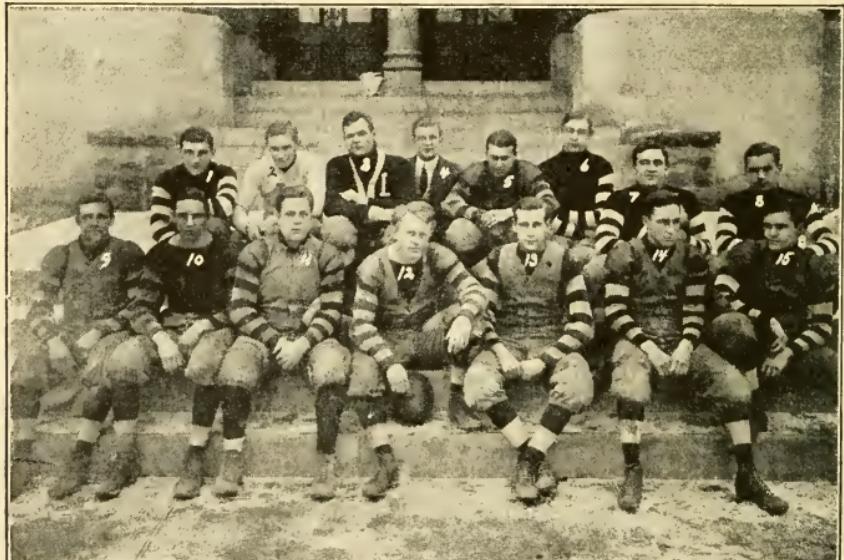

State was not quite so formidable as the year before. She reached her best condition in the middle of the season, gaining a most notable victory over Cornell, 8 to 6, and then trouncing Dickinson, 55 to 0. Penn then beat her 28 to 0, Annapolis followed by 6 to 4 and W. U. P. by 6 to 0. Her game with Annapolis, coming as it did when the Navy was in great form, showed much strength.

Of the other colleges of the Middle States, Haverford again showed an increase in ability. They had the best season for many years, beating their greatest rivals, Lehigh and Rutgers. Lehigh, though defeated by Haverford, showed the best ball in the game with Lafayette that any Lehigh team had played since 1903. The score in the Lafayette game does not indicate the closeness of the contest, for though Lafayette won, 22 to 5, Lehigh actually made a larger number of first downs. Villa Nova had a very hard schedule. On their showing, they would probably rank after State. They showed much cleverness in using the forward pass, scoring on Princeton with this play. Gettysburg was not so good as in 1906, though they defeated Franklin and Marshall and held Swarthmore to a 12 to 0 score. Dickinson was beaten on many occasions, but they hope to be strong this year, as they retain practically all their old players.

Of the Southern minor colleges, barring Annapolis, which outranks them all, the St. John's College of Annapolis and the Western Maryland College divided the honors.

AMONG THE MIDDLE STATES SCHOOLS.

The struggle for honors among the different schools of the Middle States was just as fierce as among the colleges. Though Hill and Mercersburg did not meet, on the season's records Hill had the advantage. They went through the season undefeated, scoring victories over Tome, Hotchkiss, Conway Hall, Peddie and the Penn Freshmen. They were not a fast scoring team, but had a great defense.

Mercersburg Academy had a good season, defeating Lawrenceville and Wyoming Seminary among others, but being beaten by the Penn Freshmen and tieing Conway Hall, both of which teams were beaten by Hill School. Much of the strength of the Mercersburg team lay in the remarkable playing of Stipp, their giant full-back.

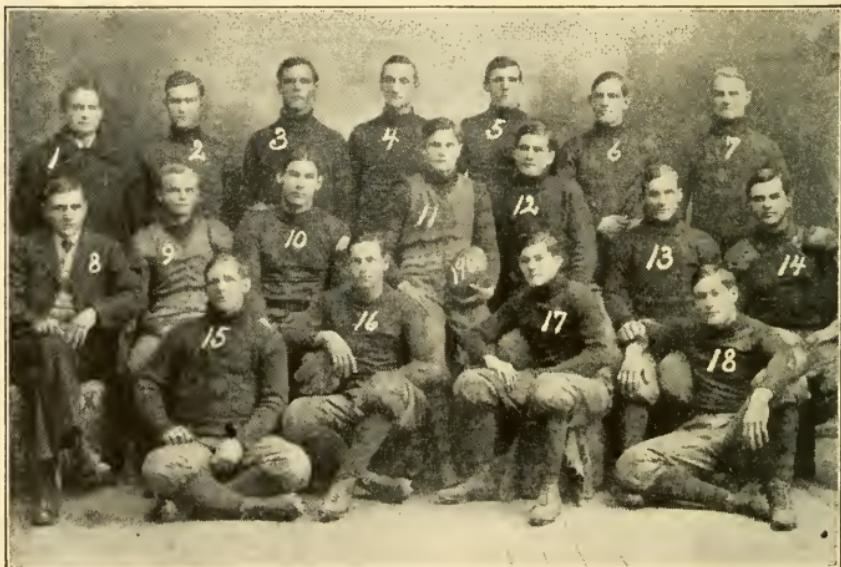

Tome Institute had the best season in their history, beating Lawrenceville, 16 to 10, and being beaten by Hill, 6 to 0, only after a great struggle.

It would be impossible to rank all the school teams of the Middle States. Villa Nova Prep had a most excellent season, beating Haverford School. Lawrenceville was not quite up to her former standard. Haverford maintained the pace she has set for the past two years, her one surprise being the defeat just mentioned by Villa Nova. Conway Hall, Dickinson Seminary and Williamson School made excellent showings in their districts, while Montclair Military Academy and Centenary Collegiate Institute were the best of the New Jersey schools, ranking even with Lawrenceville. Of the Philadelphia schools, Central High School was the best. They went through the season undefeated and by their victories over the best high school teams of Brooklyn, New York, Washington and Baltimore they proved conclusively that they were by far the best high school team in the Middle States. They should rank on a par with Hill School. Penn Charter, Central Manual and North East Manual kept up their high standard, while Episcopal Academy played the best ball in her career, winning a well fought victory over her greatest rival, Penn Charter.

Foot Ball in New England

BY JOSEPH B. PENDLETON, BOSTON (BOWDOIN '90)

Foot Ball most certainly came into its own the past season in the estimation of a sport-loving public. Good, wholesome regard for clean sport, the desire to play the game fair and yet hard was shown on many a gridiron. College men above all others are firm believers in fair play. "May the best team win" is the desire more and more each year, and the old battle cry of "Win at any cost" is scarcely heard. The undergraduates and alumni now leave the field cheering their team after a defeat, with a display of college spirit that was unknown ten years ago. It is still just as sweet to know the joys of victory but that victory must be well earned and no stain of foul play or unsportsmanlike act must mar it.

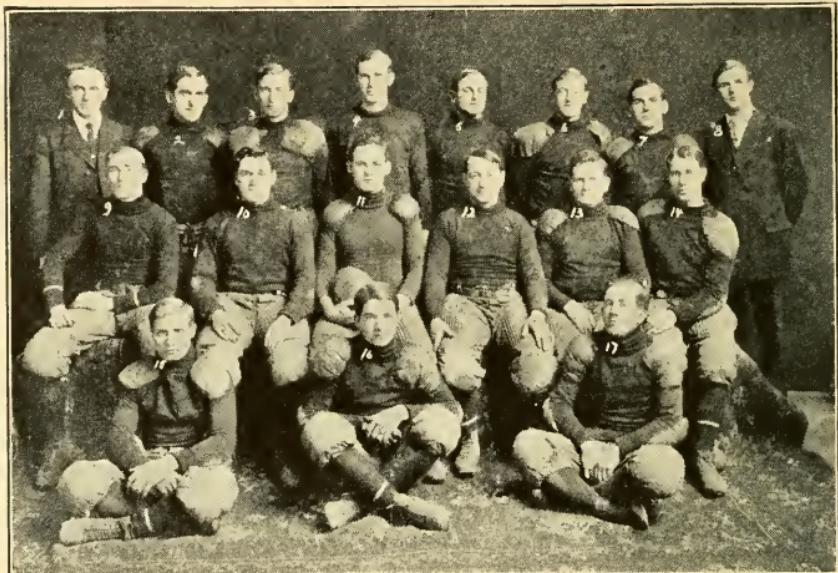

Harvard and Yale coming under the heading (more mythical each year) of the "Big Four" will be fully attended to by others, and the province of this article is to deal as fairly as possible with the other New England colleges.

Dartmouth is the one we naturally turn to first, because of its decisive victory over Harvard. There may be other victories in store for the green-stocking, stocky lads from Hanover, but I doubt if any game will ever equal that of 1907. Their whole season had been planned with this one game in view. This was to make or mar their record. Amherst showed Dartmouth a few weaknesses, but even this game proved how strong she was when she had the ball, and the score of 15 to 10 did not properly represent the ratio of power. Holy Cross, with an average team, found Dartmouth "on her way," and 52 to 0 showed that though Coach O'Connor did not want to show his hand there was no slowing down such a bunch of athletes once they got started. The first half of the Harvard game was nearly over before Dartmouth commenced to extend herself and open up her fast and powerful offense, and when it ended 0 to 0, few there were who did not feel that it was to be Dartmouth's day. The final score of 22 to 0 may not have fairly represented the difference in strength between the two teams, and an element of luck may, and probably did creep in, but that is Foot Ball.

Brown, with one of the best teams in recent years, gave Yale and Pennsylvania the sort of practice they like but dread. They realize each year that Brown knows the game and has plays that move and are ever dangerous, to the point of winning. With a well-earned victory over Harvard within their grasp, it was bitter to see the results of a well-played game offset by a forward pass, that only a defeated team would dare to use, and when the goal was kicked it left Harvard a victor 6 to 5. Brown closed the season with an 18 to 0 victory over Amherst, wishing that it was a Dartmouth game, for there the natural rivalry exists and always will.

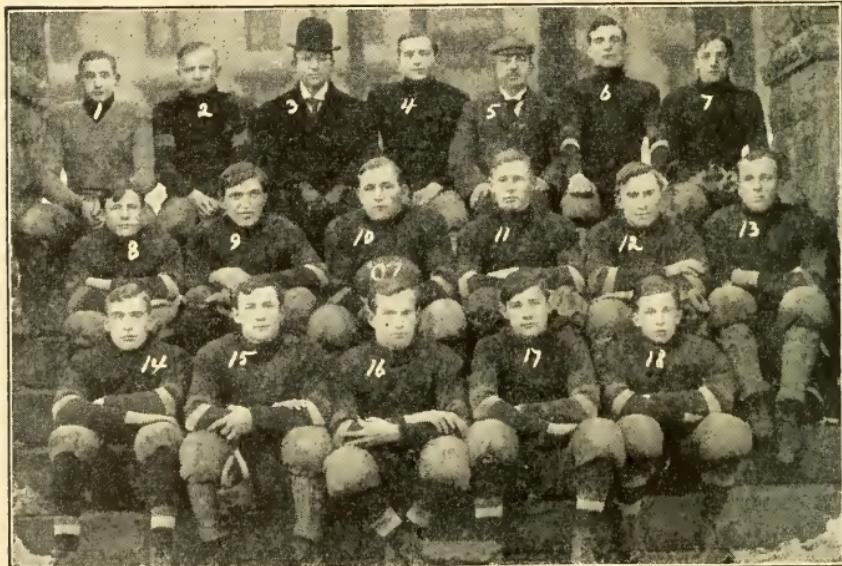

Williams had a good eleven, but did not strike her gait until the Amherst game. On paper these two teams seemed fairly well matched, Williams excelling in offense, while the Amherst defense had been tested and found not wanting at Princeton the week before. No greater surprise was ever given Amherst than this game offered, a 26 to 6 defeat was something beyond her comprehension.

Amherst reached the height of her form in the Princeton game. Her offense was fair, but the defense she showed at Old Nassau was something good to see, and the fair-minded Princeton men cheered her again and again. Harlan's wonderful drop-kicking furnished the only points scored until the last minute of play, when one touchdown was made. The defeat by Williams seemed to take the heart out of the men, and in the Brown game things broke badly from the start, and only the wonderful kicking of Shattuck prevented a larger score than resulted, 18 to 0.

Foot Ball in Maine was at fever heat, the teams were very evenly matched, Maine, Colby and Bates seemed just as strong as Bowdoin, and some thought even stronger. Bowdoin, barely beating Bates and Colby, went into their Maine game with a characteristic determination. Maine scored first, and no greater incentive could have been found to arouse the Bowdoin men. With a whirlwind attack, with plays executed as never before, she swept the powerful Maine team one side and was not to be stopped until she had rolled up 34 points.

Andover and Exeter! College men throughout the world are ever interested in their contests. Oxford and Cambridge, Harvard and Yale, none of them excel these two for arousing intense enthusiasm. The men are well drilled, powerful and alert. The same class attend these contests as view the Harvard-Yale game, and the undergraduates being somewhat younger, are even more enthusiastic. For the past two years Andover had been returned the winner, and last season Exeter had made unusual plans for a victory. With as fine a lot of material as one could wish, well drilled, she certainly had reason to expect something else than what she received. But Andover is Andover, and you can never beat her by being as good as she is. You must be about fifty per cent better, for she rises to the occasion and like a cyclone sweeps all before her. When the game was nearly over and the score stood 9 to 6 against her, Exeter came to life and played as she should have earlier in the game. The power was there, also the plays and men to carry them out, but it seems as though for the greater part of the contest they had been lost in wonder and admiration at the wonderful speed and pluck of the Andover team.

It is utterly impossible to select an All-New England team that meets with every one's approval. Many good men must of necessity be left off. The men mentioned below seem to me to possess all the requirements for playing the new game as it should be played. Harvard and Yale are of course not considered, as they rightly belong in another group. Many players not mentioned are as strong as those selected, but the chosen team most certainly is not weak.

Middle Western Foot Ball

BY JAMES M. SHELDON,

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS UNIVERSITY OF INDIANA.

In order to understand the outcome of the Foot Ball season of 1907 in the Middle West, it may be well to briefly review certain conditions that materially affected the result for this section.

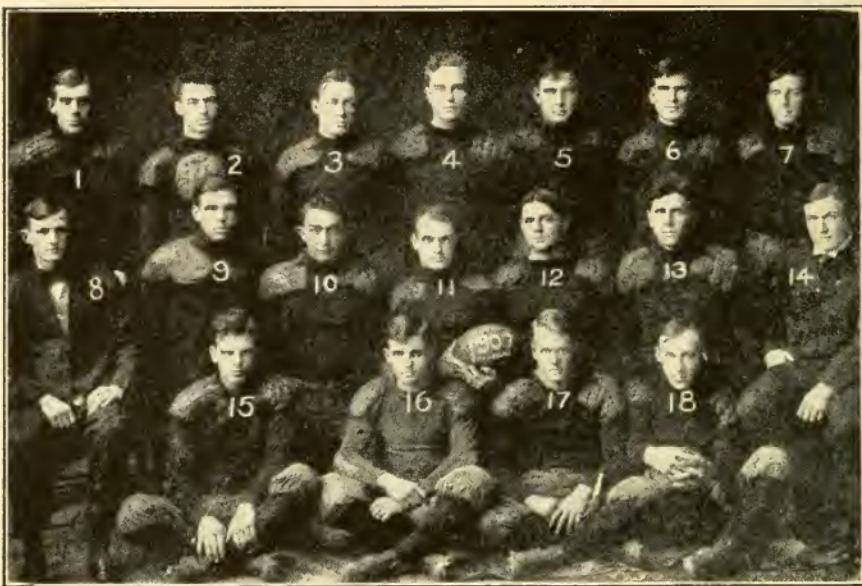

The great American game of Foot Ball had a real fight for existence following the close of the season of 1905. The game was caught up in the general reform movement that swept the country at that time and as a result many changes and modifications were introduced.

The attack upon the sport was particularly bitter in the Middle West, the territory comprising the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa. As a result of this continued agitation the leading universities of this district, namely, Michigan, Illinois, Chicago, Indiana, Purdue, Northwestern, Iowa, Minnesota, and Wisconsin, making up that organization known as the "Big Nine," called a conference in January of 1906, at which many radical reforms were proposed, of which the abolishment of the training table; the elimination of preliminary practice; the reduction of the number of games to five; making the three-year rule retroactive in its operation after the season of 1906, and the barring of freshmen from competition, were the most important. At a later conference, in March of the same year, the recommendations proposed in the January meeting were formally passed. Indeed, the entire abolishment of the sport was urged by some of the members of this organization, and, as a matter of fact, Northwestern did temporarily suspend the game.

At the same time the reorganized Rules Committee enacted many changes in the playing code, the effect of which would of necessity materially alter the old style of play. Such innovations as the forward pass, requiring ten yards to be made in three downs, and the "on-side kick" were changes calculated to please the most radical. Naturally, the brand of Foot Ball that would be produced in 1906 was a most uncertain quantity. However, the judgment of the Rules Committee in making the changes they did was admirably borne out by the outcome of the season's play. Requiring a team to make ten yards in three downs resulted in an open system of play, which, to the ordinary spectator, was much more enjoyable. Further, the number of injuries decreased in a marked degree.

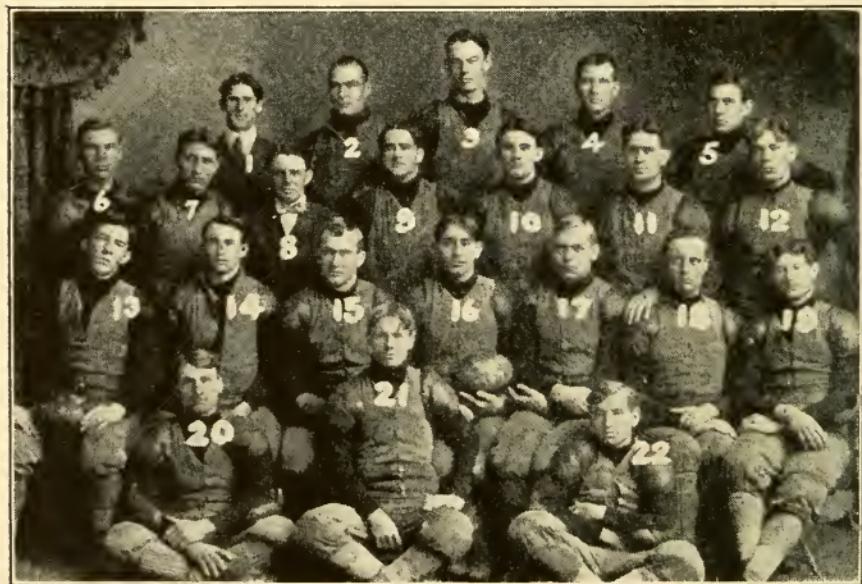

During the Foot Ball season of 1906 and after its close the agitation against the game among the faculties of the various universities of this district had subsided to a very marked degree. They recognized the fact that in the main the game had been put on a sane and safe basis. At the annual fall meeting of the Western Conference Colleges late in November of 1906, and again in the spring of 1907, two attempts were made by several members of the "Big Nine" to modify some of the restrictions which that body had enacted. These were: Proposing to re-establish the training table, to increase the number of games to be played to seven, and to avoid the retroactive feature of the three-year rule. These efforts met with failure, the conference being of the opinion that the reforms inaugurated had not been given a sufficient trial up to this time.

The rule limiting the period of a student's competition to three years, and making that rule retroactive so as to exclude in their senior year men who played as freshmen, was particularly harsh, and eminently unfair. The University of Michigan continued the agitation against this rule, and later, when the conference refused to make a change in this regard, withdrew entirely from the "Big Nine." This move on the part of Michigan was in itself sufficient to take away considerable of the interest in Western Foot Ball in 1907.

Inasmuch as Michigan was instrumental in bringing about the "reform movement" in Middle Western Foot Ball, it is to be regretted that she was not willing to take the consequences of the rules enacted, along with the other members of the conference. But her withdrawal from Western athletics is a distinct loss, and it is to be hoped that she will shortly return to competition against her natural rivals.

The Foot Ball season of 1907 opened with considerable promise to the lovers of the game. After one year's trial, both coaches and players alike had accustomed themselves to the changes that had been made in the playing rules. It was apparent to almost every one that the new style game had come to stay, and the coaches generally attempted much more in the way of open play than had been the rule during the previous year. Some of the teams still clung to more or less of the old fashioned play, with the result that those playing the new game were uniformly successful.

In the matter of material all the teams were under a heavy handicap, the freshmen being barred from competition, and the seniors lost because of the retroactive three-year rule, the feature that was largely responsible for Michigan's defection. It is unquestionably a fact that the standard of Middle Western Foot Ball for the season of 1907 was considerably lower than in the years preceding the reform movement. But the wonder is that it was so good, considering the small quantity of material which the coaches had to draw upon.

However, there were a number of interesting games during the year, the one for the championship of the West between Minnesota and Chicago, played on the former's grounds, attracting the most attention. Chicago won the game, largely through the use of the forward pass, giving one of the prettiest exhibitions of the year of the possibilities of that play. Minnesota relied for her scores largely upon the drop-kicking of that wonderful player, Capron, and his frequent attempts at this play, three of which were successful, made the game close and exciting throughout.

Minnesota also played a good game against the Indians, but in the end was compelled to bow to the superiority of the red men. After the Indian game Minnesota experienced a decided slump, as she was held to a tie by Wisconsin in her last game of the season. It must be said to Wisconsin's credit that she played excellent Foot Ball in this game, by far the best that she played during the year.

Chicago's other notable contest was with the Indians and she suffered a bad defeat. At no time did she show the strength and versatility of attack exhibited in her other contests of the year. Besides Chicago and Minnesota, the other members of the conference played rather inconsistent Foot Ball. For instance, Illinois beat Wisconsin in a very decisive manner, and in turn was beaten by Iowa. Wisconsin went down to Iowa City and beat out the Hawkeyes in the closest sort of a finish. All of which shows the utter worthlessness of comparative scores.

The outlook for the season of 1908 is more promising. The conference committee at its annual meeting in June extended the playing schedule, allowing its members to play seven games instead of five, as was the case the past two years. This will provide for practice games, impossible under last year's limited schedule, and will result in an improvement in the grade of Foot Ball. The increased number of games has also made it practical to arrange more attractive schedules than was possible under the old order. Besides, the coaches will have much better material to work with, as last year's freshman class will be available for this season. And further, with the experience gained by two years use of the new rules and the development in the way of new plays and formations which may be expected this year, we shall undoubtedly see a higher grade of Foot Ball played in the Middle West than we have enjoyed since 1905.

Foot Ball in the Middle West in 1907 was anything but satisfactory, the reform schedules failing to sustain the interest. There was but one big game in Chicago, that of the Maroons against Carlisle. Michigan had but one big game at home, its clash with Pennsylvania, and Minnesota's one important contest was with Chicago at Minneapolis.

The selection of an All-Western team, however, has been a matter of personal opinion more than ever before. Out of a possible eleven, six men—namely, Schulz, Van Hook, Hammond, DeTray, Capron, and Steffen—were chosen by practically every critic who has picked an All-Western team.

The game under the new rules has developed wonderfully since 1906, this applying particularly to Chicago under Director Stagg. This coach has worked out nearly all the possibilities of the new game. It has been a season of disappointments and surprises, however, for both players and spectators.

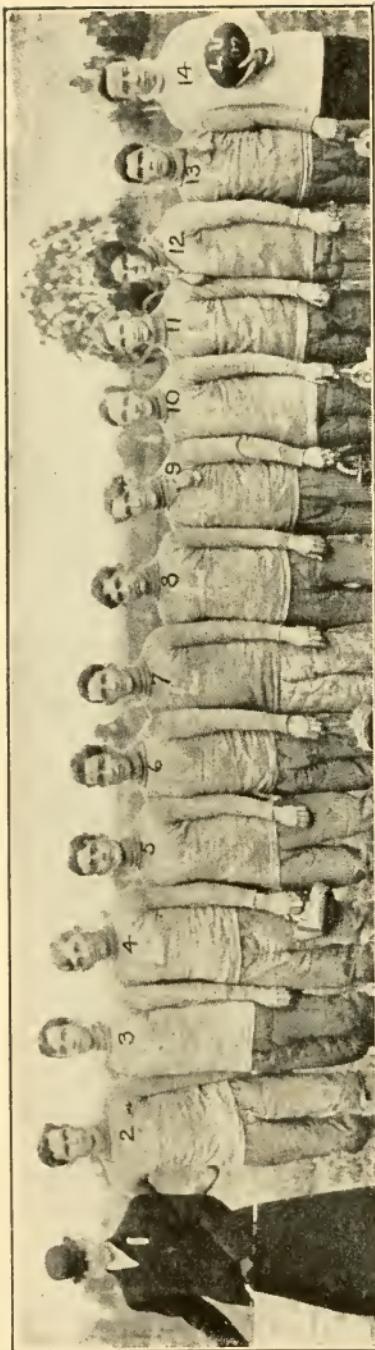

Michigan wanted to win from her Eastern rival, Pennsylvania, but had to be content with a 6—0 defeat. The Carlisle game was the engagement for which Chicago had been pointed, but this was a frightful disappointment to every one, Steffen's drop-kick being the only score Chicago was able to negotiate, while Carlisle had a comparatively easy time in running up eighteen points.

Minnesota, after her excellent work in holding the crafty Indians to a 12—10 score, journeyed to Madison and was fairly outplayed by the Wisconsin team, and it took three drop-kicks by the wonderful Capron to turn defeat into a 17—17 tie.

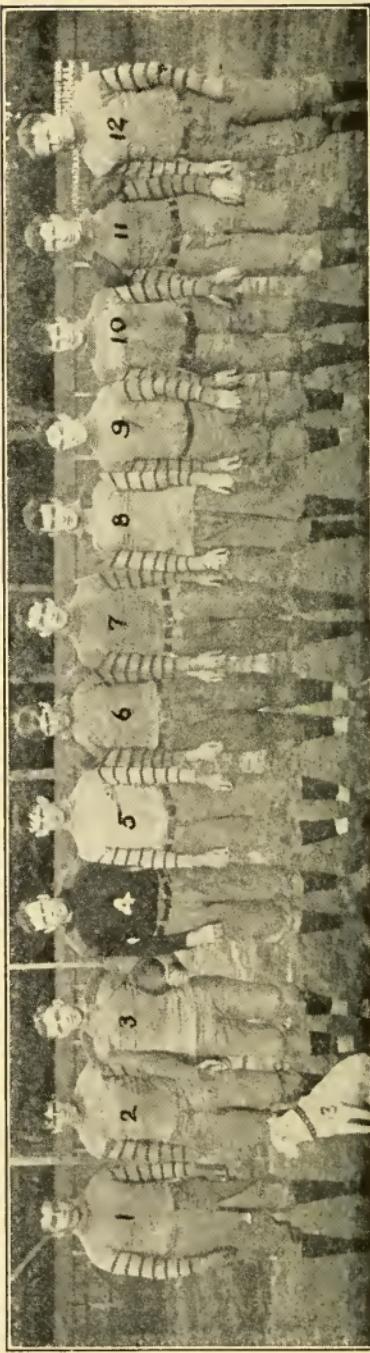

It seems to be the consensus of opinion that five games were not enough to bring out the best foot ball of the players on the teams working under the conference rules, and a modification of the law governing the number of games to be played alone will give the students and spectators what they want. Several of the faculty bodies seem opposed to this rule, but just why no one is able to determine. Devotees of foot ball are willing to compromise on seven games.

One thing is certain, interest in the college game in the West during the season just closed can not be compared with the enthusiasm displayed two years ago before the five-game rule went into effect.

The picking of an All-Western foot ball team for 1907 was simple in many particulars. Most of the men selected are head and shoulders above their nearest rivals. It is doubtful, for instance, if the West will ever see a player who can equal the record of Capron as a drop-kicker. Steffen as quarter is a star of the first magnitude. Schulz at centre and Van Hook as guard are in a class by themselves when compared with others playing similar positions.

There has been a very noticeable dearth of good ends. Hammond of Michigan has universal call at end, by virtue of the star playing he has done in all the games in which he has participated. He has everything that a good end should have. Yost has used Hammond a great deal in carrying the ball on trick plays and forward passes. Michigan's most reliable ground gainer in the crucial game with Pennsylvania was Hammond in end runs from a fake-kick formation.

For running mate to Hammond, Iddings of Chicago is selected, notwithstanding that his regular position has been half-back. This player is chosen on account of his natural foot ball ability and because no coach could or would overlook him for an end, with a back field of DeTray, Capron, Schuknecht, and Steffen intact. As a tackler, Iddings has no equal in the West except Hammond. He has a world of speed which he could use to excellent advantage in interference, and he is especially reliable in handling the ball on forward passes. Playing along with Doseff or Rheinschild, Iddings would prove his worth many times. As a defensive player he has been a tower of strength to Chicago,

Tackle positions are assigned to Rheinschild of Michigan and Doseff of Chicago. Rheinschild's work has been exceedingly high-grade all season and especially against Pennsylvania did he shine. Doseff has been the "find" of the year. He is deserving of all the credit given him by foot ball critics. Offensively and defensively, he is in every play. His forte is in smashing plays, getting down the field fast, and keeping his eye on the ball. Moreover, he has played consistently all season, of which few tackles can boast.

Case was not up to his 1905 form, but did very creditable work, and is given position on the second team. McGaughey of Indiana has served his eleven splendidly, and he also is given position on the second team.

As usual, VanHook has undisputed title to the first choice as guard. Although out of condition half the season, his ability and natural strength stamped him as a wonder. It is doubtful if the West has ever seen a better guard. Messmer is selected as his partner on account of his class as shown in all his games. He has been Wisconsin's hope and mainstay.

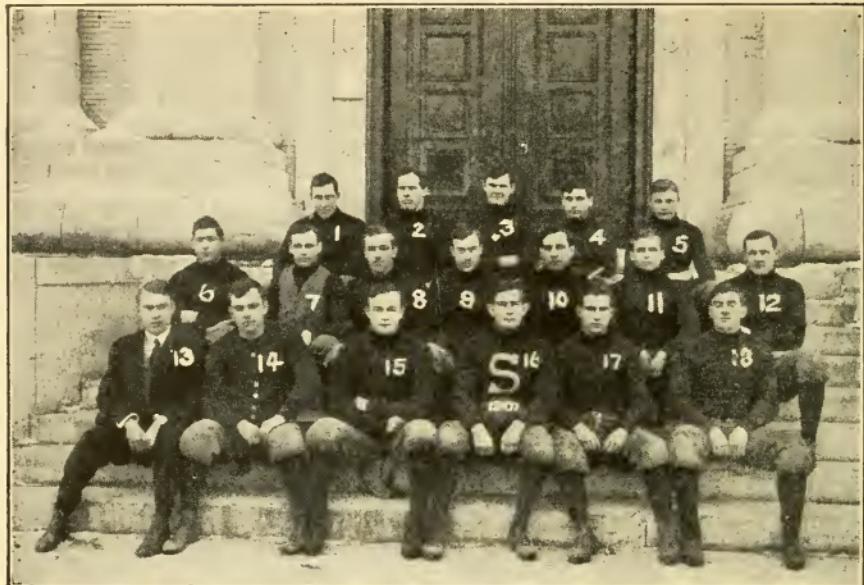

Concerning Schulz of Michigan nothing need be said. He clearly outshines every center in the West. Stiehm of Wisconsin comes nearest to him, and is given second place.

As half-backs, DeTray and Capron have first and universal call, DeTray for his all-around work and natural foot ball ability, and Capron for his drop-kicking skill. The latter is a wonder.

Schuknecht of Minnesota is given full-back position. He is rather the old style of player, hitting the line like Bezedek and Heston and seldom failing to make his distance. As a defensive player he has been very strong and heady. Magoffin of Michigan, Kirk of Iowa, and Dunn of Minnesota are all strong, aggressive players, and are chosen as back field for the second team, with Sinnock of Illinois quarter.

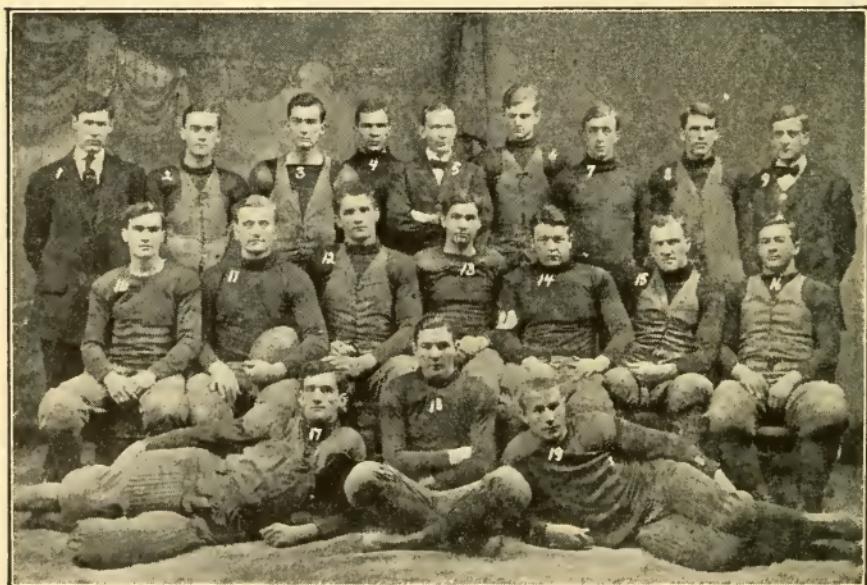

Walter Steffen naturally is chosen for quarter-back position on the first team. The coolness and all-around ability of this player are little short of marvelous. On the running back of punts through a broken field he has not an equal. Many place him ahead of Eckersall.

The above team is selected purely upon the work each individual player has done this season and not on past records or reputation. The line from end to end is fast and aggressive and of the stone-wall type. The two ends and entire back field are especially adapted to the new style of play.

Foot Ball in the Southwest

BY MYRON W. TOWNSEND, ST. LOUIS.

Sportsmen in the Southwest are taking very kindly to the new rules. Since the latter went into effect there has been an extraordinary revival of interest, because there is a feeling that the forward pass and on-side kick give the small colleges a chance and crowds of 10,000 and 15,000 spectators at the big matches are not uncommon.

St. Louis is the gridiron citadel of the Southwest. The chief Foot Ball powers in this territory are St. Louis University, Washington University, and Missouri (State) University.

In St. Louis popular approval of the great fall sport is universal. In summer the city is a "one sport" town. Base ball holds the center of the stage. Upon the arrival of the "brown October days," however, the fans transfer their allegiance to Foot Ball.

The activity of Coach Cochems, of St. Louis University, in perfecting the long-distance forward pass and in teaching the "open" game, has captured thousands of Foot Ball enthusiasts, who took little or no interest in the old game.

Forward passing is the feature of the game in the Southwest. "Brad" Robison, the lean and lanky St. Louis University back, as a long distance passer, has no superior. In competition, at Louisville, Robison threw the ball fifty-seven yards and defeated Iddings, the Chicago University crack. In a game his best throw is forty-eight yards, but in practice he is credited with hurling the leather sixty-eight yards. For shooting the ball long distances, Robison's extra size, bony hand is ideal. Southwestern coaches have discovered that no player with a small or even average sized hand can grasp the ball firmly enough to throw it long distances.

Until towards the close of the season of 1907 the majority of the coaches of the Southwest relied on old-fashioned Foot Ball. They were slow in grasping the possibilities of the forward pass, but are now making up for lost time. As a result, Foot Ball in this section is "open," spectacular and thrilling. Their pupils executed the pass-and-kick in such a bungling and inexpert manner that they usually lost the ball and seldom made gains.

The chief drawback to the progress of the new game in the Southwest has been this inability of the coaches to grasp the new Foot Ball. Having played only the old line bucking, close formation, game they were powerless when they attempted to impart the knowledge of "open" Foot Ball.

For two years St. Louis has run over all the teams in this section. Washington University, and Missouri University are at last on the road to first class teams. For several seasons Washington University has been a sore disappointment. Situated in the city of St. Louis, with magnificent buildings and equipment, including one of the finest athletic fields and gymnasiums in the West and a $6,000,000 endowment, yet the institution couldn't "get going" on the gridiron. Coach Blanchard, who was in charge of the team for two years, has been succeeded by Cayou, the Carlisle Indian player, who played at Illinois and who coached Wabash with considerable success for several seasons.

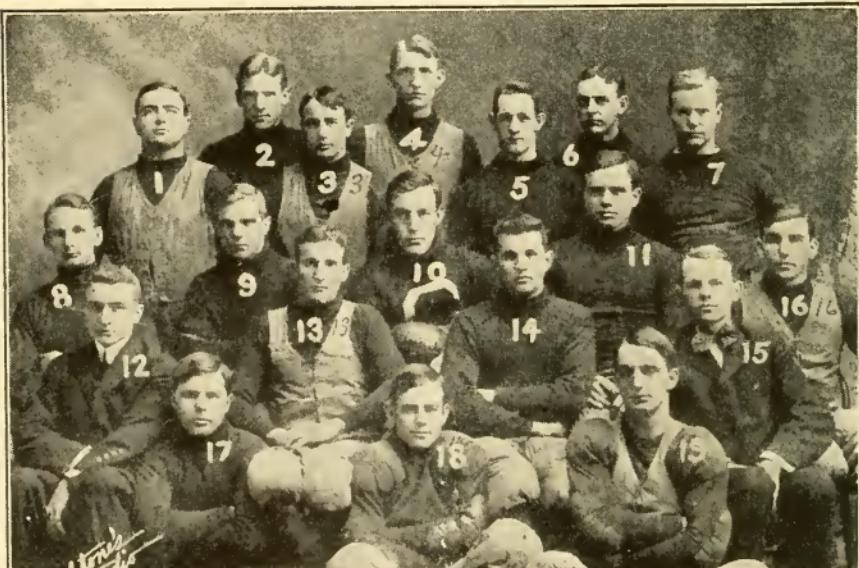

After the overwhelming 72 to 0 defeat of Washington by St. Louis University in the annual match influential alumni cast about for a new coach. Cayou brought the little Wabash team to St. Louis and, catching Cochems' men out of condition, defeated them 12 to 11. This opened the eyes of the Washington "grads" to the worth of Cayou and he was engaged.

in Foot Ball. The intention is to place teams on the field which will be a credit to a great university.

At Missouri University one series of Foot Ball disasters has followed another, one ray of sunshine being their defeat of Washington University, 27 to 0, in a hard-fought game. This victory was sweet solace for the defeats by Kansas and Iowa.

Missouri has steadfastly refused to meet St. Louis University and Washington has declined to schedule a game for the fall of 1908. Because the three leading colleges in this section do not play each other supremacy cannot be determined. Despairing of getting on games with Washington or Missouri, St. Louis University has taken on the spectacular Carlisle Indians for Thanksgiving day.

In the Southwest the important schools are observing the four-year and the freshman rules. While the schools differ in the minor details of their eligibility rules, yet in the main they are faithfully observing the amateur code.

Because of decisive defeats of Kansas, 17 to 0; Nebraska, 34 to 0, and Washington, 78 to 0, St. Louis won the championship. Although St. Louis has repeatedly challenged Michigan, Chicago, Wisconsin, and Minnesota for games these schools plead "too heavy schedules."

Unsuccessful efforts are being made yearly to form a Foot Ball league composed of the leading college teams of the Southwest, but so far the teams have refused to pool their interests and play each other.

Longman, the old Michigan back, was in charge of the Foot Ball affairs of Arkansas University. The Arkansaw Travelers went down to defeat before St. Louis University, 42 to 6. Catching Cochems' machine unawares Longman's men scored a touchdown on St. Louis University in the first five minutes of play. Being greatly outweighed, however, they could not maintain this advantage. Creighton, Drury, Shurtleff, Cape Girardeau, Millikin and Rolla School of Mines, had fast but light Foot Ball teams.

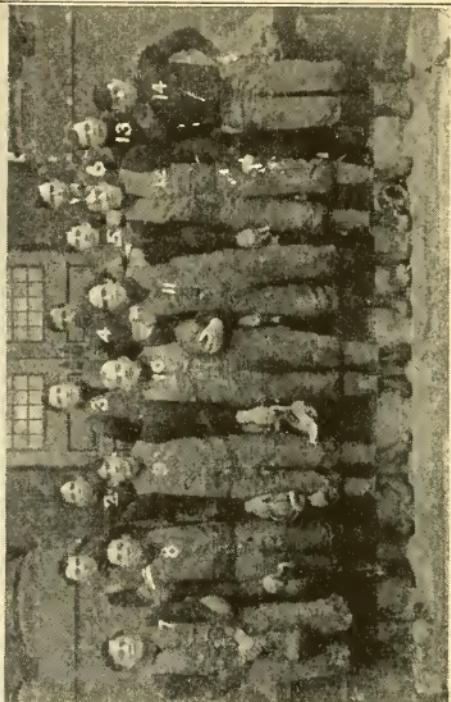

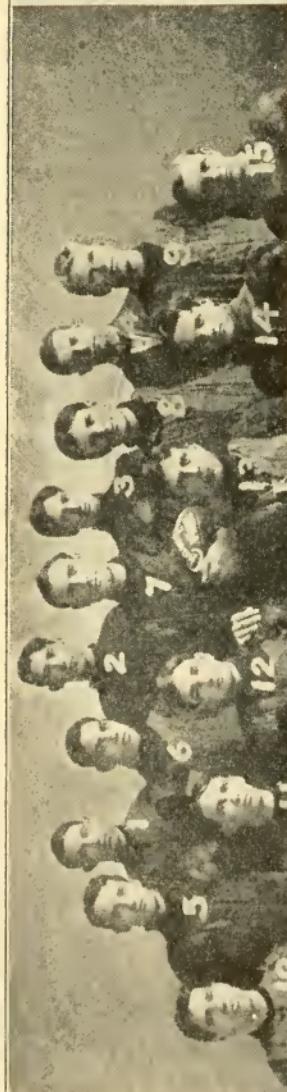

Several individual stars scintillated in this section. Frank Acker, the fleet half-back, and Brad Robison, the remarkable forward passer, were the feature players at St. Louis University. Tubby Graves, tackle, and Driver, end, set the field on fire on the Missouri University campus. Thomas of Washington was one of the best ends of the year. Brome of Creighton easily carried off the honors at quarter. Players in this section have been singularly free from serious injuries.

All in all the standard of play in the Southwest is improving rapidly. There isn't a cloud in the sky. The game is growing faster and faster and cleaner and cleaner. Unsportsmanlike tactics or offenses like playing "ringers" are frowned upon. The slogan of "sport for sport's sake" has taken deep root.

INTERSCHOLASTIC FOOT BALL.

The quality of interscholastic Foot Ball was high class. The schoolboys displayed remarkable avidity in picking up the fine points of the game. So thoroughly were the Central High School players imbued with knowledge of the new game that they could compete successfully against the average small college. Skill in execution and great speed were the chief characteristics of the team. Under Coach Mike Walker, they easily carried off the honors of the interscholastic league, displaying a diversity of style that was remarkable. So expert were Central's forward pass and on-side kick tactics that Walker's little light team walked away with its rivals, proving that brain and not brawn is the chief essential of the new game.

So brilliantly did Central High School lads grasp the possibilities of the forward pass that six of them made the All-Interscholastic first team. Three Smith Academy, one McKinley, and one Western Military Academy player complete the selection. Yeatman or Manual did not earn a position on the All-Interscholastic. In picking an ideal interscholastic eleven only right guard is open for argument. Bailey and Baker of Central and Schnell were the leading candidates. After carefully considering the merits of the trio, Bailey wins the place, with Schnell and Baker strong second choices. Hackney and Hall are the best ends who ever played in the Interscholastic League. Hackney was seventy-five per cent. of the playing strength of Western Military Academy. His regular position is quarter.

Schopp and Bailey are the guards. Magner of Central has been the star tackle of the league for two years. Calvin, McKinley's captain, earned the other tackle position. Magner was a marvel in breaking through the line. Hagar of Smith was the best of the quarters. As good a man as little Sparks of Central is, he is not in Hagar's class. Rozier, Smith, and Sherry and Lincoln, Central, formed a trio of backs never excelled in the history of interscholastic Foot Ball in St. Louis. As line plungers, dodgers and ground gainers they were wonders. McCarthy of Central at center completes the first team.

My selections for first and second interscholastic teams are as follows:

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE.

Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association Foot Ball

BY DAN E. MCGUGIN, VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY.

Heat and the comparatively small student attendance do not affect the enthusiasm with which Foot Ball is received in this association. The oval is kept as constantly in the air here, from September to December, by the college man, preparatory school lad and Young American on the commons, as in those parts where it would seem that outdoor exercise would be more alluring. The Dixie youth has fallen in love with Foot Ball, and fallen in love "hard," and he has been consistent and persistent long enough to be looked upon as a faithful devotee.

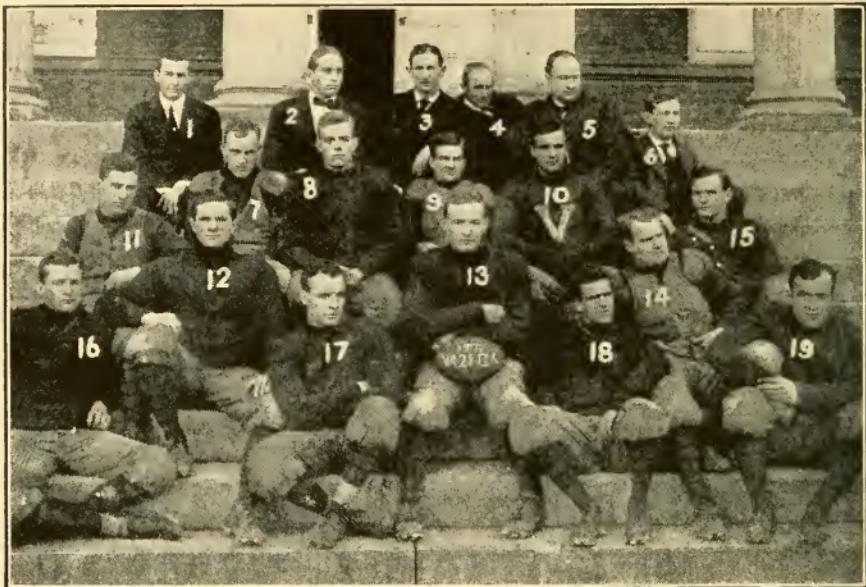

It can scarcely be overlooked, nowadays, that Foot Ball in the S.I.A.A. is of reasonably good quality. Of course, the teams generally do not rank with those of the big colleges of the North and East, but there is no longer such a difference. Very few of the colleges in Dixie have more than three hundred men. Nevertheless, for the past few years one or two of the colleges of this section have been of sufficient caliber to make it interesting for teams most anywhere. In 1906 Vanderbilt nosed out the Carlisle Indians, and in 1907, after a hard trip to Annapolis, held the Navy 6 and 6. In the latter season Sewanee journeyed to Norfolk and defeated Virginia with ease. The better comparative standing of teams in this association is due not only to the new game and the 10-yard rule, which gives the lighter team of the small college a chance, but also to the excellent condition of athletics in the many preparatory schools.

Again was the forward pass more popular than the on-side kick. Although the latter was often used, the former was tried as often as twenty-four times in a single game. The Southern athlete is not usually heavy and rugged, but tall, wiry and quick, and is therefore physically well adapted to the possibilities offered by the opening of the game.

Tennessee made greater strides in the season just closed than did any other S.I.A.A. eleven. For the past few years her teams have been meeting with poor success, but in 1907 this university was well represented by a fast and balanced squad. Sewanee, also, came up wonderfully. Georgia Technical opened the season with unusual prospects, but, through unusual misfortunes, her hopes faded away.

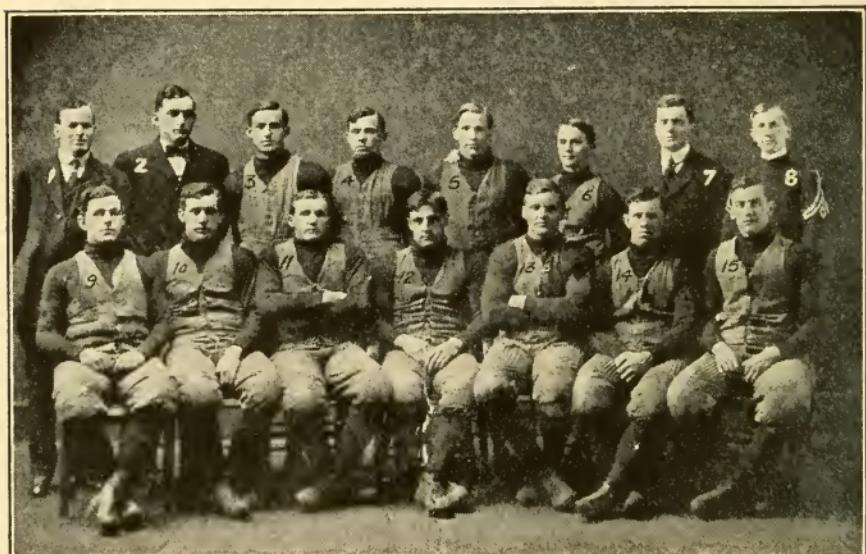

Sewanee and Vanderbilt were head and shoulders above the rest. It must be remarked in passing that the faculties of these two institutions have for years taken deep interest in athletics and have taken it upon themselves to know that the men who have represented them in contests have been worthy and well qualified as students and otherwise. Conditions, which have been a reproach to inattentive professors in other sections, have therefore not crept in. Hence, words like "protest" and "scandal" are unknown. The reform wave which struck others had no effect in most places throughout this association, because there was nothing to reform. To the credit of the faculties throughout the S.I.A.A. and to the well being of athletics in their respective institutions, it should be said that almost uniformly they are keeping closely in touch with conditions surrounding their young men joined together for intercollegiate sport.

While Sewanee was much more powerful than formerly, Vanderbilt was not as strong as in 1906, so that the annual contest between the two was very even. After an exceedingly hard-fought and spectacular struggle, throughout the most of which the Purple was one point ahead, Vanderbilt managed, late in the second half, by means of a forward pass, to win, 17 to 12.

The selection of a team for third place is unusually difficult, for at least six teams were very evenly matched. Tech won from Tennessee, Tennessee defeated Clemson and the latter vanquished Tech. Auburn beat Tech, who beat Georgia, who beat Auburn. If these teams are ranked therefore upon the basis of what they did in all of their contests, they should be placed about even.

The standing. First, Vanderbilt; second, Sewanee, a mighty good second; third, Tech, and the others in the order given, Clemson, Auburn, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana State University, Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical College, University of Mississippi, Mercer.

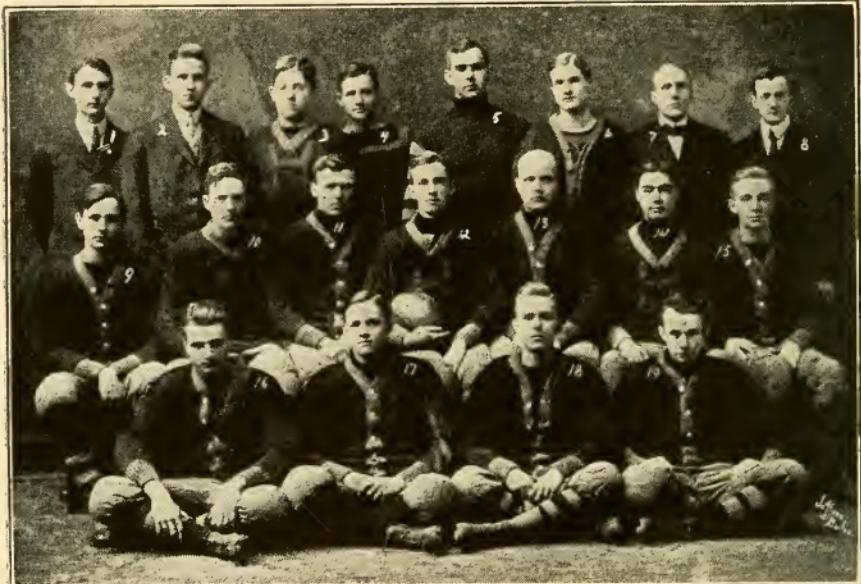

The selection of an All-S.I.A.A. team is made difficult because of the wide area of Foot Ball landscape. It is almost impossible for one man to see every team play, and even if he did, it would be difficult to form a very accurate opinion unless certain athletes outclassed the rest. There is a wealth of material for the tackle, end and half-back positions. Usually in the South there is better material for the back-field and end positions than there is for the line. The team I select, however, is, I believe, very well balanced.

For center, Stone of Vanderbilt, who had been accorded the honor for three previous years, was again best. He, Robert Blake and John Craig all played their last college game Thanksgiving. Very rarely indeed are three men of such exceptional athletic qualifications found in any small college at the same time. Very likely Stone is the leading center, Blake the leading end and Craig the leading half-back of a decade for Vanderbilt. Stone's passing was flawless, while he was always down rapidly under punts and kick-offs. His speed and versatility enabled him to be always on the spot where he could do most. Either for delivering or receiving forward passes, other things being equal, give me as high a man as can be found, in order that he may see out and where to make his pass or in order that he may see over the heads of those between and thus be better able to pluck the ball from the air. Snyder of Tech, Lucas of Georgia and Evans of Sewanee, were all good centers, about on a par.

Sherrill, Vanderbilt, was the best guard. This big boy seemed to find himself in 1907 and came like a whirlwind, particularly in aggressiveness. Faulklinberry, Sewanee, is also a player of much strength. These two, weighing combined somewhere between a fifth and a fourth of a ton, with Stone, would make a good center of the line.

Lex Stone, Sewanee, at left tackle was also an exceptional man. He is strong, fast, heavy and good running with the ball or stopping an opponent who has it. He, too, is a line man of a decade for a S.I.A.A. college. Most of those qualified select Davis, Tech, for the other tackle. He is a man of much physical power, much better on the defense than offensively. Talent for the tackle positions overflows the vacancies. McLaurin and Gaston of Clemson, Davis of Auburn, Brooks of Alabama, Word of Tennessee and Hasslock and McLain of Vanderbilt, were all high-class tackles.

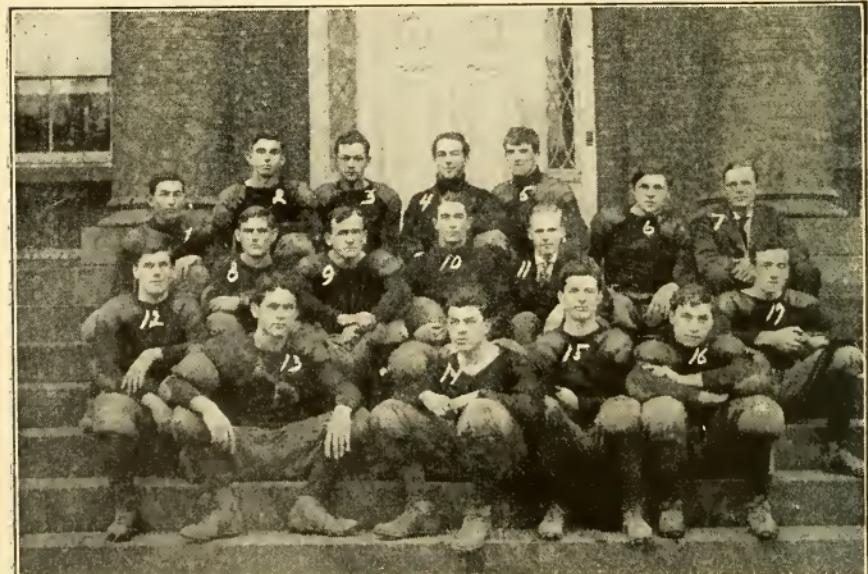

The selection of Robert Blake for left end is easy, for he does all things in Foot Ball well. He runs, tackles, punts, passes, catches and interferes with equal facility and effectiveness. He is the equal of any end and is versatile enough, athletically, to make his mark at Oxford, where he goes as a Rhodes scholar. The selection of the other end is difficult. Vaughn Blake of Vanderbilt, and Williams of Sewanee are perhaps more versatile and alert than Lewis of Sewanee. The Vanderbilt lad being especially alert, but Lewis, because of his magnificent defensive ability, must be given the call. Smith of Georgia, Leach of Tennessee, Roberts of Tech, McFadden and Coles of Clemson, and Pratt of Alabama are all excellent ends. Leach, because of his goal-kicking ability and capacity to advance the ball, is perhaps the most valuable.

Coston, Vanderbilt, though behind his 1906 form, was the best quarter, with Barrett of Sewanee next best. Hannon of Alabama, McClure of Auburn and Hightower and Buchanan of Tech are close behind.

Craig of Vanderbilt has unanimous call as right half-back. He was especially brilliant in advancing the ball and a fierce and powerful fighter through a broken field. Lanier of Sewanee is also a star of purest ray, and came near winning the Vanderbilt game by his brilliant dashes after receiving punts. Campbell of Vanderbilt is very close behind and gave a world of promise. Shipp of Sewanee is fourth among a quartette of high-class halves. Other good half-backs were Reidy of Alabama, McCollum of Tennessee and Ware of Auburn.

At full Markley of Sewanee, though not brilliant, was best and is powerful, consistent and always in the thick of the fray. Hughes of Auburn presses him closely, and Wert of Tennessee is also good. This team would be about on a par with the 1906 of S.I.A.A.

Perhaps in no section of the country are there more high class preparatory schools than in middle Tennessee and adjacent territory. These schools take a lively interest in athletics. The masters have arranged a sane and well-regulated organization called the Southern Interscholastic Athletic Association.

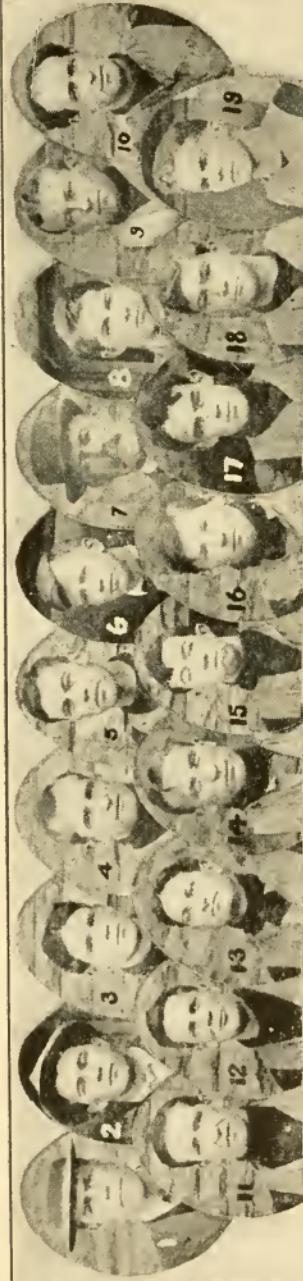

The following team selected from this preparatory organization, it is agreed, would have been its strongest in 1907.

Black (Columbia Military Academy) and Paschall (Battleground Academy), ends.
Green (Branham and Hughes) and Freeland (Mooney), tackles.

Stainback (Battleground Acad.) and Padgett (Columbia Mil. Acad.), guards.
Johnston (Mooney), center.

Anderson (Castle Heights), quarter-back.

Neil (Columbia Mil. Academy) and Griffin (Branham and Hughes), half-backs.
Lyons (Mooney), full-back.

COLORADO STATE SCHOOL OF MINES’ VARSITY TEAM AND FOOT BALL SQUAD.

Foot Ball in the Rocky Mountain Region

BY J. L. GARTLAND, DENVER.

The sporting writers on the Denver dailies picked All-Colorado elevens, which are given herewith. For the Rocky Mountain News the eleven was picked by J. L. Gartland and is the same as the official eleven in this GUIDE. The Denver Times' selection was made by Wirt G. McCarthy, that of the Denver Post by A. William Walliser, and the Denver Republican's by Chester E. Letts, the sporting editor.

The University of Utah had several good men entitled to consideration on an All-Rocky Mountain eleven. Conville at full-back, Richardson and Russell at half-back, and Seeley and Palm at guards were all heavy, powerful and fast, and their work is well worthy of mention.

VARSITY TEAM AND FOOT BALL SQUAD OF DENVER UNIVERSITY.

From every viewpoint the 1907 Foot Ball season in the Rocky Mountain region was the most interesting, exciting and erratic in the history of the premier college sport in the inter-mountain West. Owing to the many form reversals through which the teams of this territory passed and to the illness and accidents befalling many candidates for positions on the all-star aggregation, the critical follower of the sport is confronted with a difficult task when about to place the teams in order or to select the eleven best men playing their respective positions. According to the system of selection used there is almost certain to be an honest difference of opinion concerning the result obtained in each case, and it is therefore of the greatest importance that the writer, in making his choice, indicate the method by which it is reached.

Now in placing the teams for the season several conditions must be taken into account. In the first place, the comparative score system may fairly be considered interesting but obsolete. In this system the reviewer figures up the points scored by and against the various elevens, and endeavors to place the colleges accordingly. This method is obviously unfair, as it makes no allowances for the progressive development of the various elevens during the season, and does not take into account that the aim of every coach is to bring his machine gradually into a state approaching perfection for the climax of the season, even at the risk of sacrificing showy early season scores to this end. Neither does this system take into account the fact that no two teams play exactly the same opponents. To appease mere curiosity, however, the comparative scores are given herewith, it being understood that no attempt is made to classify the teams on this basis. Only games of sufficient importance to be reported in the Denver papers are included.

In the days of the intercollegiate athletic league in Colorado it was customary to figure Foot Ball standing as well as base ball standing on the percentage basis, according to the system in vogue in the professional base ball leagues. With proper limitations this system may be considered safe and serviceable. In figuring the standing of the elevens contending for the intercollegiate championship of Colorado on the basis of games played between five Colorado teams the percentage system is simple and accurate. In securing the standing of the Colorado and Utah elevens for the Rocky Mountain championship the process requires more careful study, several tables being necessary to a proper understanding of the relative standing of the teams.

Our first table for the purpose of showing the standing in the Colorado championship struggle alone, is simple enough. The Miners unquestionably rank first, having won every game played with State teams. The Golden boys consequently captured the championship of Colorado for the fourth consecutive season. Colorado College, the University of Colorado, the University of Denver and the Colorado Agricultural College follow in order. This rating is manifestly fair, inasmuch as each team has defeated the teams following it in the standing. This percentage table is as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	PC.
Colorado School of Mines.....	4	0	1.000
Colorado College	3	1	.750
University of Colorado.....	2	2	.500
University of Denver.....	1	3	.250
Colorado Agricultural College... .	0	4	.000

Coming to the Rocky Mountain championship problem, we do not find the standing puzzle anywhere near as easy to solve. The Miners cleaned up all opposition in their State and the Utah men did likewise in their domain. Golden lads journeyed to Salt Lake City and were defeated early in the season. Team against team, this apparently gives the honors of the region to the Utah aggregation. Regarding any charges of ineligibility against Utah players or of incapability, intentional or otherwise, against the officials in the Mines-Utah game, my opinion is that they should be dismissed without consideration and that all arguments should be based on the result as it stands in the records. The Miners had as much opportunity to investigate the eligibility of their opponents before and after the contest; they were under no real compulsion to meet any out-of-the-State eleven; they were not obliged to play under officials they had reason to believe partial. If by lack of foresight they waived these objections and went into the contest blindly, they can scarcely blame Utah for taking advantage of their unwisdom. So I say, let the result of the Mines-Utah game stand, and let us consider what other grounds the Miners have for still claiming the Rocky Mountain championship, as I am inclined to believe that the Golden men have a considerable foundation for their contention.

COLORADO COLLEGE, COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.

The Miners argue along these lines: "Utah defeated us in our early season form after a hard trip. The Utah team came to Boulder and was decisively defeated by the University of Colorado. At the top of our form, on Thanksgiving Day, we defeated the State University, conquering the eleven which had routed the Mormons. Again we ran away with the Colorado College Tigers in mid-season. On Thanksgiving Day, Utah barely defeated the Tigers at Salt Lake City by a goal from the field in the last few minutes of play." I am willing to let this argument stand for the present, not so much as entirely representing my own views as indicating a very fair statement of what the Miners and, in fact, most college men in Colorado, consider the logical method of looking at the problem. Of course the reply of Utah that they defeated the Miners and that is all there is to it, is obvious.

Another way of approaching the puzzle is by the percentage method. First, we will compile a table containing the games played between Colorado elevens themselves and with the University of Utah, whether these games were played in Colorado or at Salt Lake City. This table will include all the games played for the Colorado championship as shown in the previous table, and also the contests between the University of Utah and the Miners, Denver 'Varsity and Colorado College at Salt Lake City, and the Utah-Colorado University game at Boulder. These games give us the following table:

Teams.	Won.	Lost.	PC.
Miners	4	1	.800
Utah	3	1	.750
Colorado College	3	2	.600
Colorado University	3	2	.600
Denver University	1	4	.200
Colorado Aggies	0	4	.000

This table is, on the face of it, unfair to both Utah and Colorado College. It is unfair to Utah, because it gives the Miners credit for a walkaway over the Colorado Aggies and does not take into consideration the fact that the Utah 'Varsity likewise defeated the Utah Aggies. It is unfair to Colorado College, because it ties the Tigers with the State 'Varsity, which was defeated by the Orange and Black in the game at Colorado Springs.

Giving Utah credit for defeating the Utah Aggies or eliminating the Miners' victory over the Fort Collins Aggies, we have the Miners and Utah tied on the percentage basis. On this fact the Miners can make a strong stand to retain the Rocky Mountain championship. In past seasons, including 1906, the Golden lads defeated the Salt Lake warriors, and by the sporting axiom, "You cannot win a championship by tying the champion," the Golden school can at least pursue the same attitude it held for three seasons in Colorado by claiming the State championship, although for those three seasons tied in actual conflict with the Colorado College Tigers.

From this consideration of facts it will be seen that both Utah and the Miners have strong talking points to back their contentions for first honors in the region and these arguments will unquestionably lead to an interesting, decisive struggle this season. It may be well to complete our tabulation of the season by including all games played by Utah and Colorado teams during the season, eliminating high school contests, but including games with St. Vincent, Nebraska and like aggregations. Utah played St. Vincent of Southern California and the Utah Aggies, Colorado University played Nebraska,

THE ALL-COLORADO SELECTIONS EXPLAINED.

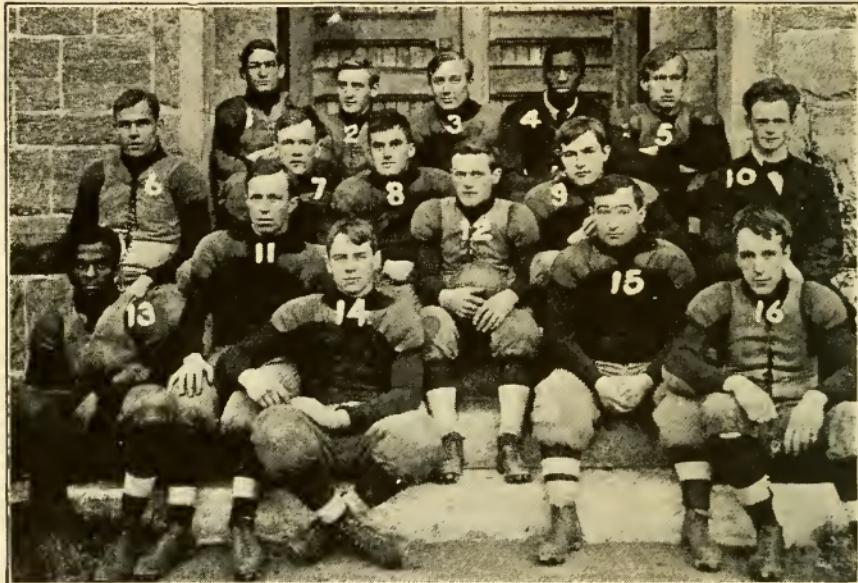

To come back to our All-Colorado eleven. Certainly no one can quarrel with the selection of Skinner and Knowles of the Mines for the end positions. They could make good in vaudeville as "the long and the short of it," Knowles being considerably over six feet and Skinner scarcely coming up to his partner's waist, demonstrating that height, or lack of it, is no bar to the making of a successful end under the open style of play, where deftness in picking the ball out of the air is at a premium.

This pair of ends played a most important part in winning first honors for Golden. They developed into championship form at about the same time and seemed to be at their best in the contest against Colorado College. Both are tacklers of the steel-trap variety, and are of the shifty rather than of the smashing type on defense. By reason of his abnormal height and reach Knowles had the physical advantage over every opponent in reaching for the forward pass. Skinner accomplished the same results by speed, shifty footwork, his unusually stocky and low build making clean stopping of his progress most difficult. Both would have been good ends under the old code.

There were five men entitled to consideration in the tackle positions. They were Hynes of Golden, Morrell and Cary of Colorado College, and Kimmell and Coffin of the State 'Varsity. My choice is Morrell and Hynes. Hynes is named because of his all-around knowledge of the position on offense and defense. He proved powerful, shifty and consistent throughout the season, being far above his form of the previous season. Morrell is named because of his exceptional kicking ability in a season when there was a premium placed upon the ability to score points from the field. With the exception of Nordenholt, Morrell individually scored more points than any one other man in Colorado in championship games, and it must be remembered that Nordenholt's points were always made with the assistance of other players, either in bringing the ball to within plunging distance or in helping hurl the full-back over the chalk line.

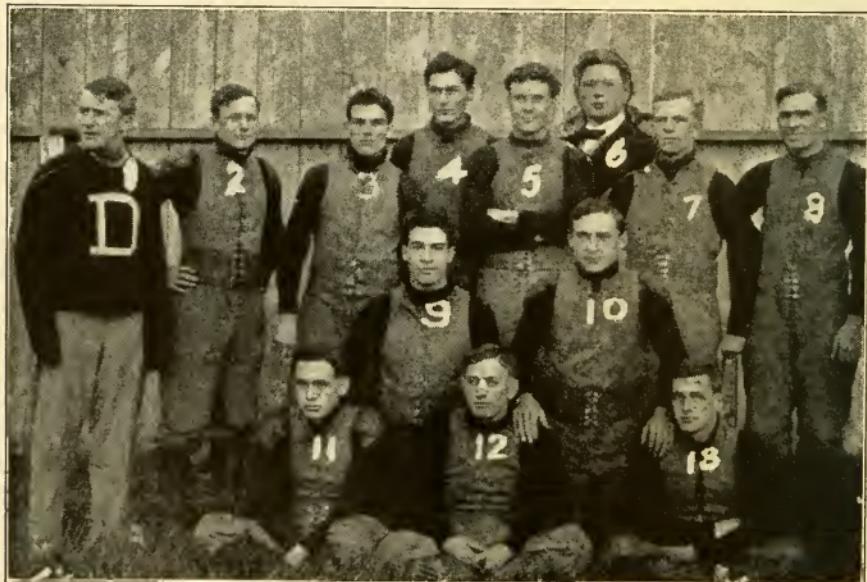

The men running Morrell and Hynes a close race for tackle positions were Kimmell and Coffin of the State University, and Gilbert Cary, a former Manual star with the Tigers. Injuries put Coffin out of several contests. He comes from a Foot Ball family, is a hard, aggressive and heady player, not as heavy as many opponents, but shifty and valuable in receiving the forward pass. Kimmell I consider a superb tackle. Golden men did not think him of exceptional strength, but Coach Fred G. Folsom of Boulder declared him the best man on the squad. He is sturdy, active and tireless. Cary is a finished player. He has a knack of following the ball, and recovered fumble after fumble for the Tigers. He has speed, strength and brains and will make the Tigers an excellent leader the coming season.

In the guard positions two men stand out prominently. They are Draper of the Tigers and Barr of Boulder. Draper outplayed Barr man to man, just as Barr outplayed everyone else. Both are husky, powerful men, Barr especially being valuable because of his great size combined with fair ability to get around. Barr played his best game Thanksgiving day and Draper seemed best against Boulder. O'Brien of Boulder and Evans of the Mines were rugged and effective guards. Evans was frequently down the field with the ends. O'Brien played at a disadvantage at tackle in the closing game, but showed well for a first-year man.

In a season when there was a demand for centers able to pass the ball accurately and consistently there was a singular lack of first-class material. This was all the more unusual since most of the candidates were men of several seasons' experience. Unfortunately, by far the best man who played the position, Ortner of Boulder, got into only one game, the contest against Nebraska. So well, however, did he perform in this contest and so poorly did other candidates show up in following struggles that I feel compelled to name Ortner.

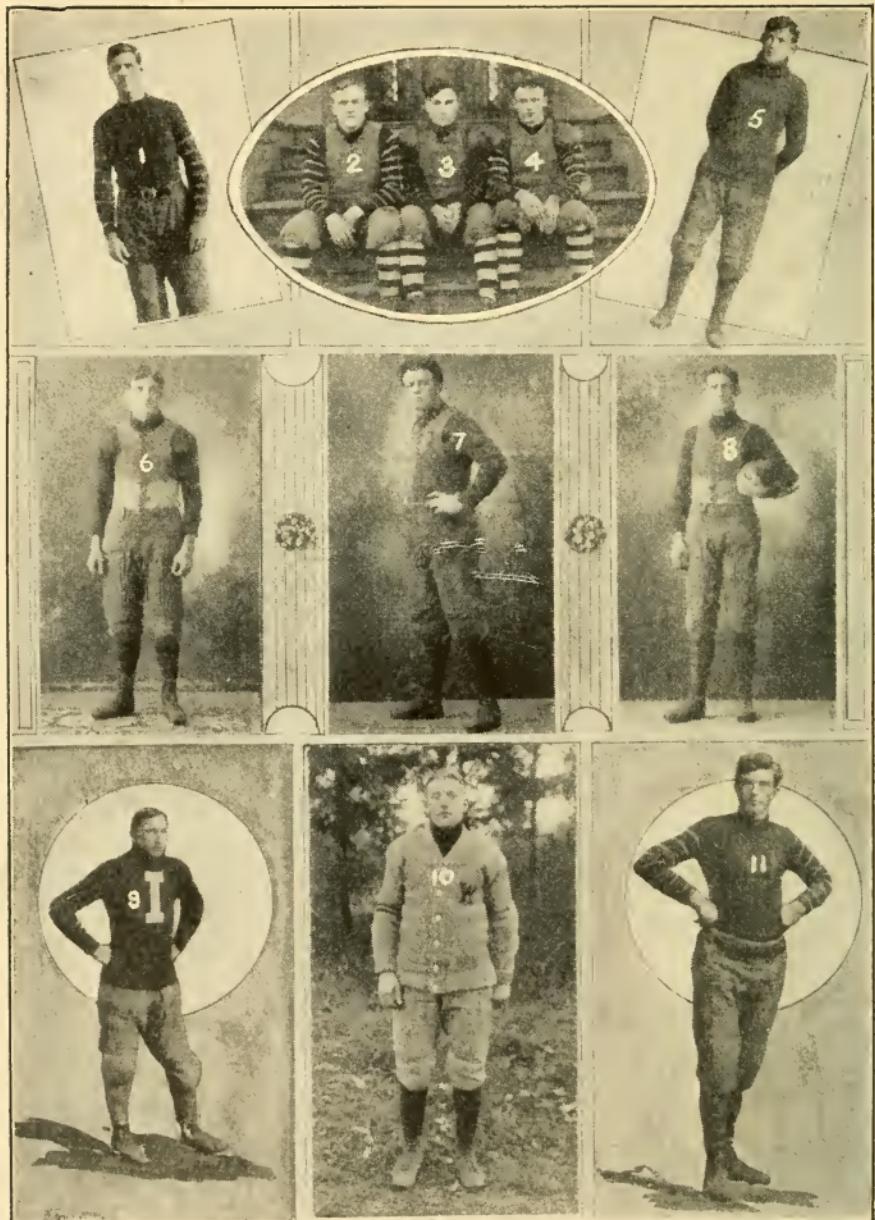

Farnsworth of Boulder and Baker of the Mines were the best of the centers playing the season through. Farnworth was probably handicapped by the captaincy. Baker showed best on Thanksgiving Day. Baker's passing, next to that of Ortner, was easily best and he was frequently down making open field tackles on kicks.

For the quarter-back position, eliminating Captain Mauriee Hoyt of the Mines, who before he was injured in the Aggie game was the pick of them all, I consider Hoyt's understudy, Brooks, entitled to the place. His qualifications are surely in handling the ball, not having made a fumble during the season, to my knowledge; his speed in calling signals while the men were lining up and in getting off the plays, his lack of hesitancy in deciding on plays, despite the fact he was not captain; the smoothness and regularity with which he kept his team in action, having a sort of rhythm with practically the same interval between each play; his good judgment in selecting points of attack; his coolness and lack of infectious excitability; the confidence with which he inspired the man carrying the ball that they would have it delivered to them in exactly the right position at the proper instant; his perfectly accurate forward passing, which I believe was in a class by itself, and his alertness of eye and mind, as shown especially in his quarter-back run play, from which he used or withheld a forward pass, to men at either side of the field or ran with the ball himself, according to his judgment, which had to be exercised while running at full speed and while avoiding oncoming tacklers.

Sterritt of Boulder was the closest competitor of Brooks. Sterritt was called upon to bear the brunt of the punting, place kicking, forward passing, catching and running back of punts and serving as safety man, in addition to running the team as field captain. As a jack-of-all-trades Sterritt proved a wonder and performed all the tasks assigned to him cheerfully and well.

For the full-back position Nordenholz had the call, although Captain Morris of the Tigers gave the Golden man a hard run. Both captained their teams. Both were almost irresistible line plungers, and both were exceptionally strong on defense. Nordenholz was the shifftier on his feet and with better speed made greater distance whenever he pierced the opposing line and got free.

Hartman and Willey at half-back hold their positions by narrower margins than any other candidates. Cary of the Tigers, Cheeley of the Aggies and Blatherwick of the Mines gave them a close race for honors. Both Willey and Hartman played under severe handicaps. Willey had far from normal support for his brilliant individual efforts. Hartman was ill in his two most important games and in the remainder of his contests was handicapped by having his opponent's defense especially strengthened to meet his end runs.

Foot Ball in the Pacific Northwest

BY C. N. MCARTHUR, GRADUATE DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS, UNIVERSITY OF OREGON,

The season of 1907 was a brilliant one in the Pacific Northwest. The game increased in popularity, college spirit ran higher than ever before, and rival institutions seemed to vie with each other in the development of good sportsmanship. The season produced six strong, well-coached teams—Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Oregon Agricultural College, Washington State College and Whitman College. These teams were closely matched, as the scores of all their important games indicate.

The championship of the Pacific Northwest was not settled definitely and decisively, although the Oregon Aggies established the best claim to the honor. Under the skillful coaching of F. S. Norcross (Michigan's famous quarter-back and captain during the season of 1905), the Aggies developed a team of great strength and won their annual game from Oregon for the first time since 1897. The game was the hardest ever seen in the Pacific Northwest and the 4 to 0 score just about represents the relative strength of the two elevens. This was the only game of importance that the Aggies played in the Pacific Northwest and, for this reason, their claim to the championship was disputed by some of the critics of this section. The fact remains, however, that the Aggies had the only team which went through the season without a defeat and the only one which has bested the crack Oregon eleven since 1903. The Aggies defeated St. Vincent's College at Los Angeles, on Thanksgiving Day, thereby establishing their claim to the Pacific Coast Championship.

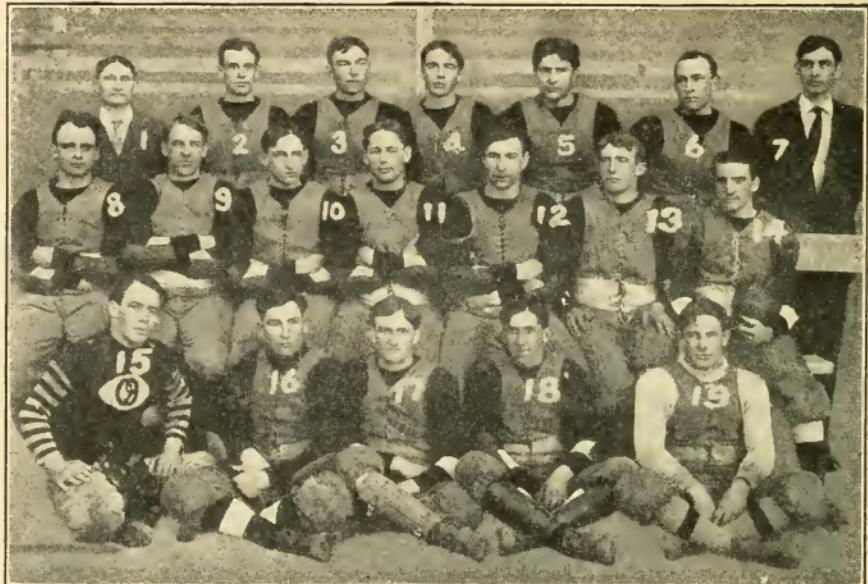

Oregon had a fast team, composed of big, aggressive men, who played brilliantly in all their important games. Aside from their game with the Oregon Agricultural College, the Oregon men won all the games of a difficult schedule, including the annual contests with Idaho, Washington and Multnomah. Oregon was coached by Gordon B. Frost, a Dartmouth College man.

One of the most remarkable teams in this section was the Idaho eleven, which was coached by John R. Middleton, an Idaho graduate. Middleton's formations puzzled the other Northwest coaches and kept them guessing throughout the season. His development of the forward pass and the famous Idaho "spread" were the sensations of the year in this part of the country. Middleton is distinctly an Idaho product and is a most remarkable student of the game. Idaho won the championship of the Inland Empire (Eastern Washington, Idaho and Western Montana). Her victory over Washington State was a great surprise, as the Washingtonians were looked upon as easy winners.

Washington State had a team of great strength and, with the exception of the Idaho game, won every contest on her schedule. On Christmas Day, before a record-breaking crowd, at Spokane, Washington State won a sensational game from the speedy eleven of St. Louis University. The result of this game established the claim of Pacific Northwest foot ball to recognition by Eastern and Middle Western experts, for St. Louis had one of the best teams in the Mississippi Valley. Washington State was coached by Bender, a former Nebraska star.

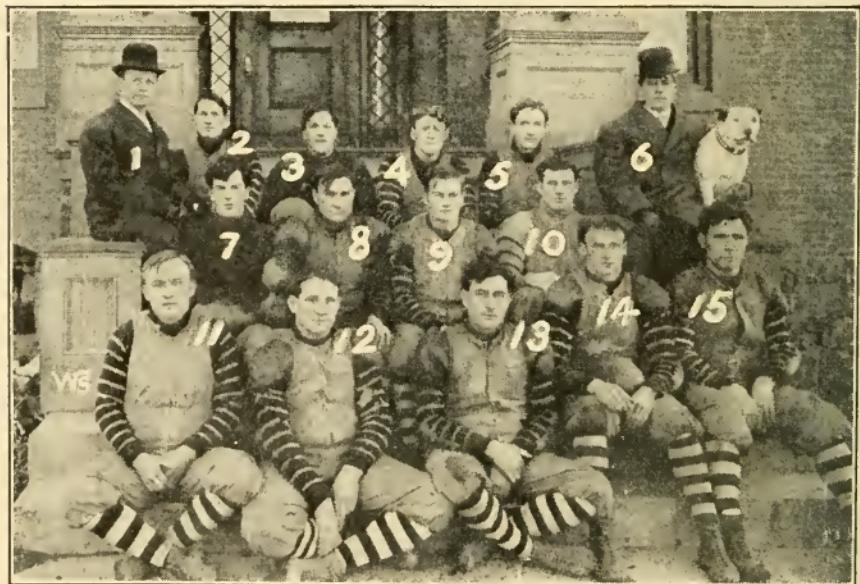

Whitman College and University of Washington did not win their big games, but both teams played good hard foot ball.

The leading club teams of the Pacific Northwest were those of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club (Portland, Oregon), Seattle Athletic Club and Spokane Athletic Club. Multnomah made the best comparative showing and is entitled to the inter-club championship. This team, which was composed of former college stars, showed great strength toward the end of the season, and by defeating St. Louis University, on New Year's Day, added to the prestige already gained by Northwest foot ball on account of Washington State's victory over the Missourians.

The attempt of Stanford and California to foist Rugby foot ball onto the colleges of the Pacific Northwest has proved a dismal failure. The English game is not popular here and there is little enthusiasm over it in California.

The All-Northwest team as announced in my article in the Sunday Oregonian of December 1, 1907, is as follows:

FIRST ELEVEN.

Savidge (Idaho) and Emily (Oregon Agricultural College), ends.

Arnspiger (Oregon) and Jamison (Oregon Agricultural College), tackles.

Pendergrass (Oregon Agricultural College) and Halm (Washington State), guards.

Tegtmeier (Washington), center.

Kuykendall (Oregon), quarter-back.

Rader (Washington State) and Nissen (Washington State), half-backs.

Clark (Oregon) full-back.

Foot Ball in the Philippines

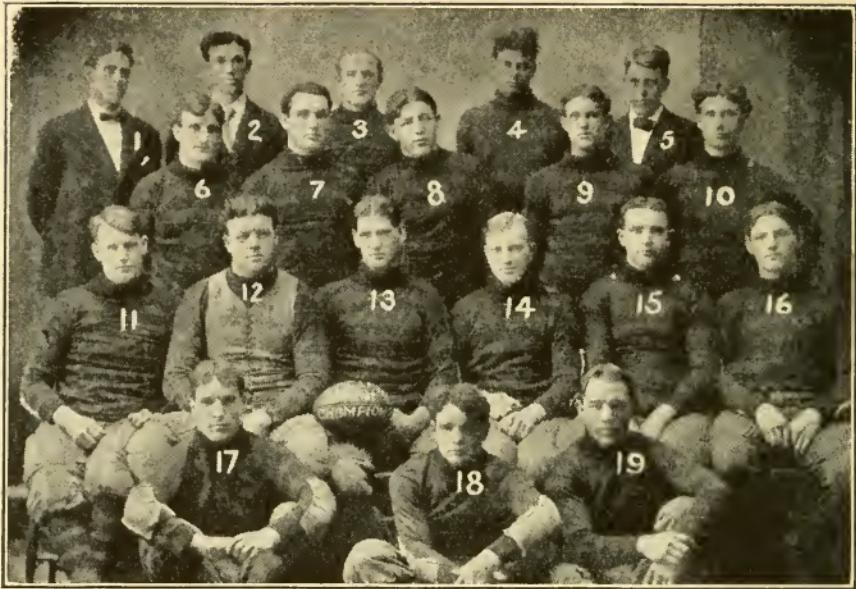

BY EDWARD BOWDITCH, JR., COACH, COLUMBIA CLUB FOOT BALL ELEVEN.

Previous to the autumn of 1907 but little Foot Ball was played in Manila except the occasional games played between army teams or teams from the American fleet in Philippine waters.

In September of last year, however, the Columbia Club of Manila, a social and athletic club started some years ago by Bishop Brent, decided to organize a team to play any army or navy team that wanted games. A squad of from twelve to eighteen men practiced regularly from the end of September on, having in view a game with the flotilla for Thanksgiving Day. This was postponed and finally played under the rules of 1906 on December 30, the club being defeated 5—0. Before the end of the season, however, they had developed very fair team work and in their latest games were uniformly successful.

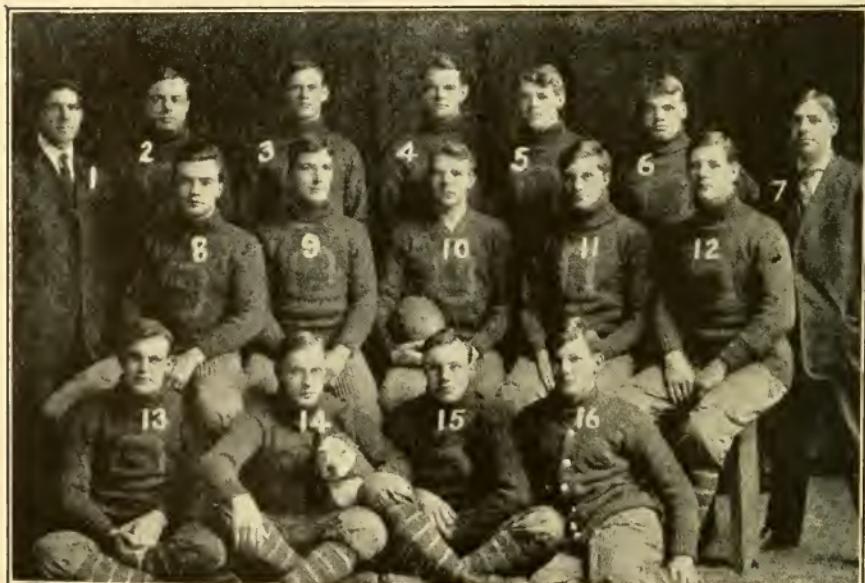

The team is composed almost entirely of employees in the Government service, Insular and Municipal.

The Columbia team played the Flotilla twice, being beaten, as stated, in the first game 5—0, and winning the second 10—6. Three games were played with the Thirtieth Infantry, all of which Columbia won, 5—0, 16—0 and 33—0. They also defeated the "Chattanooga's" team 11—7. Their total number of points for the season was 75 to their opponents' 18.

Foot Ball in Western Pennsylvania

BY EDWARD M. THIERRY, PITTSBURG.

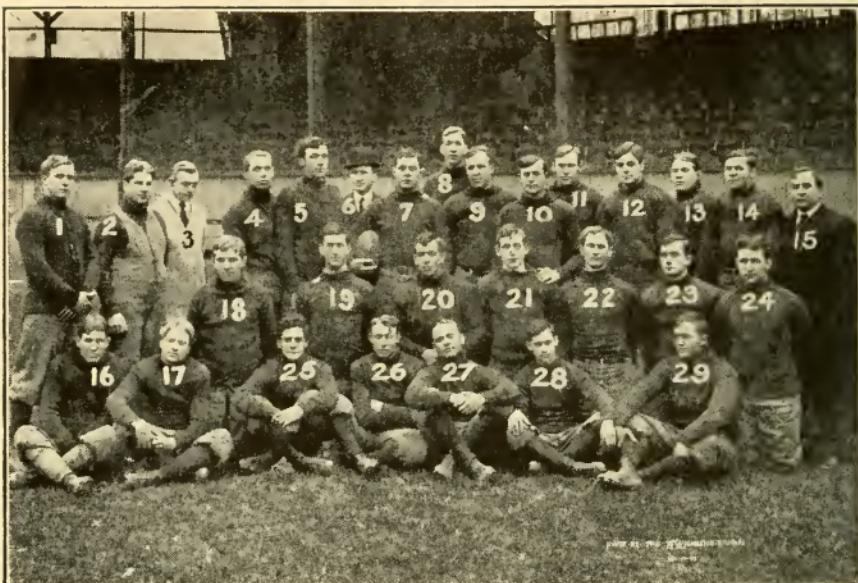

Foot ball during the season of 1907 in Western Pennsylvania developed results totally unlooked for. It was a general mix-up when the final game was played, with three different teams claiming the intercollegiate championship. As usual, the contenders for honors were the Western University of Pennsylvania, Washington and Jefferson College and Pennsylvania State College.

W. U. P. lost to W. & J. and beat Penn State, the last two named not meeting on the gridiron. The only team these two met in common was Dickinson, State beating them 52 to 0 and W. & J. trouncing them 34 to 0. W. U. P. went through the season of ten games with but two defeats at the hands of Cornell, 18 to 5, and W. & J., 9 to 2. The W. & J. eleven played nine games, losing only to Yale and Princeton, 11 to 0 and 40 to 0, respectively. However, W. & J. had 64 points scored on them, making 157 themselves, while W. U. P. scored 147 points and had but 27 scored on them. State had 64 points scored on them and piled up 251 themselves. They played 10 games, losing to W. U. P. 6 to 0, Navy 6 to 4, Pennsylvania 28 to 0, and Carlisle Indians 18 to 5. Perhaps State's most notable victory was over Cornell, 8 to 6.

The W. U. P. and W. & J. elevens during February, 1908, severed athletic relations. The W. & J. authorities adopted the one year residence rule, providing for the residence of athletes in college at least one year before they become eligible to intercollegiate sport. They insisted that W. U. P. adopt the same rule, threatening to cancel all games with the Pittsburg institution. W. U. P. officials claimed they were being discriminated against, because W. & J. was scheduling games for 1908 with other colleges that did not enforce the one-year rule and had no intention of doing so. Consequently they decided not to adopt the rule, although it was given careful consideration. Athletic relations were severed at once. This will mean great financial loss to both institutions, but more particularly to W. & J. The two colleges have been bitter rivals for years and the foot ball games between their teams is looked forward to each year as the event of the season. Both teams have completed their 1908 schedules without listing each other and although they both appear very strong, there is something lacking in each schedule—the big W. U. P.—W. & J. contest.

The two Western Pennsylvania rivals, W. U. P. and W. & J., were coached by clever, experienced foot ball men. And the showing of the two teams exemplified in a way the strength of the Yale and Pennsylvania coaching systems. W. U. P.'s team was coached by James A. Moorhead, a former Yale man, while W. & J.'s team was again in charge of Frank Piekarski, the old Pennsylvania lineman and a member of an All-America team. Both coaches are Pittsburg men. It was Moorhead's first year as W. U. P. coach, although he assisted Coach Wingard a few weeks during the season of 1906. He made a wonderful showing. His system was a good one; he got the work out of the candidates and furnished the Gold and Blue with a good team. And last, but not least, he built a strong foundation for a 1908 team, when he will carry out his ideas of 1907. Piekarski coached W. & J. for several years and in a way had a handicap over Moorhead, in that he was completing and adding to the work of former years, while Moorhead was forced to start at the very beginning.

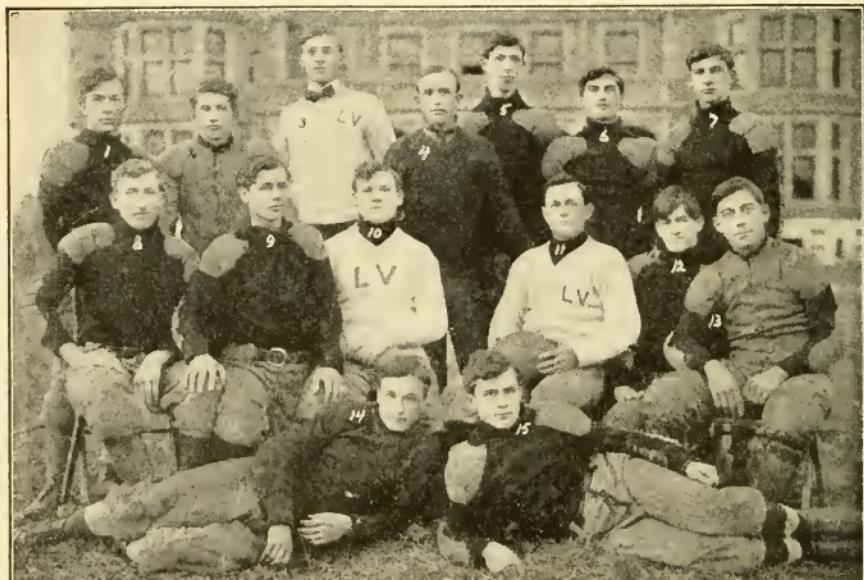

W. U. P. started off in 1907 with gloomy prospects. It seemed to take the coach several weeks to get started correctly and discover the best men. But it turned out to be more of a well-laid plan for reserving the strength for the bigger games near the close of the season. Practically but two changes were made in the 'varsity lineup during the entire season. Although many men were given try-outs, it was usually the same squad for the majority of the games. These two changes were Homer Roe for Campbell at end, and Win Banbury for Shuman at half-back. Moorhead wished to make an end out of Campbell, a new position to him, but failed and the big fellow was shifted to the back-field, where he did very well as a substitute. Roe took his place at end and was the sensation of the season at that position. Hoblitzell held down the other side, being succeeded by Solter in the last two games. Hoblitzell was never a spectacular performer, but was the best kicker on the team. Van Doren and Captain Marshall held down tackles very creditably. The former started off poorly, but when he got going was a star man. Elliott and Shuman played guard; neither were stars, but they were hard workers.

Jack Turner at center was the star man of the team. He played all around every other center he stacked up against, and the writer is convinced he made no mistake in picking Turner for the Pittsburgh Dispatch's All-America team. The only regret is that Eastern experts did not see him work and get a line on his ability. Swenson did very well at quarter-back, while Quince and Win Banbury held down half-backs, the former being the best ground gainer in Western Pennsylvania. Mehl was a fair full-back. Quince Banbury is the 1908 captain.

At W. & J. three star men performed, Kumler at full-back, where he punted all around his competitors; Kirberger, who was easily the best guard in the section; and Captain Price, who led the quarter-backs in Western Pennsylvania. Dan Wimberley, a half-back, is the 1908 captain. Dave Morrow did well at center, but was not in Turner's class.

McCleary, the 1908 captain, full-back, quarter-back Vorhis, guards Kunkle and Cyphers, half-back Smith (a brother of the famous "Bull" of Pennsylvania) and Captain Burns at end, were the star performers at Penn State. Vorhis was one of the best field and place kickers in the country, and it was his work that gave State a victory over Cornell.

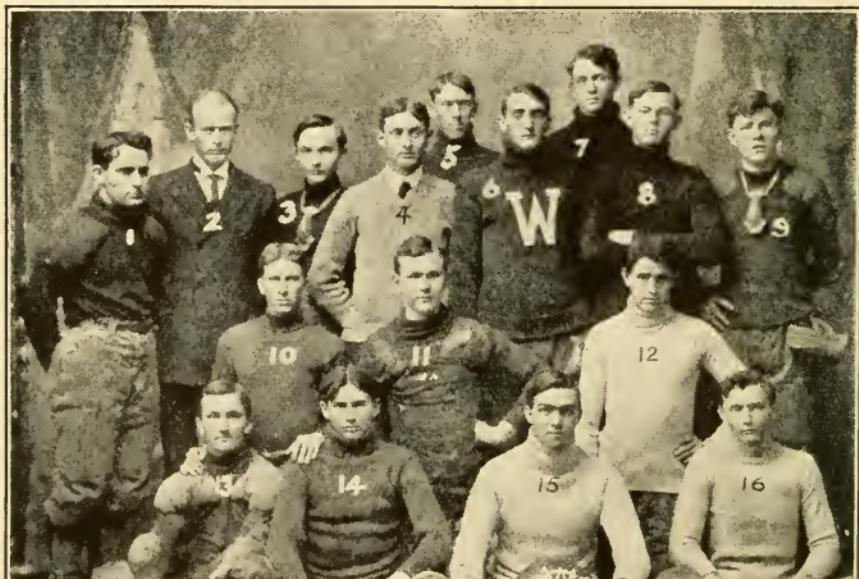

In interscholastic circles the championship was in doubt when the season closed. Pittsburgh High School had the best team according to the records, but in the annual game with Shadyside Academy on November 16, which closed the season at both schools, the rival elevens played to a 0-0 tie. Pittsburgh High defeated Alumni, Wilkinsburg High, Washington High, Sharon High, Johnstown High, tied 6-6 with Dubois High and tied with Shadyside. Shadyside defeated Allegheny High, Wilkinsburg High, and Pittsburgh High; lost to W. & J. Academy, Oberlin Academy and Dubois High, and tied with Johnstown 0-0.

Carnegie Technical School eleven played nine games and won but one, defeating Waynesburg College 17 to 0. Joe Thompson, former Geneva and W. U. P. captain and coach of the championship Pittsburgh High School team in 1906, was in charge of the team. Technical being yet in its infancy, it was practically its first year in college foot ball and with so many irregular hours of study, causing foot ball candidates much trouble in getting out for practice, Thompson was severely handicapped in turning out a team. He resigned at the close of the season and in February, 1908, William F. Knox, who in 1907 was head coach of the Yale team, was chosen to coach the Technical eleven in 1908. Knox is a resident of Pittsburgh.

Foot Ball in Ohio, 1907

BY X. C. SCOTT.

At the close of the season of 1907 Western Reserve was generally conceded to be the strongest team in the State, although there was no real champion, as Oberlin beat Reserve, Ohio State beat Oberlin, Case beat Ohio State, and Reserve beat Case. This makes the situation rather complicated, but Reserve had much the best of it, both on percentage and in comparative scores, to say nothing of total points scored, having a lead of almost a hundred points over her nearest rival.

The trophy cup, which goes to the team winning the State honors and becomes the property of the team winning it for the third time, remains in the possession of Ohio State, the victors of 1906.

The season of 1907 was without doubt the most prosperous ever enjoyed in Ohio, the attendance and enthusiasm being the best in the history of the game. This was no doubt caused by intense rivalry between the leading teams, Reserve, Oberlin, State and Case.

The teams belonging to the Ohio Conference are generally conceded to be a great deal stronger than the teams outside the league and the past season was no exception, Mount Union, Marietta, Ohio University and Ohio Northern being the strongest in the order named.

Most of the team took readily to the new rules and the games were replete with forward passes, on-side kicks and the like, much to the delight of the spectators, judging from their remarks. This was especially true of Oberlin and was due to the wonderful way in which quarter-back Gray handled the ball.

Ohio State played a fairly consistent game, clinging to the Michigan style most of the time, and seemed to rely on the wonderful kicking of Barrington to bring them to victory.

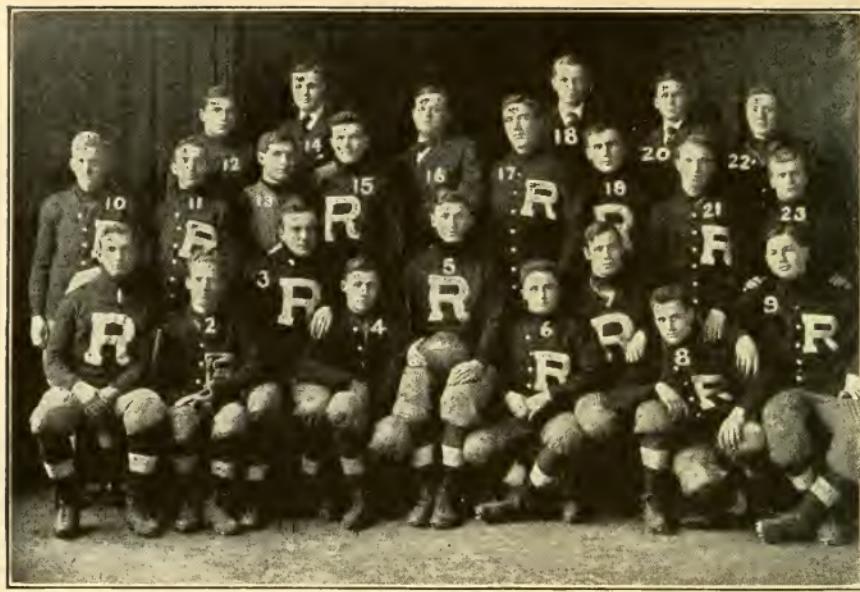

Reserve was without doubt the most powerful and seemed to rely on her strength and speed, which policy, together with a very strong defense, seemed to bring results, although at times the passes and the like were used with results that showed they were kept for a time of need.

Case at the beginning of the season was thought to be one of the weak sisters, but kept improving until she was able to defeat State, thereby causing the latter team to lose the State honors. The game between Case and Reserve at the close of the season was said to be the hardest fought and at the same time the most brilliant since the forming of the Conference.

The following is a table showing the manner in which the teams stood at the close of the season :

	Games.	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	PC.
Reserve	10	9	1	0	.900
Oberlin	9	7	2	0	.777
Ohio State	10	7	2	1	.777
Case	10	7	3	0	.700
Wesleyan	9	6	3	0	.666
Kenyon	8	4	4	0	.500
Denison	8	3	5	0	.375
Wooster	8	2	5	0	.280
Heidelberg	5	1	4	0	.200

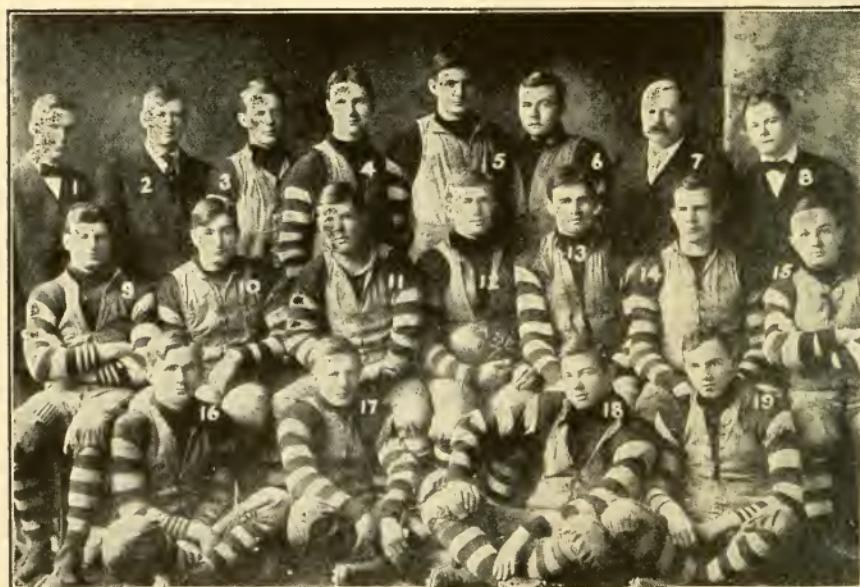

As to an All-State team, it is hard to select one that is acceptable to all. The writer has endeavored to select one that is strong in all departments, and would be the nearest to general selection. The players are all experienced and are capable both on offense and defense. The backs are powerful ground gainers and the quarter is

HIGH SCHOOL DIVISION.

High schools throughout the State seemed to enthuse over the game more than ever before, the result being that their play reached a standard never before attained.

In Cleveland, Columbus and other places leagues were formed between the local schools and games were arranged between the winners of the several leagues. The result of this plan was that great interest was aroused in the contests and crowds large enough to satisfy any of the colleges turned out time after time.

In this class, although there were several crack teams, East High School, Cleveland, was easily the champion, being scored on but once and scoring a point a minute themselves. This team was one of the strongest high school teams ever seen in this part of the country and would have proven a worthy antagonist for the famous prep schools of the East.

Rayen High, Youngstown, and North High, Columbus, are two other teams that have brilliant records and are worthy of notice.

Foot Ball in Kentucky

BY J. WHITE GUYN, COACH KENTUCKY STATE COLLEGE,

The Kentucky Intercollegiate Athletic Association has a membership of six colleges, namely: Kentucky University, Georgetown College, Kentucky State College, Central University, Berea College and Kentucky Wesleyan College. The amount of interest and enthusiasm in Foot Ball in Kentucky is as great as in any other section of the South.

Kentucky State College won the championship of the State and was not scored against by any other team in the State. Kentucky State College also takes third place in the South, because of the 0 to 0 score with the University of Tennessee on Tennessee's grounds, and the holding of Vanderbilt to the smallest score of any other team in the South, with the exception of Sewanee.

Kentucky University, through her defeat of Central University, would take second place in the State, with Central University third, Georgetown fourth, Berea fifth and Kentucky Wesleyan sixth.

Morrie Wilson, Kentucky State's left half-back, was possibly the best player in the State, with Evans of Kentucky University, Hendrickson of Kentucky State College, Harlan of Central University and Stone of Kentucky State College close behind him.

Kentucky University was not represented on the gridiron in the fall of 1906, but opened the season of 1907 with Hogan Yancey as coach and some good experienced material from 1904-5 and developed a surprisingly strong team. Their defeat of Central University came as a surprise to their most ardent followers.

Central University, coached by W. E. Johnson, opened the 1907 season with flattering prospects, and it was generally believed that they would carry the championship honors again, but their defeats by Kentucky University and Kentucky State College dropped them back to third place.

Georgetown College has not had a strong team in the past five years, the cause of which seems to be due to scarcity of heavy material.

Berea College possibly had as good material as any team in the State, but were never able to make a successful showing during the season.

The Kentucky Wesleyan team, through a ruling of the Board of Trustees, is allowed to play only two games on foreign fields. Therefore, they only played one game in the K. I. C. A. A., with Berea, which they lost.

Besides the men who are given a place on the All-Kentucky team are many others equally as good. Prominent among them are Captain Adair, center rush, Kentucky State College; McConnell, guard, Central University; Dutt, tackle, Kentucky University; Houston, center, Kentucky University; Howard, half-back, Georgetown College; Elgin and Barbee, ends, Kentucky State College.

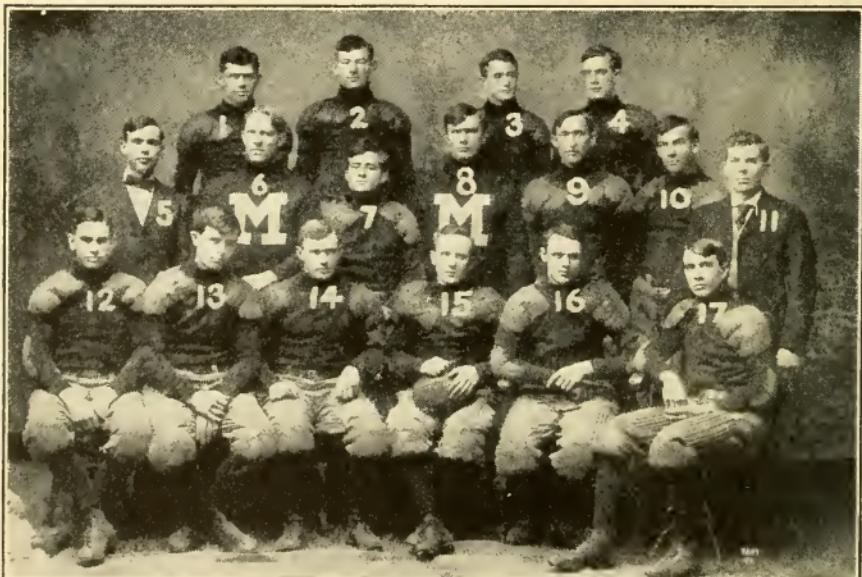

HIGH SCHOOLS.

Foot Ball among the high schools of the State is well developed, and especially so in Louisville and vicinity. The high school of Louisville had the best team in the State and won the scholastic championship. They were closely followed by Kentucky Military Institute, Manual Training School, St. Mary's College and University School, and the high school team of Lexington.

MONMOUTH COLLEGE, MONMOUTH, ILL.

Foot Ball in Illinois

BY R. A. P. HOLDERBY, PHYSICAL DIRECTOR AND COACH OF ATHLETICS, ILLINOIS SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF, JACKSONVILLE, ILL.

In the review of the past season among the minor universities and colleges of Illinois, foot ball has met with great success both financially and in the number of good, clean contests presented to the patrons and followers of the game.

The second season found the new game well advanced, as the majority of the teams employed the open style of attack, having developed the forward pass and on-side kick to a marked degree.

The teams of last year being more equal in weight than in past seasons, equilibrated their possibilities of gaining distance through the line, thus necessitating a more diversified attack, also placing a premium on drop-kicking and punting. In all the games during the season, it was evident that much time had been devoted to developing an offense and many of the contests were excellent examples of the game's possibilities.

In last year's Guide a plea was made for impartial officials, which met with success, the 1907 season showing a marked improvement in this respect, the customary wrangling being conspicuous by its absence. This feature has not only placed the contesting schools on more friendly terms, but has made many friends and patrons of the game who under the old management would not tolerate the sport.

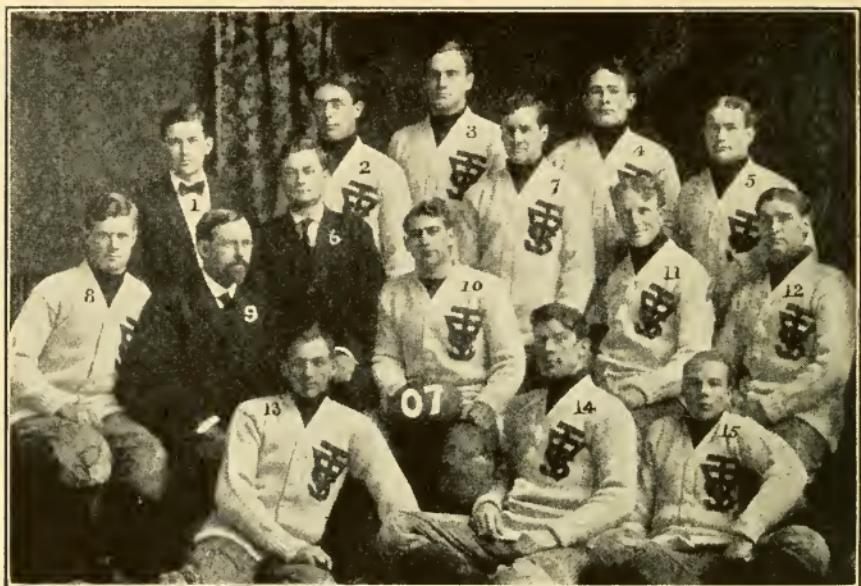

The officials last season gave remarkable satisfaction; in most cases showing ability, and knowledge of the rules, and giving their decisions with a quickness and precision that enabled the contesting teams to play a fast game.

The important teams represented last year were State Normal University of Normal, Monmouth, Lombard, Lake Forest, Millikin University, Shurtleff, Illinois Wesleyan University, Knox, Illinois and Carthage Colleges.

Since there is no uniform arrangement of games among the different institutions, it is an extremely tedious task to draw, to any marked degree of accuracy, a line on the comparative strength of the various teams, thus one must assume wholly the initiatory in conferring the honors of the season.

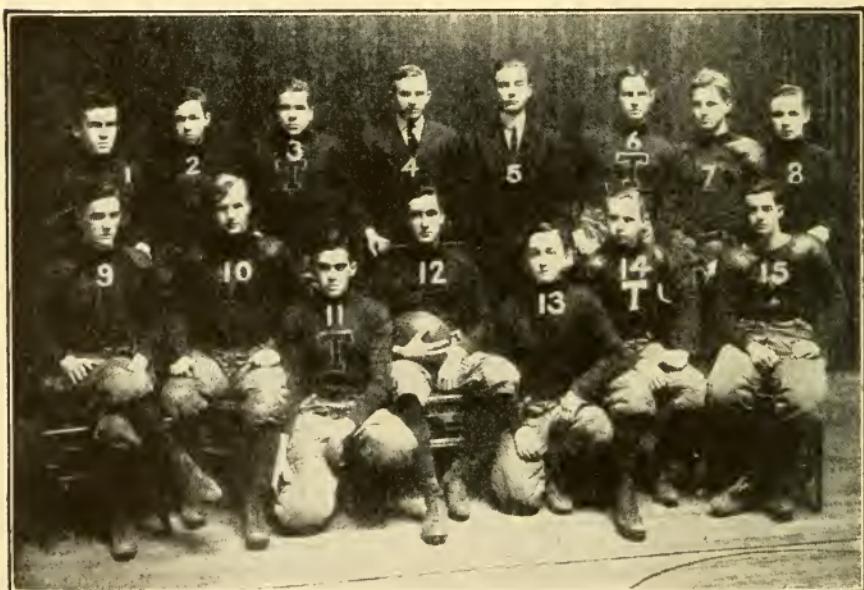

Assuming as a computational point the teams played, and the comparative scores made during the season, the writer would place the teams in the above order named.

Normal University is given the State championship by her defeat of Wesleyan, Millikin, Monmouth and Knox; also playing ten games without a defeat, scoring 104 points to her opponents' 10. Monmouth is second, with a high average, and her defeat of Knox and Millikin and tie with Lake Forest. Lombard, while represented by a strong and capable team, is given third place on her victory over Carthage, Millikin, Knox and Illinois College. Lake Forest is given fourth place for her defeat of Knox and tie with Monmouth. Had Lake Forest played more of the important teams of Illinois, she would have had a higher rating in the final summary. Millikin's tie game with Shurtleff and her defeat of Knox and Illinois Wesleyan places her in fifth position, although her team played a hard and consistent game throughout the season. Had Shurtleff played more of her games east of the Mississippi River, she would no doubt have figured much higher at the close of the season. Her ability to score almost at will against Illinois College showed a remarkable offense and at no time was Illinois able to make consistent gains through Shurtleff's line. The Millikin game resulted in a tie, due to a muddy field. Shurtleff's light back-field, while in striking distance of Millikin's goal, could not penetrate their heavy line for the required yards. Although having played teams of creditable standing without a defeat, she can only be placed sixth, owing to the majority of her games being west of the "Father of Waters." Illinois Wesleyan should get seventh place by her defeat of Illinois College. Although having played a most disastrous season, Knox is entitled to eighth position by her comparative scores and the class of teams she met during the season. Illinois and Carthage College, having adverse seasons, take the remaining places respectively.

So long as there is no organized scheduling of games among the minor universities and colleges of Illinois, it will remain a delicate and difficult matter to place the various teams so as to meet the unanimous approval of the many critics. Coach Elder of Millikin University, has on foot a move for such an organization, and it is hoped that ere this edition of the Guide is in the hands of the public Illinois will boast of organized foot ball. This will not only be a boom to the autumn sport, but it is hoped will lead to the organization of the other branches of athletics.

In the selection of a representative team of this class of schools it is obviously difficult to please all, yet it is only after careful study and consideration that the men are given their respective places.

Owing to the wealth of good material the writer has chosen two teams, each of high rank and capable of displaying ability and knowledge of the game. Both are strong on defense, as well as capable of playing an extremely aggressive and diversified offense, combining their knowledge of both the old and new styles of play. In several cases the men are placed on the first team by a shade to their advantage in experience. The lines are strong and fast from end to end. Each team is supplied with an able toe artist, a capable field general, and a plunging and versatile back-field. To the writer the following would be the strongest and most aggressive combination of the season:

FIRST TEAM.

West (Knox) and Nash (Monmouth), ends.
Wertman (Lombard) and Pickens (Monmouth), tackles.
Stallings (Shurtleff) and Gibbs (Lake Forest), guards.

Foot Ball in the Missouri Valley

BY J. C. MASKER, KANSAS CITY ATHLETIC CLUB.

Foot Ball in the Missouri Valley includes all the schools and colleges in Western Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Southern Nebraska.

The most important are the State University of Missouri, Kansas University, University of Nebraska, Oklahoma University, Washburn College, Kansas State Agricultural College, St. Mary's, Haskell Indian Institute, Ottawa University, Missouri and Kansas State Normals, William Jewell College, etc.

The season of 1907 was a most successful one in the Missouri Valley, all of the games being attended by enthusiastic supporters. The spectacular features were the numerous forward passes, on-side kicks and wide end-runs, which had a tendency to raise the plane of Foot Ball in the minds of the average spectator and firmly establish the popularity of the new rules.

The title of "Missouri Valley Champions" lies between Nebraska University and Washburn College. The Missouri and Oklahoma universities were put out of the running by the Jayhawkers from Lawrence and the Kansans were in turn defeated by the Cornhuskers from Lincoln. Although Nebraska played only one of the Missouri Valley teams, their defeat of Kansas, 16 to 6, placed them in line for the Foot Ball honors in this section. Washburn College went through the entire season without a defeat, and by downing Oklahoma, 12-0, and Kansas, 12-5, won the right to share honors with Nebraska.

In point of general interest, the most important contest was the Kansas-Missouri game played at St. Joseph on Thanksgiving Day. The Jayhawkers were returned victors by a beautiful and well-directed goal from placement, made by Forter, their brilliant kicker, from the forty-yard line. The Tigers fought desperately and several times were within striking distance of the Kansans' goal, but were repulsed by the wonderful defense of Coach Kennedy's pupils. The defense of both teams was very strong, and this one goal from the field ended the scoring, the game ending 4-0. Another important contest was the Kansas-Nebraska game at Lawrence. The Missouri-Texas game at Columbia, after a stubborn contest, was won by the Tigers, 5-0. The Kansas-Washburn game at Topeka, previously mentioned, was a wonderful exhibition of the new game: one of the Washburn touchdowns being the direct result of a well-placed twenty-yard forward pass. The Washburn-Oklahoma game on Thanksgiving Day was won by Washburn.

In determining on a representative team of the Missouri Valley, one is compelled to base his choice on speed, alertness, accuracy in directing the forward passes and on-side kicks and mental acumen: these qualifications being more essential under the new code than in the days of the mass plays, when only five yards were necessary for a first down. A player possessing these qualifications for an offensive player would naturally be a good defensive player.

Haughey (Washburn) and Driver (Missouri), ends.

Miller (Missouri) and Chaloupka (Nebraska), tackles.

Frum (Nebraska) and Reed (Kansas), guards.

Brown (Washburn), center.

Cooke (Nebraska), quarter.

Weller (Nebraska) and Acton (Oklahoma), half-backs.

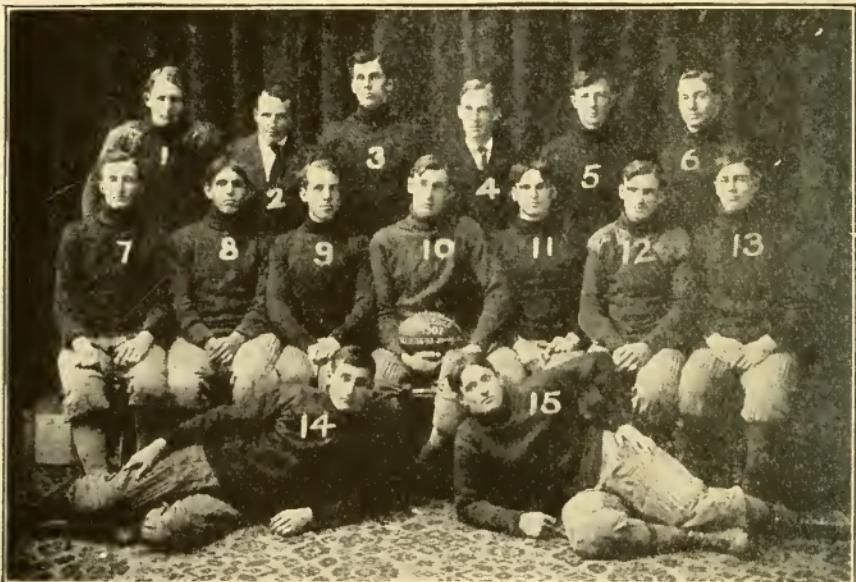

Williams (Washburn), full-back.

Driver of Missouri deserves special mention for his ability in handling the forward pass; Chaloupka, Nebraska, and Miller, Missouri, for their consistent and aggressive playing; Brown for his ability in getting through the line and breaking up formations; Cooke for his handling and footwork in returning punts; Captain Weller of Nebraska for his brilliant kicking of goals from placement. Other players mentioned for places on this team are Rouse of Kansas and Blake of Kansas State Agricultural College for ends; Crowell of Kansas, Matters of Nebraska, and Graves of Missouri for tackles; Milton of Kansas, Ristine of Missouri and Collins of Nebraska for centers; Hope of Washburn, Cross of Oklahoma and Angney of Kansas for quarter-backs; Gross of St. Mary's and Forter of Kansas for full-backs; White of Washburn and Porter of Kansas for half-backs.

Dr. W. J. Monilaw had charge of the Missouri Tigers for his second season. His team was the best in several years, showing good progress in developing the game under the revised code.

Dr. A. R. Kennedy is the Foot Ball idol at the Jayhawker University, and this fall will make his fifth as coach. Although losing by graduation his two star tackles of 1906, Donald and Brunner, he developed a very creditable eleven.

"King" Cole distinguished his first year at Nebraska by putting out a team capable of holding the strong Minnesota University eleven to two field goals and scoring a touchdown on them.

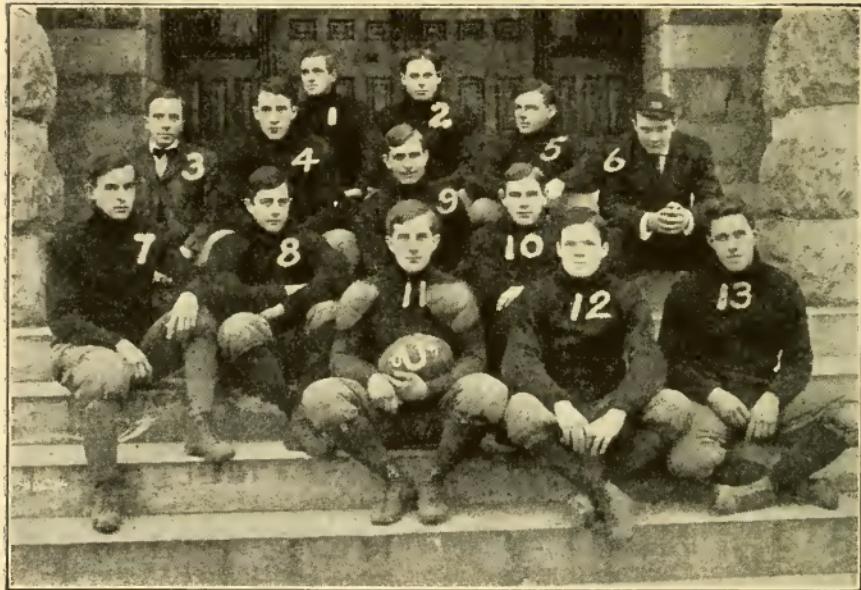

Coach Owens of Oklahoma University is to be commended on the aggressive work of the eleven representing the new State.

At Washburn, Coach Weede developed a team that won the State championship and made a strong bid for the Missouri Valley honors.

Much credit is due E. C. Quigley, coach of the St. Mary's College eleven, for their very successful season.

Bemis Peirce, the famous Carlisle guard, handled the Haskell Indian team, and although their season was not entirely successful they carried out a very heavy schedule.

Prospects for this season point toward a more successful year, as the coaches in most instances have been retained and all of the leading universities should be represented by stronger elevens. Some of the minor colleges and high schools who dropped Foot Ball in 1905, when the reform wave swept the country, will again take up the sport, which augurs well for the popularity of the new rules in the Missouri Valley.

DAVIDSON COLLEGE, NORTH CAROLINA.

Foot Ball in South Carolina

BY SIMON FOGARTY, JR., CHARLESTON.

The year 1907 found seven academic foot ball teams in South Carolina. The most important event of the year was the restoration of foot ball at the State University after a lapse of three years. The public at large showed an increased interest in the games, which added a zest to the sport. The weather throughout was ideal, and the season from all standpoints successful. The public were entertained, the coaches satisfied, and the managers pleased with the results. The new rules especially benefited this section, as they are all light and depend more upon quickness than weight, for their gains. The games were characterized by a great deal of punting and drop-kicking, one team making three-fourths of its points by drop-kicks. As was mentioned before the faculty reinstated foot ball at the University, but a little too late for the team to arrange many games; nevertheless the team they turned out in the short while was a credit to the institution. It is to be hoped that the other large colleges in the northern part of the State will follow the example of Carolina and put out teams.

Among the different colleges, Clemson, in the northwestern part of the State, had undoubtedly the best team, although it did not play any team in its own State. The showing it made against other strong teams, notably its victories over North Carolina and Georgia Tech., puts it in a class by itself, and no further mention of it will be made here. The next best team was the University of South Carolina, who defeated the College of Charleston, 14 to 4, and the South Carolina Military Academy (or the Citadel) by the score of 12—0. It was the only team in the State that won all its games, the above two were their chief games. In two games Captain Gibbes made five drop-kicks for goals from the field, besides he ran his team well and caught and ran back punts beautifully. Carolina was strong in the line, both its tackles, Cartwright and Sligh, being excellent ground gainers.

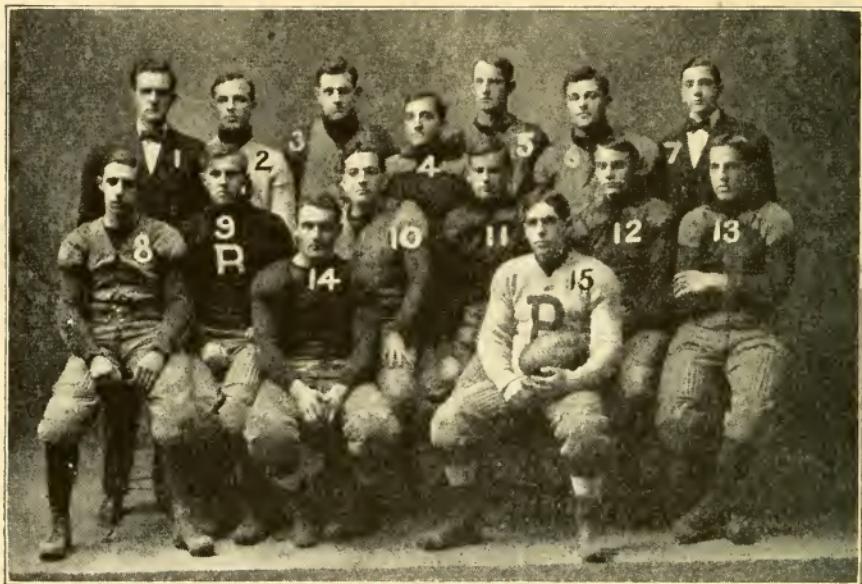

It would be rather hard to pick the third best team in the State, but it seems that that honor should go to the College of Charleston. The team was light, but gritty and always worked hard. They defeated the heavier Citadel eleven in two hard-fought games. Also they were the only team which scored on Carolina during the season. The back-field was its strong point, and they played fast. Hume, Hyde, Todd, and Moore were the stars. Coach Bender deserves great credit for the team, with which he made an excellent showing.

The South Carolina Medical College comes next. They defeated the Citadel, but did not play enough games to be placed ahead of the College of Charleston. Wyman, Harris, and Furman played good ball.

The South Carolina Military Academy—or the Citadel—has next place. The team was, in some respects, a disappointment, not in the quality of ball played, but in the percentage of victories. However, Coach Foster had only four men from the year before to build on. They easily defeated the Welsh Neck High School team, but were beaten by the Medical College, by Carolina, and twice by the College of Charleston. In Magee and Capt. Smith the Citadel had two excellent ends, who were fast runners and strong tacklers. Ducket, at tackle, was a splendid ground gainer.

Welsh Neck High School is next in order. For years this institution has put out an excellent team and one whose defeat casts credit on the victor. Last year they were coached by McIver, of Clemson, and made a creditable showing. Their forward passes, if not the most successful, were easily the longest seen in this section. Watkins at full-back was strong on defense and a splendid line plunger.

The Porter Military Academy is next. They were coached by Lumpkin (Sewanee) and but for accidents, on account of which they were unable to complete their schedule, they would have made an excellent record for themselves. They defeated the College of Charleston by a fluke in the first game of the year, 2 to 0, and held Welsh Neck to one touchdown; they also tied the Citadel. Thus they gave great promise and it was a pity they could not continue.

The choice of an All-South Carolina team is more or less a matter of opinion than actual worth, but still the following men have always figured largely in their respective team games. In the following Clemson College is omitted.

Among other teams the Charleston Athletic Club deserves mention. They tied the Medical College and defeated Welsh Neck High School. Captain Devaux, quarter, and Hammond, full-back, were speedy players. The United States Army garrison at Fort Moultrie put out a team which fought hard, and was always game. The games with the Athletics were close and exciting. Sumter High School might be mentioned, as they held the South Carolina second team to 8—0. On the whole, the season was remarkable. No one was seriously hurt and all the games were free from wrangling. The managers are to be complimented on the well-versed officials whom they chose, who enforced the rules rigidly but justly, and were obeyed without complaint. Great things are expected this season, as the quality of ball played has increased fifty per cent. in the last two years.

Foot Ball in Utah

BY W. D. RISHEL.

The State of Utah, isolated to a certain extent by geographical conditions, has gradually worked athletics up within its borders until now it can be truthfully said it stands on an equal with any State in the great West in athletics. This is especially true of foot ball. The two leading schools, and the only two within the State which play in the college division, are at a great disadvantage in getting games on account of the distance they must go, which means time and expense, to get games in their class. Yet in spite of this drawback the State University closed the season of 1907 tied with the Colorado School of Mines for the Rocky Mountain championship.

The season for the State's leading school was one of ups and downs. Nine games is a pretty long schedule and the effect was seen when the team met one of its strongest rivals, with the result that what should have been a victory was turned into defeat. This was the game with the Colorado State University, played at Boulder, Colo., and this defeat alone was all that kept the Utah school from a clear claim to the Rocky Mountain championship, a title much sought after by the schools in this part of the country.

One of the biggest surprises of the year was the defeat of the Colorado School of Mines by the Utah school. The Miners looked upon the game as mere practice, and it was this confidence, together with taunts hurled at the "Mormons," which girded the Utah school to a spirit of desperation that would not acknowledge defeat. The result was a complete victory and one which Utah foot ball fans welcomed more than all others of the year.

This victory was also responsible for a defeat two weeks later at Los Angeles at the hands of the St. Vincents. The California school was not considered of much class and Utah kept a couple of her best men at home to give the subs a chance to get in on one trip for the year. The local boys did not reckon on the difference in climatic conditions and early in the game found that playing foot ball in foot ball suits made for winter weather was different than playing the game in the summer climate of lower California. One touchdown gave the Los Angeles team a victory and the Utah boys a shock that lasted them through the season.

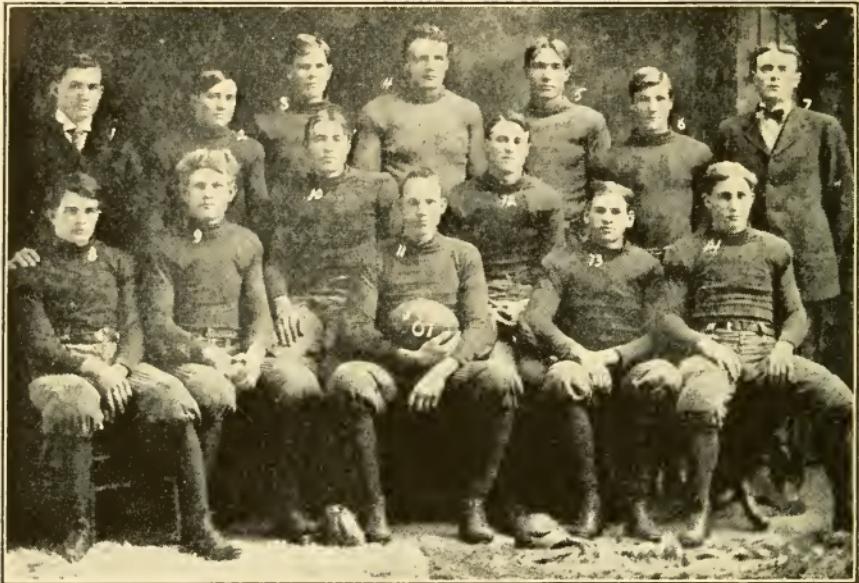

The Agricultural College of Utah went through the season with a single defeat and this was at the hands of the State University. George A. Walker, formerly one of Chicago's best players, was secured as the new coach for the Aggies, and Stagg's pupil worked wonders.

The Ogden High School again carried off the honors for the State in the high school class. This was Coach Blakeslee's second year in charge of the team and he worked up a fighting machine that would have held its own with any high school team in the country.

The Salt Lake High School, which for years held undisputed sway in the High School division in the Western country, was again to get the bad this year. For some reason or other the boys do not seem to get together in athletics, and although there appears to be the old-time spirit and plenty of material, efforts to weld together a winning team has failed now for two years.

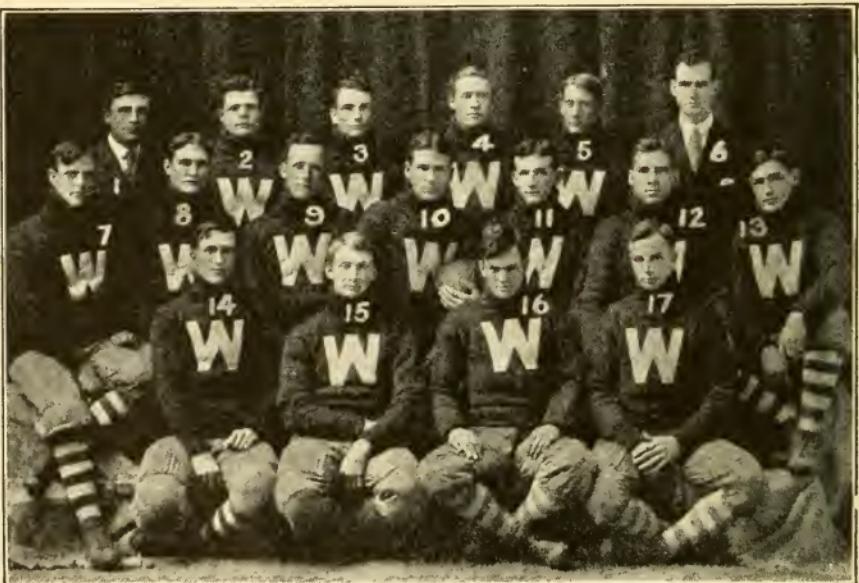

Perhaps All Hallows College deserves as much credit as any high school in the State for its work this season. Coach John F. Tobin had practically no material to work with, yet in spite of this handicap he drilled a team of youngsters that more than held their own toward the end of the season.

The Granite High School also showed strong during the season and for the first time in the history of the sport was a contender with the older schools. The boys of this school deserve great credit.

WASHBURN COLLEGE, TOPEKA, KAN.

Foot Ball in California

BY WALTER HEMPEL, ATHLETIC DIRECTOR ST. VINCENT'S COLLEGE.

As California and Stanford played Rugby, the intercollegiate games were confined to the five colleges located in the southern part of the State, and the leading team must be chosen from the schools in and near Los Angeles.

The conditions in the north are unsettled; California students desire a return to the old game, but Stanford—who won twice from their one great rival—are content to permit Rugby to remain, and claim to be delighted with the game. Stanford and California have both played Rugby in Los Angeles, and in each instance before a small attendance. On the other hand, the intercollegiate game has brought out a record attendance for this section, and is more popular than ever.

Last year the Southern California colleges could not agree on eligibility rules and as a consequence did not play each other, and a local champion was difficult to choose.

Pomona College played only Occidental, Sherman Indians and Whittier College, losing to Occidental and winning from Whittier and the Indians.

For the first time Whittier placed a team in the field, losing all their college games. Occidental won from Pomona and the Indians and Whittier. The University of Southern California played only high schools, a team from the warship "Colorado," and the Whittier eleven, winning all games but the second game with the Los Angeles High School; this they lost 16 to 6.

Saint Vincent's College, practically unknown in Foot Ball, played the Indians and three strong interstate teams, defeating Denver University, 10—0; University of Utah, 11—5; Indians, 11—6, and losing to Oregon Agricultural College—the Northwest champions—by a score of 10—0.

The record of Saint Vincent's was the more remarkable, as the team was light—averaging 161 pounds—and consisted mostly of freshmen and preparatory students.

As Saint Vincent's defeated Utah—who won the Rocky Mountain championship by defeating Colorado School of Mines and Colorado College—Saint Vincent's has some claim on the above title.

Saint Vincent's must share her honors with the Los Angeles High School. This team not only defeated the teams in her class, including Lick School of San Francisco, but also Pomona, 12—0; Occidental, 29—0; and University of Southern California, 16—6. As Saint Vincent's and High School frequently practiced together, they did not meet in a regular game. High School's fine record was caused by their own strength and not by the weakness of their opponents.

The same conditions appear likely to exist this season, Pomona and Occidental being the only schools which have agreed to meet in all branches of athletics. Saint Vincent's will play an even more extensive schedule of games, bringing teams from Colorado, Utah and Oregon, a distance of from 1,000 to 2,000 miles. This necessitates large guarantees and a corresponding attendance.

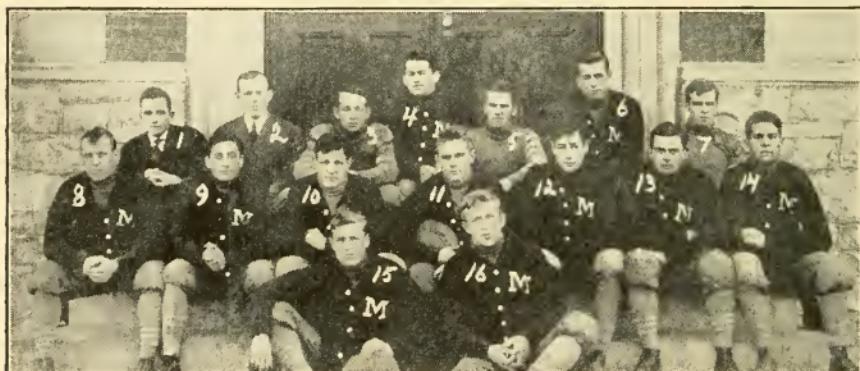

On Thanksgiving Day the Oregon game drew 7,000 enthusiastic fans. Most of the California teams adhered too much to the old style game, High School and Saint Vincent's probably having the best developed forward pass and on-side kick.

The prospects at all the colleges are bright for the coming season, and with the experience of the past year to help the coaches, California should witness a further development of the open style of play which has so firmly caught the public fancy.

Foot Ball in Western New York

BY R. B. LAWRENCE.

The Foot Ball season of 1907 was the most successful one, from any standpoint, that the game has ever known in Western New York. With a better grade of sportsmanship among the players, with a higher grade of officials, and rules so radically changed and improved, it is not to be wondered at that Foot Ball proved itself, par excellence, the game of games.

This locality is perhaps unfortunate in not having any large university devoted to the sport, consequently the athletic clubs and high schools are called upon to furnish the talent, and it is doubtful if there can be found in any part of the country keener competition and a more healthy rivalry than is to be found in either of these divisions. The public has been quick to appreciate the excellence of the article of foot ball exhibited in these contests, and has given an added impetus to the sport by furnishing support of a material order by a record-breaking attendance at all the games.

There is a team in the city of Buffalo, which for the high standard it has maintained for years, occupies at the same time a unique and enviable position among the athletic clubs of the country, and there is no team in the United States whose record can equal that of the Oakdales, an independent organization, which has met the strongest teams available for the last seven years and in that time has only been defeated once. Since this team was organized in 1901 they have played fifty-seven games, scoring 2,025 points to their opponents' 24. Four seasons out of the seven they have not been scored on. The one team that succeeded in winning from them—the famous Watertown aggregation—is composed of former college stars, and some whose names have appeared in the All-America list, but they have not been able to repeat their 1904 performance. The 1907 record of the Oakdales, like all preceding ones, has been a representative one, indeed, not a game being lost and only one team scoring on them. One hundred and twenty points were scored against their rivals' four. As a matter of history and interest the Oakdale record since their organization is appended:

THE REMARKABLE RECORD OF THE OAKDALE TEAM OF BUFFALO.

Year.	Won.	Lost.	Scored.	Opponents.
1901.....	7	0	177	0
1902.....	9	0	446	0
1903.....	8	0	354	0
1904.....	9	0	539	9
1905.....	7	1	255	11
1906.....	8	0	134	0
1907.....	8	0	120	4
Total.....	56	1	2025	24

Among the other amateur organizations that have made gilt-edged records are the Triangles, Lovejoys, Oakfields, All-College and All-Buffalo. The latter team had an exceptionally successful season, suffering but one defeat, and that by the hands of the champion Oakdales, who they were able to score on—Quarter-back Kane having kicked a beautiful goal from placement.

The Syracuse-Carlisle game, which is now an annual feature, attracted fully as much attention as the initial game in 1906, and drew a record-breaking crowd to Olympic Park in Buffalo. The Syracuse followers came in on a special filled with cheering students, who hoped to see their team turn the tables on the Indians for the previous defeat. But the extraordinary speed of Carlisle was again too much for Syracuse. The field was in good condition and the wonderful Mt. Pleasant was used to good advantage, as also was Hauser, whose kicking was a prominent feature of the game. Banks scored the only touchdown for Syracuse by a brilliant forty-five-yard dash around Carlisle's right-end. Stein kicked the goal. The game ended in a hard-fought 14 to 6 victory for the Indians.

Considerable criticism was brought upon the authorities in control of Olympic Park for their action in closing it to the high schools. And for a time it looked as though it might seriously cripple the high school game in this vicinity. But the Lafayette High School Athletic Association closed the breach by buying an excellent site, erecting grandstands and creating a fine gridiron. The public gave the schools hearty support. The Central-Lafayette game on Thanksgiving Day alone drew a crowd of 10,000 enthusiasts, notwithstanding the rival attraction at Olympic Park, the Oakdale-Niagara University game, which drew equally as large a crowd.

Encouraged in this way the schools put up a better article of Foot Ball than ever. Lafayette again carried off the honors from the other high schools by winning the Harvard cup for the second time.

These schools are evenly matched, thanks to first-class eligibility rules, and at no time during the season was any one team sure of the championship. Lafayette played by far the strongest game early in the season, winning from the University School of Cleveland 16 to 0 and Tonawanda High 6 to 0. Then they defeated their first Harvard Cup rivals—Technical—28 to 0. But they were in turn defeated by Masten in a desperate 4 to 0 game.

The Masten team grew stronger as the season advanced, but an early loss of a 11 to 6 game to Technical and their inability to defeat their old enemy—Central—spoiled their chances for the cup. The game between Central and Masten resulted in a no-score contest. For three years the games between these, the oldest schools, have been played without a score being made by either team. Either of these schools would rather win from the other than to capture all the other games of the season.

Lafayette finally clinched the cup by their 10 to 0 victory over Central on Thanksgiving Day. Central's chances had been shattered in the game with Technical, which they lost by the score of 5 to 0.

The other important games that local schools participated in were the no-score game at Erie between Erie High and Lafayette; the defeat of Lafayette at Rochester and the tie game between Masten and East High, also at Rochester.

The Tonawanda team was very strong, only losing to Lafayette. Lockport, Niagara Falls and North Tonawanda were not up to their usual high standard, although the first named won an early season's game from Central High of Buffalo.

In summing up the work of the Western New York teams in the high school division, Lafayette is entitled to first place for all-around work, with Tonawanda a close second.

Interscholastic Foot Ball in Central New York

BY HARVEY N. HENDERSON, SYRACUSE UNIVERSITY, '03.

The season of 1907 was a very successful one with a majority of the interscholastic foot ball teams of this section of the State. The game has been improving with marked regularity among the preparatory school teams for the last few years and now every team in this section is well coached and trained to the hour, after the same manner as the leading college teams. The game has been well patronized the past season, as was shown by the attendance at the Syracuse-Rochester East High game in Syracuse, when 7,000 persons witnessed the game, and also by the double-header between the teams representing Rochester East High and Masten Park of Buffalo, and Syracuse High and Rochester West High, when 9,000 witnessed the games at Rochester. For those games large excursions were run from both Buffalo and Syracuse, with many enthusiasts to support their favorite teams, and the excitement was intense, as both games resulted in tie scores, the first 0—0 and the second 6—6.

Although Syracuse High School did not do better than get a tie score of 6—6 with Rochester West High School, yet there seems to be no question but that the championship of this section must go to the former team, as Syracuse clearly outplayed Rochester in nearly all points of the game and also had the record of winning every other game played during the season, a feat which no other team accomplished.

In defeating Rochester East High School, 8—5, Syracuse won one of the best and hardest played games ever witnessed by the writer, and a game that was not won until the final blow of the whistle. Syracuse scored first on a long run of Gillette, her sturdy full-back, after obtaining a ball fumbled by a Rochester half-back, Boland of Syracuse kicked the goal, making it six to nothing. Rochester intercepted a forward pass a little later in the game and made a run of half the length of the field, but failed at goal, leaving the score 6—5 at the end of the first half. In the second half Syracuse played a kicking game and kept Rochester near their own goal line until finally Syracuse forced them to make safety, leaving the final score 8—5 in favor of Syracuse.

A game played between the two Rochester schools, East and West High, which was played on Thanksgiving Day, resulting in a no-score contest, was one of the most important of this section, on account of the caliber and the rivalry of the two schools. In this contest East High clearly outplayed their rival, in that they had the ball dangerously near their opponents' goal on several occasions and tried to kick a number of goals from the field, while West High did not succeed in getting the ball near the East High goal.

Other big games of the year were played between Lafayette High of Buffalo and Rochester West High, in which Rochester was victorious in a well-played game by a score of 11—0, and between Starkey Seminary and Binghamton High School, in which game the former team won by the score of 4—0, by kicking a goal from the field after being unable to score by the rushing game.

In the inter-section games played between the teams representing the western, central and eastern parts of the Empire State, the teams of central New York were victorious in every instance, showing that the game is farther advanced in this section than in other parts of the State.

sistency during the entire season, they would rank in the following order: Syracuse High School, Rochester East High School, Rochester West High School, Starkey Seminary, Lafayette High School of Buffalo, Elmira Free Academy, George Junior Republic, Masten Park High School of Buffalo, Binghamton High School, Albany High School, St. John's Military Academy, Ithaca High School, Central High School of Buffalo, Utica Free Academy, Cook Academy, Auburn High School and Cascadilla School.

As it devolves upon the author of this review to pick an all-interscholastic team, I will attempt the task with the idea of being as impartial as possible and of trying to get the strongest eleven that would be able to play the new and revised game of foot ball well, in all departments of the game.

ALL-INTERSCHOLASTIC ELEVEN FOR 1907.

FIRST ELEVEN.

End	Hait (Binghamton High).
Tackle	Bloom (Rochester East High).
Guard	Parker (Ithaca High).
Center	Noxon (Syracuse High).
Guard	Bernhard (Rochester West High).
Tackle	Ward (Rochester East High).
End	Herzog (George Junior Republic).
Quarter-back	Boland (Syracuse High).
Half-back	Van Brocklin (Syracuse High).
Half-back	Patterson (Starkey Seminary).
Full-back	Niven (Rochester West High).

SUBSTITUTES.

McLaughlin (Syracuse High).
Loomis (Syracuse High).
Haviland (Syracuse High).
Smith (Rochester West High).
Krafts (Rochester East High).
O'Rourke (Syracuse High).
Gute (George Junior Republic).
Roe (Elmira Free Academy).
Ball (Rochester West High).
Reidpath (Lafayette High).
Duffy (Binghamton High).

The back field was composed of an exceptionally strong lot of players of the high school ranks, having two heavy men in it.

Boland at quarter was far and away the best of the year, and owing to his experience in the game he should be captain of the team; he outpunted every rival he met during the season, and so the kicking department would be well taken care of; he was also good with the forward pass, being able to pass from forty to fifty yards with ease. Niven earns the place of full-back, as he was a first-class line breaker and a good man for interference. Patterson is also a good line breaker, with plenty of weight and is a fast man running the ends. Van Brocklin, while not a large man, is fast running the ends and is a first-class man recovering fumbled balls, as he follows the ball very closely; he handles the forward pass well and is a good man in the broken field. There seems to be a great scarcity of first-class ends, but, nevertheless, there were quite a good many men that would take care of the ends of the line in good shape. Hait of Binghamton and Herzog of George Junior Republic seem to have the call and both are good men. Hait was a good man on defense, while Herzog was a big, heavy, fast man, being especially brilliant in receiving the forward pass. At the tackle position both Bloom and Ward of Rochester East High School were towers of strength for their team, Ward being an especially good man on defensive work. Parker of Ithaca High School is the heaviest man on the team, weighing nearly 200 pounds, and is a strong offensive as well as defensive player; he can be used by this team to advance the ball with good success. Bernhard, the other guard, is also a man close to the 200-pound class and is a good consistent player. At center, Noxon of Syracuse High School, although a light man, only weighing 160 pounds, gets the call on his all-around ability, being a first-class passer and a fast man on his feet, getting down the field under kicks as fast as the ends.

 Sergeant (Cutler) and Knowles (Manual), guards.
 Stilwell (North Denver), center.
 Randolph (Colorado Springs High), quarter-back.
 Vandemoer (East Denver High) and Whittaker (Colo. Springs High), half-backs.
 Murphy (Colorado Springs High), full-back.

ALL-NORTHERN DIVISION COLORADO INTERSCHOLASTIC ELEVEN.

Selected especially for Spalding's Guide by Pyke Johnson.

Bingham (North Denver) and Michie (East Denver), ends.
 Hill (Preps) and Schmidt (Manual), tackles.
 Frye (North Denver) and Knowles (Manual), guards.
 Stilwell (North Denver), center.
 Burgener (Preps), quarter-back.
 Pigg (West Denver) and Vandemoer (East Denver), half-backs.
 Walker (Manual), full-back.

ALL-SOUTHERN DIVISION COLORADO INTERSCHOLASTIC ELEVEN.

Selected especially for Spalding's Guide by A. W. Henderson.

Blake (Pueblo Centennial) and Fair (Pueblo Central), ends.
 Pryor (Pueblo Centennial) and Morrison (Colorado Springs High), tackles.
 Sergeant (Cutler) and Garin (Colorado Springs High), guards.
 Taylor (Cutler), center.
 Randolph (Colorado Springs High), quarter-back.
 Whittaker (Colo. Springs High) and Martin (Colo. Springs High), half-backs.
 Murphy (Colorado Springs High), full-back.

Taking into consideration the fact that only one game was played between teams of the Northern and Southern divisions and that outside of the elevens meeting in this game, the two divisions did not clash at all, the selection of an All-Colorado Interscholastic eleven for 1907 is a matter that may leave open much room for discussion by the supporters of the different schools. In many of the positions, however, the strength of the men picked for the All-Colorado is so much greater than that of the other players that they will be accorded the positions received by all who have followed the game closely, while the others will, I believe, be picked by a majority at least.

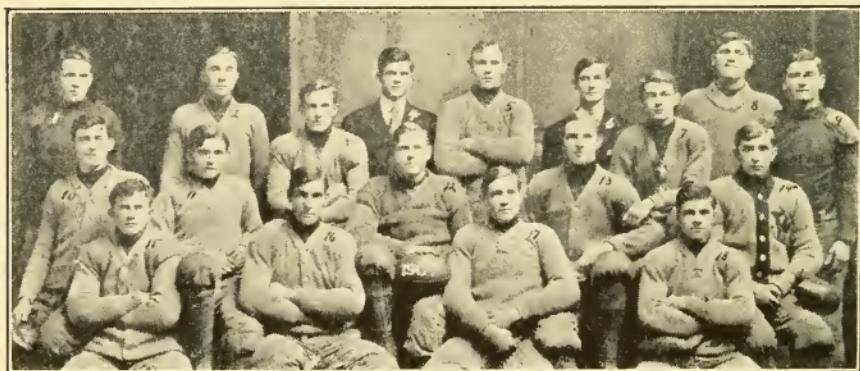

Perhaps the most interesting phase of the season in Colorado high schools was the fact that it was the small towns which produced the strongest teams. Outside of the league, Longmont, Loveland, Delta, Grand Junction and Fort Collins all had classy elevens, by comparative scores, stronger than most of the teams in the league, and it is quite probable that some of these towns will make a strong fight for admission to the league this year. On account of the appearance of these teams, interest in the game took new life all over the State, and as a result the season was one of the most successful that Colorado has ever witnessed.

Another feature of the season was the development of a large number of star athletes, men who played a college game, such as Vandemoer, of East Denver, one of the greatest athletes Colorado has ever produced, and Morrison and Murphy of the Springs.

MONTCLAIR (N. J.) ACADEMY.

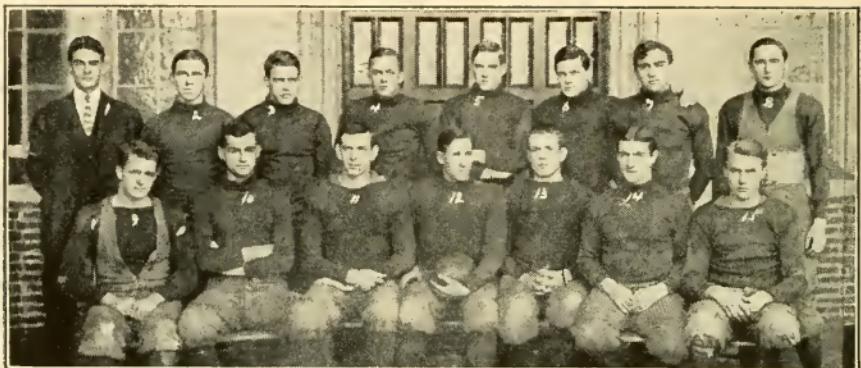

All three of these men deserve unqualified positions on the eleven, the first as half-back, the second at tackle and the third at full-back.

On the line Bingham of North Denver and Blake of Pueblo Centennial get the ends because of their speedy running down of punts and cool, effective tackling. At tackle Morrison, captain of the Colorado Springs High School champions, gets one place without dispute, and Pryor of the Pueblo Centennial is given the other over Hill of the Boulder Preps, because of his longer experience, although there is practically little difference in their game. Knowles of Manual Training High School is the one first-year man on the team, taking right guard, with Sergeant of Cutler Academy at left guard. This position proved about the hardest one to pick, but the two men selected win because of their smashing qualities and generally consistent game. Stillwell of North Denver at center completes the list of the line men.

In the back-field the season was most productive of good material. Nearly all of the elevens were strong in this department, and the final selection of these men leaves a quartette that could give any of the college elevens a hard game.

The men selected are: Randolph, quarter; Whittaker and Vandemoer, halves, and Murphy, full. Of the four two were only chosen after a careful sifting of the men at hand. The others, Vandemoer and Murphy, easily won their places. Against Randolph, Burgener of the Preps made a good run, while Weiner of West Denver, Martin of the Springs and R. Pigg, also of West Denver, were nip-and-tuck with Whittaker for his place. Randolph was finally selected for his generalship, a most important quality in this position, and his snappy, clean-cut playing. Whittaker is a strong offensive and defensive plunging back as well as a good runner.

In conclusion, I might state that the State Interscholastic championship of the year was won on Thanksgiving Day at Colorado Springs by the Colorado Springs High School Terrors from the Boulder Preps, champions of the Northern division, by the decisive score of 34 to 0.

Alterations in the Rules for 1908

In order to render the rules and penalties more consistent it was voted that Rules 24 and 25, which in some instances differ from the general line, should be made to read:

"Loss of fifteen yards, point to be gained and number of down to remain unchanged."

It was also determined that all penalties for fouls, except penalties under forward pass, may be declined by the offended side. This, however, in cases where the penalty includes disqualification, does not save the player from being put out of the game.

The penalty for batting the ball forward is made loss of ball to the offended side, and the ruling placed under the jurisdiction of the Umpire and Field Judge. The Field Judge is also made time-keeper.

The score of a forfeited game is made 1-0, in order to distinguish it from any other possible scores.

The rule regarding forward pass is altered in the following manner:

When the forward pass is legally touched, only the man of the passer's side who thus first legally touched it shall be entitled to recover the ball until it has been touched by an opponent. Also, if a forward pass is thus legally touched, fumbled, and touched by another player of the passer's side before the ball has touched an opponent, the ball shall go to the opponents on the side where it was first illegally touched.

While the ball is in the air for a forward pass, players of the defensive side may not use their hands or arms on opponents, except to push them out of the way in order to get the ball themselves. Players of the side making the pass, who are eligible to receive the pass, may use the hands and arms as in case of players going down the field under a kick. Neither side may, however, "hold" or "tackle" an opponent who has not the ball.

Finally, in case a forward pass is illegally touched outside of these provisions named above, the penalty shall be that the ball will go to the opponents at the spot from which the pass was made.

The Committee strongly advises the use of all four officials as provided for.

Time is to be taken out during enforcement of penalty for incompletely forward pass.

The ten minute intermission has been increased to fifteen, the Referee to notify the teams three minutes before its expiration. Five minutes after this notification, if either team has failed to appear, the ball shall be put in play as first down by the offended side on the offending side's thirty-yard line.

If a ball on a forward pass or a kicked ball, except try-at-goal, strike the uprights or cross-bars, the ball shall be considered as having crossed the goal line.

In case of the ball accidentally striking an official, the play shall be played over again.

The other alterations are practically only changes in the wording.

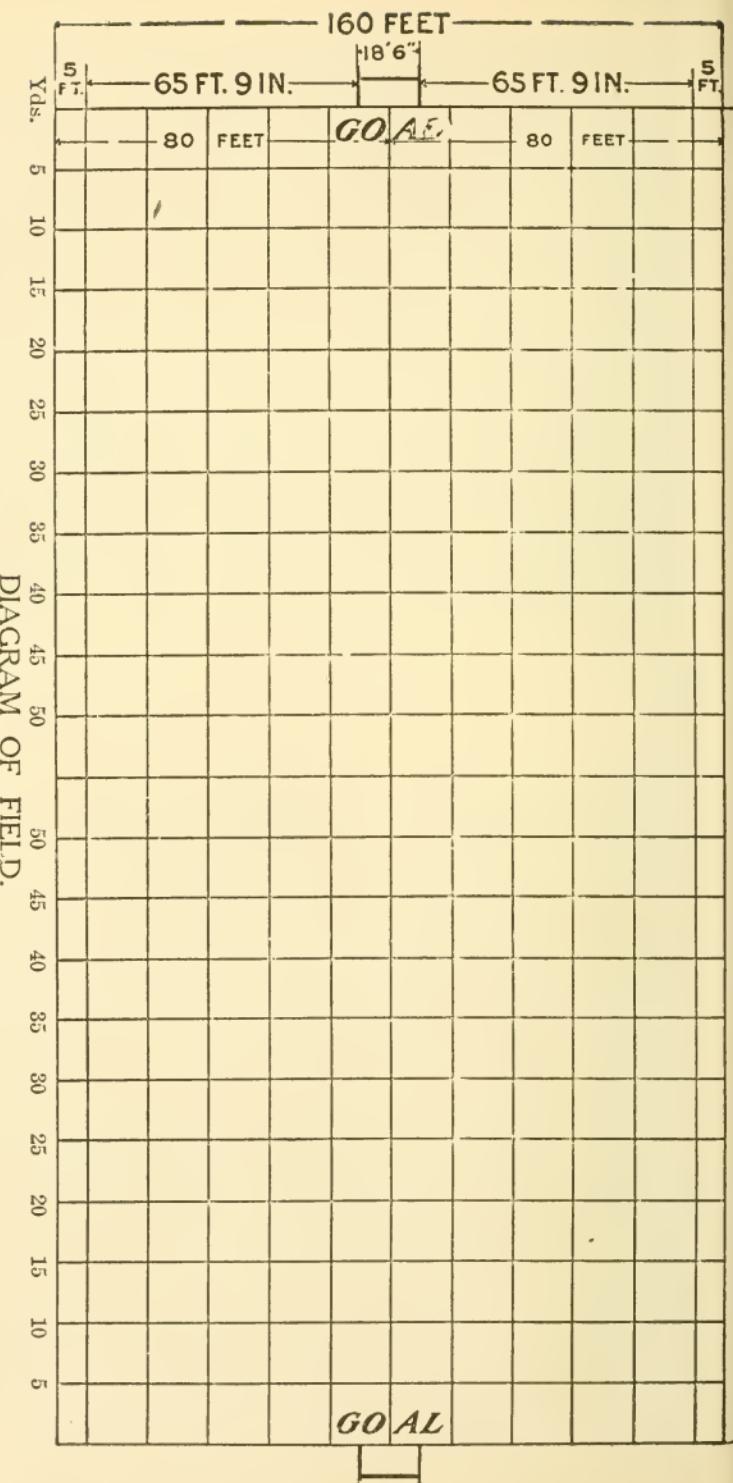

DIAGRAM OF FIELD.

The foot ball rules provide that when the ball is put in play in a scrimmage, the first man who receives the ball, commonly known as the quarter-back, may carry it forward beyond the line of scrimmage, provided in so doing he crosses such line at least 5 yards from the point where the snapper-back put the ball in play, and furthermore, that a forward pass may be made provided the ball passes over the line of scrimmage at least 5 yards from the point at which the ball is put in play. The field is marked off at intervals of 5 yards with white lines parallel to the goal line, for convenience in penalizing fouls and for measuring the 10 yards to be gained in three downs, and also at intervals of 5 yards with white lines parallel to the side lines, in order to assist the Referee in determining whether the quarter-back runs according to rule, or whether, in case of a forward pass, such pass is legally made. Thus the foot ball field is changed from the gridiron as in 1902, to what now resembles a checkerboard, and the above diagram shows exactly how the field should be marked. As the width of the field does not divide evenly into 5 yard spaces, it is wise to run the first line through the middle point of the field and then to mark off the 5 yards on each side from that middle line. In order to save labor, it may be sufficient to omit the full completion of the longitudinal lines, as the object of these lines is accomplished if their points of intersection with the transverse lines are distinctly marked, for instance, by a line a foot long.

RULE I.

FIELD.

SECTION 1. The game shall be played Dimensions. upon a rectangular field, 330 feet in length and 160 feet in width, enclosed by heavy white lines marked in lime upon the ground. The lines at the two ends shall be termed Goal Lines. Those on the two sides shall be termed Side Lines and shall be considered to extend beyond their points of intersection with the goal lines. The rectangular space bounded by the goal lines and the side lines shall be technically known as the Field of Play.

Field of Play.

SECTION 2. The field shall be marked off at intervals of 5 yards, with white lines parallel to the goal lines, and also at intervals of 5 yards, with white lines parallel to the side lines, beginning at the center.

Marking.

(See Note 1, Page 244.)

SECTION 3. The goal shall be placed in the Goal. middle of each goal line, and shall consist of two upright posts exceeding 20 feet in height and placed 18 feet 6 inches apart, with a horizontal cross-bar 10 feet from the ground.

RULE II.

BALL.

Ball. SECTION 1. The foot ball used shall be of leather, enclosing an inflated rubber bladder. The ball shall have the shape of a prolate spheroid.

RULE III.

PLAYERS AND SUBSTITUTES.

Number of Players. SECTION 1. The game shall be played by two teams of eleven men each.

Substitutes. SECTION 2. A player may be substituted for another at any time. In such a case the substitute must go directly to the Referee and report himself before engaging in play. A player who has been replaced by a substitute may not return to further participation in the game.

PENALTY

(REFEREE)

For not so reporting or for further participation—Loss of 15 yards.

Equipment of Players. SECTION 3. No player having projecting nails or iron plates on his shoes or any projecting metallic or hard substance on his person shall be allowed to play in a game. If head protectors are worn, no sole leather, papier mache, or other hard or unyielding material shall be used in their construction, and all other devices for protectors must be so arranged and padded as, in the judgment of the Umpire, to be without danger to other players. Leather cleats upon the shoes shall be allowed as heretofore.

PENALTY

(UMPIRE)

Suspension, unless the fault is corrected within two minutes.

RULE IV.LENGTH OF GAME.

SECTION 1. The length of the game shall be 70 minutes, divided into two halves of 35 minutes each, exclusive of time taken out, though it may be of shorter duration by mutual agreement between the managers or captains of the contesting teams.

In case no such agreement is reached before 10 minutes after the time scheduled for beginning the game, the Referee shall order the game to proceed and the full time shall be played.

SECTION 2. There shall be fifteen minutes Intermission, intermission between the two halves. The Referee shall cause both teams to be notified three minutes before the intermission has expired. Fifteen minutes after the close of the first half the Referee shall blow his whistle in the middle of the field, and in case either team fails to appear within two minutes thereafter, the ball shall be put in play as first down by the offended side on the offending side's thirty-yard line.

RULE IV.

Darkness. SECTION 3. Whenever the commencement of a game is so late that in the opinion of the Referee, there is any likelihood of the game being interfered with by darkness, he shall, before play begins, arbitrarily shorten the two halves to such length as shall insure two equal halves being completed, and shall notify both captains of the exact time thus set.

PENALTY

(REFEREE)

For refusal to abide by the opinion of the Referee under Section 3—Forfeiture of the game.

Time extended. SECTION 4. Time shall not be called for the end of a half until the ball is dead, and in the case of a touchdown the try-at-goal shall be allowed.

RULE V.SCORING.

Scoring. The game shall be decided by the final score at the end of the two halves. The following shall be the value of plays in scoring:

Touchdown, 5 points.

Goal from touchdown, 1 point.

Goal from the field, 4 points.

Safety by opponents, 2 points.

The score of a forfeited game shall be 1 to 0 in favor of the offended side.

RULE VI. DEFINITIONS.

SECTION 1. A Place-kick is kicking the Place-kick ball after it has been placed on the ground.

A Kick-off is a place-kick from the center Kick-off of the field of play.

(For position of players see Rule IX., Page 198.)

A Punt is dropping the ball from the Punt hand or hands and kicking it before it touches the ground.

A Punt-out is a punt made by a player Punt-out of the side which has made a touchdown to another of his own side for a fair catch.

(For position of players see Rule XI., Page 199.)

A Drop-kick is dropping the ball from the Drop-kick hand or hands and kicking it the instant it rises from the ground.

A Kick-out is a drop-kick, place-kick or Kick-out punt made by a player of the side which has made a safety or a touchback.

(For position of players see Rule X., Page 198.)

A Free-kick is any kick when the opponents are restrained by rule from advancing beyond a certain point before the ball is put in play, and includes Kick-off, Kick-out, Punt-out, Kick from a Fair Catch, and Place-kick for Goal after a touchdown.

SECTION 2. Snapping the ball is putting Snapping the it back from its position on the ground with ball. one quick and continuous motion of hand or hands or of the foot.

RULE VI.

Scrimmage. SECTION 3. A Scrimmage takes place when the holder of the ball places it flat upon the ground, with its long axis at right angles to the line of scrimmage, and puts it in play by kicking it forward or snapping it back. The scrimmage does not end until the ball is dead.

Line of Scrimmage. The Line of Scrimmage for each side is an imaginary line parallel to the goal line and passing through that point of the ball nearest the side's own goal line.

(For position of players see Rule VIII., Page 196, and Note 4, Page 244. See illustrations Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4, Pages 247, 248.)

Off-side. SECTION 4. A player is Off-side when the ball has last been touched by one of his own side behind him.

(For restrictions on Off-side players see Rule XX., Page 215.)

Fair Catch. SECTION 5. A Fair Catch is catching the ball after it has been kicked by one of the opponents and before it touches the ground, or in similarly catching a "punt-out" by another of the catcher's own side, provided the player (except in case of punt-out, where no signal is necessary), while advancing toward the ball, signals his intention of making a fair catch by raising his hand clearly above his head, and does not take more than two steps after making the catch.

(For putting ball in play after, see Rule XV., Sections 2 and 11, Pages 204, 206. See illustrations Nos. 9 and 10, Page 250.)

RULE VI.

It is not a fair catch if the ball after the kick was touched by another of the catcher's side before the catch.

The mark of the catch is the spot at which the ball is actually caught.

Opportunity to make a fair catch is where the player is in such a position that it would be possible for him to reach the ball before it touches the ground.

(For interference and false signalling see Rule XVII., Page 209, Sections 5, 6 and 7.)

(See also Note 19, Page 246.)

SECTION 6. A Down occurs when the Referee blows his whistle or declares the ball dead.

The Referee shall blow his whistle or declare the ball dead:

(a) When a player having the ball cries "Down";

(b) When any portion of his person, except his hands or feet, touches the ground while he is in the grasp of an opponent;

(c) When he goes out of bounds; or,

(For definition of Out of Bounds, see Section 13, Page 192.)

(d) Whenever he is so held that his forward progress has been stopped;

(e) When, on a forward pass, the ball, after being passed forward, touches the ground before being touched by a player of either side.

(See Rule XIX., Page 213, Section 4.)

RULE VI.

Touchdown. SECTION 7. A Touchdown is made when the ball lawfully in possession of a player is declared dead by the Referee, any part of it being on, above or behind the opponent's goal line.

The Touchdown is marked at the point not where the ball is carried across the line, but where the ball is called "down" by the Referee, and if the ball is carried across the extension of the side line, is marked at the point where the side line crosses the goal line.

Touchback. SECTION 8. A Touchback is made when the ball in possession of a player guarding his own goal is declared dead by the Referee, any part of it being on, above or behind the goal line, provided the impetus which sent it to or across the line was given by an opponent. The Referee shall declare the ball dead behind the goal line just as if it were on the field of play.

It is also a Touchback when a kicked ball (other than at kick-off or a place-kick or drop-kick passing over the cross-bar) goes over the goal line either on the fly or after striking the ground (before being touched by a player of either side). If such a ball strikes the uprights or cross-bar it shall be considered as having crossed the goal line.

RULE VI.

It is a Touchback when a player on defense permits a ball, kicked by an opponent, to strike his person and then roll across the goal line, and any player of his side then falls on it back of the line.

It is not a Touchback if such player jugs the ball so that he in any way forces Touchback. It over the line and he or any player of his side then falls on it.

(*For Touchback from forward pass see Rule XIX., Page 215.
Sections 7 and 8.*)

SECTION 9. A Safety is made when the Safety, ball in the possession of a player guarding his own goal is declared dead by the Referee, any part of it being on, above or behind the goal line, provided the impetus which caused it to pass from outside the goal to or behind the goal line was given by the side defending the goal. Such impetus could come :

(a) From a kick, pass, snap-back or fumble by one of the player's own side.

(b) From a kick which bounded back from an opponent.

(c) In case a player carrying the ball is forced back, provided the ball was not declared dead by the Referee before the line was reached or crossed.

A Safety is made when a player of the side in possession of the ball commits a foul which would give the ball to the opponents behind the offender's goal line.

RULE VI.

A Safety is made when the ball, kicked by a man behind his goal line, crosses the extended portion of either side line.

Goal from Touchdown. SECTION 10. A Goal from Touchdown is made by kicking the ball from the field of play over the cross-bar of the opponents' goal, by a place-kick direct, or a place-kick preceded by a punt-out.

If the ball passes directly over one of the uprights, or if, after being kicked, it strikes an opponent and then passes over the cross-bar or one of the uprights, it shall count a goal.

Goal from the Field. SECTION 11. A Goal from the Field is made by kicking the ball from the field of play over the cross-bar of the opponents' goal in any way except by a punt or a kick-off.

If the ball passes directly over one of the uprights, or if, after being kicked, it strikes an opponent and then passes over the cross-bar or one of the uprights, it shall count a goal.

Foul. SECTION 12. A Foul is any violation of a rule.

Out of Bounds. SECTION 13. The ball is Out of Bounds when either the ball or any part of a player who holds it touches the ground on or outside the side line or side line extended.

SECTION 14. Tripping is obstructing a Tripping. player below the knee with that part of the obstructing player's leg that is below the knee.

(For penalty see Rule XXIV., Page 219, Section 5. See Note 9.

SECTION 15. Hurdling as used in the rules Hurdling. applies only to the man carrying the ball.

Hurdling in the open is jumping over or attempting to jump over an opponent who is still on his feet.

Hurdling in the line is jumping over, or attempting to jump over, a player on the line of scrimmage, with the feet or knees foremost, within the distance of 5 yards on either side of the point where the ball was put in play.

(For penalty see Rule XXIV., Page 219, Section 4. See Note 10.
Page 245.)

SECTION 16. The ball is Dead:

Ball is dead.

(a) When the Referee blows his whistle or declares that a down, touchdown, touch-back, safety or goal has been made;

(b) When a fair catch has been made;

(c) When any portion of the person (except the hands or feet) of the player carrying the ball touches the ground, when the player is in the grasp of an opponent;

RULE VI.

- (d) When the ball goes out of bounds after a kick, before touching a player who is on-side or is otherwise entitled to it;
- (e) When a player carrying the ball goes out of bounds;

- (f) When, on a forward pass, the ball, after being passed forward, crosses the goal line on the fly without touching a player of either side;

(See Rule XIX., Page 215, Section 7.)

- (g) When, on a forward pass, the ball, after being passed forward and legally touched by any player, crosses the goal line either in the air or rolling on the ground;

(See Rule XIX., Page 215, Section 8.)

- (h) When a kicked ball (except a kick-off or free-kick) goes over the goal line on the fly or strikes inside the field of play and then rolls over the goal line before being touched by a player of either side;

- Ball striking official, dead. (i) When the ball accidentally strikes an official, dead. In such case the play must be played over.

- (j) At the spot where it was when the Referee blew his whistle or declared it dead.

RULE VII.

KICK-OFF

SECTION 1. The captains of the opposing teams shall toss up a coin before the game, Beginning of the winner of the toss to have his choice of goal or kick-off. If the winner of the toss selects the goal, the loser must take the kick-off.

At the beginning of the second half Second half. the teams shall take opposite goals from those assumed at the beginning of the first half, and the kick-off shall be made by the side which did not first kick off at the beginning of the game.

The teams shall change goals after every try-at-goal following a touchdown, and after every goal from the field, and the side just scored upon shall have the option of kicking off or of having their opponents kick off. After scoring.

(For position of players, see Rule IX., Page 198.)

SECTION 2. At kick-off, if the ball is kicked across the goal line and is there declared dead when in the possession of one of the side defending the goal, it is a touchback. Ball kicked across goal line.

If the ball is not declared dead, the side defending the goal may run with it or kick it exactly as if it had not crossed the goal line.

If it is declared dead in possession of the attacking side, provided that the man was on-side, it is a touchdown.

RULE VIII.

POSITION OF PLAYERS AT SCRIMMAGE.

Six players on scrimmage line. SECTION 1. When the ball is put in play by a scrimmage at least six players of the side holding the ball shall be on the line of scrimmage. If only six players are on the line of scrimmage, one player of those not on the line of scrimmage shall stand with both feet outside the outside foot of the player on the end of the line.

Player on scrimmage line, when. A player shall be considered to be on the line of scrimmage if he has both hands or both feet up to or within one foot of this line, or if he has one foot and the opposite hand up to or within one foot of it. He shall also stand with both feet outside the outside foot of the player next to him, unless he be one of the two men standing on either side of and next to the snapper-back (commonly known as guards), in which case he may lock legs with the snapper-back.

Locking legs.

After fair catch. SECTION 2. After a fair catch the ball may be put in play by either a punt, drop-kick, place-kick or scrimmage.

(*For definition of Fair Catch, see Rule VI., Page 188, Section 5.
See Note 5, Page 244.*)

After a foul, not until. SECTION 3. If a foul is declared the ball shall not be put in play again until penalty has either been enforced or declined.

(For definition of Foul, see Rule VI., Page 192, Section 12.)

Player first receiving ball
back.

SECTION 4. The player who first receives the ball when it is snapped back shall not carry the ball forward beyond the line of scrimmage unless he shall have regained it after having delivered it wholly out of his possession to another player, or unless he shall have crossed the line of scrimmage at least 5 yards outside of the point where the ball was snapped.

PENALTY
Loss of 15 yards.

(REFEREE)

Feint to snap
the ball.

SECTION 5. If, after the snapper-back has taken his position, he voluntarily moves the ball as if to snap it, whether he withholds it altogether or only momentarily, it shall be considered as in play, and the scrimmage as begun.

Feints by players of side on offense other than snapper-back.

SECTION 6. If a player other than the snapper-back of the side in possession of the ball makes a deliberate attempt, by a false start or otherwise, to draw the opponents off-side, the ball, if snapped, shall not be regarded as in play or the scrimmage as begun.

RULE XV.

PENALTY

Loss of 5 yards.

(REFEREE)

SECTION 7. At kick-off, if the ball goes out of bounds before it is touched by an opponent, it shall be brought back and be kicked off again. If it is kicked out of bounds a second time it shall go as a kick-off to the opponents. If either side thus forfeits the ball twice, it shall go to the opponents, who shall put it in play by a scrimmage at the center of the field.

(See Note 15, Page 246.)

SECTION 8. If on a kick-out the ball goes out of bounds before striking a player, it must be kicked out again, and if this occurs twice in succession it shall be given to the opponents as out of bounds on the 35-yard line nearest to the kicker's goal line.

(See Note 15, Page 246.)

SECTION 9. If a kicked ball other than at kick-off, or kick-out, either before or after touching the ground, goes out of bounds before crossing the opponents' goal line, it shall belong to the opponents at the point where it crosses the side line.

RULE XV.

But if it strikes any player who is entitled to get it and then goes out of bounds it shall belong to the player who first obtains possession of it.

Walking in with ball after out of bounds. SECTION 10. If the ball goes out of bounds, whether it bounds back or not, a player of the side which is entitled to its possession must bring it to the spot where the ball crossed the side line, and there, after declaring how far he intends walking, walk in with it, in company with the Referee, at right angles to the side line, any distance not less than 5 nor more than 15 yards, and at a point indicated by the Referee put it down for a scrimmage.

Two steps after fair catch. SECTION 11. If the player attempting to make a fair catch takes more than two steps after catching the ball, his side must put the ball in play by a scrimmage at a point 5 yards back of the mark of the catch. (But see Rule XV., Section 14.)

Ball touching ground at try-at-goal to go as a kick-off. SECTION 12. If in case of a try-at-goal after a touchdown the ball is not kicked after having been allowed to touch the ground once, no second attempt shall be permitted and the ball shall be kicked off at the center of the field exactly as if the try-at-goal had been made.

After try-at-goal ball to go as a kick-off. SECTION 13. After the try - at - goal, whether the goal be made or missed, the SECTION 14. If a fair catch is not made On failure of on the first attempt on a punt-out, the ball fair catch at shall be put in play by a kick-off at the punt-out ball to center of the field. go as a kick-off.

RULE XVI.DELAY OF GAME.

SECTION 1. Time shall be taken out when- Time taken out. ever the game is necessarily delayed or while the ball is being brought out for a try-at-goal, punt-out, kick-out, or kick-off, after a fair catch has been made, during enforcement of penalty for uncompleted forward pass, or when play is for any reason suspended by the Referee. Time shall begin again when the ball is actually put in play.

SECTION 2. Time shall not be taken out Ball out of when the ball goes out of bounds except bounds. at the direction of the Referee, and then only in case of unreasonable delay in returning the ball to play.

SECTION 3. Either captain may ask that By request of time be called three times during each half Captains. without penalty. If thereafter, however, time is taken out at the request of a captain, his side shall be penalized by a loss of two yards for each time (unless a player be removed from the game), the number of the down and the point to be gained remaining the same as they were before the request was made.

By order of Referee. The Referee, however, may suspend play at any time at his own discretion without penalty to either side.

Length of delay. SECTION 4. No delay arising from any cause whatsoever shall continue more than two minutes.

PENALTY

(REFEREE)

Unreasonable delay on the part of side not in possession of ball—5 yards and the scrimmage following to be counted as first down.

Unreasonable delay on the part of side in possession of the ball—5 yards, the down and the point to be gained for the first down remaining the same as they were at the beginning of the scrimmage during which the delay occurred.

Refusal of either side to play within two minutes after having been ordered to do so by the Referee—forfeiture of the game.

RULE XVII.UNLAWFUL INTERFERENCE WITH PLAY.

Interference with snapper. SECTION 1. Before the ball is put in play the opponents must not interfere in any way with the snapper-back, nor touch him or the ball.

PENALTY

(REFEREE)

Loss of 5 yards.

Interference with opponents. SECTION 2. Before the ball is put in play no player shall lay his hands upon, or by the use of his hands or arms, interfere with an opponent in such a way as to delay putting the ball in play.

PENALTY

(UMPIRE)

Loss of 5 yards.

SECTION 3. When the ball is put in play in a scrimmage by kicking it forward instead of snapping it back, no player of the side which put the ball in play may touch it until it has been touched by an opponent or until it has gone 10 yards into the opponents' territory.

PENALTY

(REFEREE)

For violation, the ball goes to the opponents on the spot of the foul.

SECTION 4. When a player has an opportunity for making a fair catch, opponents who are off-side shall not in any way interfere with him or with the ball.

PENALTY

(FIELD JUDGE)

Loss of 15 yards and offended side to have fair catch whether ball be caught or not.

(For definition of Opportunity to Make a Fair Catch, see Rule VI., Page 188, Section 5.)

(See also Note 19, Page 246.)

SECTION 5. No player shall be thrown to the ground after he has made a fair catch.

PENALTY

(FIELD JUDGE)

Loss of 15 yards.

(For definition of Fair Catch, see Rule VI., Page 188, Section 5.)

SECTION 4. If a foul is committed by the First down side which did not put the ball in play, the offending scrimmage after a distance penalty shall be counted as first down. side not in possession of ball

RULE XXVI.

First down SECTION 5. If a foul is committed by a player when neither side is in possession of the ball, the ball shall go to the offended side as first down.

Foul within 1-yard line. SECTION 6. If a foul is committed within the 1-yard line and the distance penalty if enforced would result in a touchdown, one-half the remaining distance to the goal line shall be given.

(See Rule XXIV., Page 220, Section 8.)

Distance penalty carrying ball inside 1-yard line or across goal line. SECTION 7. If a foul is committed not within the 1-yard line and the distance penalty if enforced would result in a touchdown or carry the ball inside the 1-yard line, the ball shall be down on the 1-yard line. This provision includes cases arising under Rule XXV., Page 221.

One official penalizing one side, another official the other side on same play. SECTION 8. In case one official signals a foul against one side and another official signals a foul against the other side on the same play, the penalties being other than disqualification, the ball shall be brought back to the point where it was put in play and be played over again, the number of the down and the point to be gained for first down remaining the same.

More than one official penalizing same side on same play.

SECTION 9. In case officials signal different fouls against the same side during the same play, the sum of the penalties shall be inflicted.

SECTION 10. In case of disqualification by Disqualification any official, the disqualification may not be always declined by the offended side, nor may the enforced distance penalty accompanying it be offset by a foul by the other side, unless such foul is also punishable by disqualification.

SECTION 11. Penalties for all other fouls Refusal of (except for side line coaching and penalties under Rule XIX.) may be declined by the offended side, in which case the play shall proceed exactly as if no foul had been committed. A penalty which includes disqualification may be thus declined, but the disqualified player must leave the game.

RULE XXVII.

SECTION 1. The officials of the game shall be a Referee, an Umpire, a Field Judge and a Linesman.

It is the opinion of the Rules Committee that it is contrary to the best interests of the game for teams to dispense with the services of any one of the four officials provided for under the rules.

RULE XXVIII.DUTIES OF THE REFEREE.

SECTION 1. The Referee shall have general oversight and control of the game. He shall be sole authority for the score and sole judge of forfeiture of the game under the rules.

SECTION 2. The decision of the Referee upon all matters not specifically designated under the duties of other officials shall be final.

SECTION 3. In making his decisions the Referee must recognize and allow precedence to any penalty declared by the Umpire.

SECTION 4. The Referee may appeal to any of the other officials for testimony upon points within his jurisdiction.

SECTION 5. He must report to the Umpire any infringement of certain indicated sections of Rule XXIV., Page 218, and Rule XXV., Page 221, and all cases of holding or unlawful use of hands or arms which come under his observation. He shall also report the fact to the Umpire when the ball is kicked into the line or players of the kicker's own side.

SECTION 6. It is the special province of the Referee to see that the ball is properly put in play, and except as otherwise provided, he shall be sole judge of its position and progress.

RULE XXVIII.

SECTION 7. At every kick-off and in every case when time has been taken out, before ordering play to begin, the Referee shall—

(a) Ascertain from each captain that his team is ready; and,

(b) Make sure that the other officials are ready.

SECTION 8. The Referee shall be responsible for the enforcement of the following rules :

lines.
(Referee has exclusive jurisdiction under the following section of Rule XXV., Page 221):
SECTION 2—Attendance on injured player.

RULE XXIX.

DUTIES OF THE UMPIRE.

SECTION 1. The Umpire shall be judge of the conduct and position of the players, and his decision shall be final regarding such fouls as are not specifically placed within the jurisdiction of the Referee or the Field Judge.

SECTION 2. Under Rule XXIV., Page 218, and Rule XXV., Page 221, other officials are given concurrent jurisdiction in cases of certain fouls. Such fouls, and all fouls signalled by the Field Judge, must be reported to the Umpire, who shall thereupon enforce the penalty.

SECTION 3. The Umpire shall signal all fouls with a horn or bell, and the play shall continue until the ball is declared dead by the Referee.

SECTION 4. If during any play the Umpire has signalled a foul or had reported to him any foul by another official he shall

(a) In case the foul does not involve the loss of the ball or the manner in which or place where the ball shall be put in play, notify the Referee and forthwith enforce the penalty; or,

(b) In case the penalty involves loss of the ball or manner in which or place where it shall be put in play, indicate to the Referee the spot where the foul was committed, from which spot the Referee shall enforce the penalty.

SECTION 5. The Umpire may appeal to any of the other officials for testimony in cases of fouls seen by them.

SECTION 6. In cases of coaching by persons other than players, the Umpire shall, in addition to the imposition of the penalty provided in Rule XXV., Page 221, exclude the offender for the remainder of the game from the neighborhood of the field of play; i. e., send him behind the ropes or fence surrounding the field of play.

SECTION 7. The Umpire shall be responsible for the enforcement of the following rules:

for.

RULE XXV.—CONDUCT OF PERSONS OTHER THAN PLAYERS.

- SECTION 1—Side line coaching.
- SECTION 3—Persons allowed on field of play.
- SECTION 4—Persons allowed on side line.

RULE XXX.DUTIES OF THE FIELD JUDGE.

SECTION 1. The Field Judge will generally occupy a position well back of the team not in possession of the ball and will be nearest the side of the field opposite from the Linesman. Generally speaking, he will relieve the Referee of some of the Referee's duties in this part of the field and also observe and report fouls which otherwise might not come to the attention of the Umpire.

SECTION 2. He shall signal with a horn all violations of rules covering holding, interference and conduct of players which he observes on any part of the field and shall forthwith report them to the Umpire.

RULE XXX.

SECTION 3. He shall have, as assistant to the Referee, jurisdiction over the ball and over interference and other fouls in connection with the catching, securing or possession of the ball when it has been kicked or passed down the field. This will include all rulings in connection with a fair catch and the touching of the ball by any player after a kick or forward pass and the possession of the ball which has been kicked or passed down the field.

He shall not declare such rulings, but shall report them direct to the Referee.

SECTION 4. The Field Judge under the direction of the Referee shall also keep the time, and shall use a stop-watch for this purpose. He should start the watch not when the Referee blows his whistle but when the ball is put in play.

SECTION 5. He shall notify the captains of the time remaining for play not more than ten nor less than five minutes before the end of each half. He may, upon inquiry, give the approximate remaining time to a captain at any time during the game, provided he does not comply with such a request more than three times during the last five minutes of the half.

SECTION 6. He shall mark the point where the ball goes out of bounds on the opposite side of the field from that on which the Linesman is stationed, and designate this point to the Referee.

SECTION 7. On all attempts at a goal from the field or after touchdown, he shall take a position under the goal posts, and if called upon by the Referee to do so shall assist the Referee in making his decision.

SECTION 8. By holding up his hand he shall indicate to the Referee when to blow the whistle on all decisions under his jurisdiction.

SECTION 9. The Field Judge shall have, in assisting the Referee and the Umpire, jurisdiction in connection with the following rules:

BRIEF OF RULES.

RULE XXV.—CONDUCT OF PERSONS OTHER THAN PLAYERS.

- SECTION 1—Side line coaching.
- SECTION 3—Persons allowed on field of play.
- SECTION 4—Persons allowed on side lines.

RULE XXXI.DUTIES OF THE LINESMAN.

SECTION 1. The Linesman under the supervision of the Referee shall mark the distances gained or lost in the progress of the play. He shall remain on or near one of the side lines throughout the game, and be provided with two assistants, who shall remain outside of the field of play and who shall use in measuring distance two light poles or rods about 6 feet in length, connected at their lower end by a stout cord or chain 10 yards in length.

He shall mark the position of the ball on each down by using a short iron rod.

SECTION 2. He shall mark the point where the ball goes out of bounds on his side of the field.

SECTION 3. The Linesman shall report to the Umpire any off-side play of the ends on a kick, and any tripping of ends after a kick.

SECTION 4. The Linesman's jurisdiction under the following rules is exclusively as assistant to the Referee and Umpire, respectively, to which officials he shall report.

BRIEF OF RULES.

(WHERE LINESMAN HAS JURISDICTION IN ASSISTING THE REFEREE AND UMPIRE.)

RULE VI.—DEFINITIONS.

SECTION 6 (c)—Ball out of bounds on side opposite Field Judge.

SECTION 16—The ball is dead:

(d) When ball goes out of bounds after a kick.

(e) When player carrying the ball goes out of bounds.

RULE XIX.—PASSING OR THROWING THE BALL.

SECTION 6—Forward pass out of bounds.

RULE XXIV.—CONDUCT OF PLAYERS.

SECTION 1—Striking, kneeing, kicking, etc.

SECTION 2—"Roughing the full-back."

SECTION 3—Piling up.

SECTION 5—Tripping, tackling out of bounds, etc.

Notes

The notes in former editions were sometimes of equal rank and force with the rules, in which case they have been made rules in this edition, and in other cases they were interpretations of the rules, recommendations or mere suggestions as to the arrangement of the field or the conduct of the game, in which cases they are given here.

Note 1. Rule 1.—Marking Out of Field.

The intersecting 5-yard lines, used for convenience in measuring distances, need generally be marked out only at their points on intersection.

The Referee, previous to the beginning of play, should satisfy himself that the various lines are properly marked.

Note 2. Measuring Progress of Ball.

To assist in measuring the progress of the ball it is desirable to provide two light poles about six feet in length, connected at their lower ends by a stout cord or chain 10 yards in length.

Note 3. Timing and Signals of Officials.

It is desirable to have a stop-watch for the Field Judge, a whistle for the Referee and a horn or bell of some kind for the Umpire and Field Judge, in order to distinguish their calls from that of the Referee.

Note 4. Rule VI., Section 3—Two Lines of Scrimmage.

It is evident from the definition that there must be two lines of scrimmage, one for each side, thus separating the two forward lines by a space equal to the length of the ball.

Note 5. Rule XV.—Who May Put the Ball in Play.

Any player of the side that is entitled to a free-kick may put the ball in play.

Note 6. Rule VIII., Section 1—Object of Restrictions on Position of Players on Scrimmage Line.

Rule VIII., Section 1, is intended to prevent any player required to be on the line of scrimmage from taking a position at such an angle to the line of scrimmage, whether he faces in toward the center or away from it, as shall enable him the more rapidly to get into the interference.

Note 7. Rule VIII., Section 3—Shifting of Middle Men.

The playing of a so-called center, guard or tackle on defense as an end or back on offense, or any other shifting of men in attempted evasion of Rule VIII., Section 3, is construed to be within the prohibition. If a captain desires to shift the center, guard or tackle into the back-field, he may do so on speaking to the Referee. But the player so shifted shall not again return to one of these middle line positions.

Note 8. Rule XX., Section 5—Roughing the Full-Back.

As by virtue of the prohibition of Rule XX., Section 5, the kicker can neither put players on-side nor himself get the ball, there is no excuse for running into or otherwise roughly treating him, and consequently officials should punish such offenses by disqualification, as provided in Rule XXIV., Section 2.

Note 9. Rule VI., Section 14; Rule XXIV., Section 5—Diving Under a Play.

Mere diving under a play is construed as not being within the definition or prohibition of tripping.

Note 10. Rule VI., Section 15; Rule XXIV., Section 4—Stepping over a player.

Mere stepping over a prostrate player, though the player so doing may have momentarily both feet in the air at the same time, is construed as not being within the definition or prohibition of hurdling.

Note 11. Rule XIII., Section 5.

The penalty under Rule XIII., Section 5, is to be enforced, though it results in placing the offending side behind its own goal line. A second offense behind the goal line is to be penalized exactly as if it had occurred inside the field of play.

Note 12. No Play After Ball Dead.

It is obvious that when the ball is dead no play can be made until the ball has again been put into play according to rule.

Note 13. Rule XXV., Section 1—Side Line Coaching.

The Rules Committee especially requests the captains and coaches to use every means to discourage and prevent side line coaching.

Note 14. Rule XXIV., Sections 1 and 2—Suspension from Playing Privilege by Institution on Two Disqualifications.

The Rules Committee recommends that any player who is twice disqualified in the same season for any violation of Rule XXIV., Sections 1 and 2, or for a deliberate attempt to injure an opponent shall not be permitted to play again within one year from the date of the second disqualification.

Note 15. Rule XV., Sections 7 and 8.

Kicking the ball again in case it goes out of bounds at kick-off or on a kick-out is not a penalty, and therefore may not be declined.

Note 16. Rule XXIX., Section 5.

Captains and players may not, however, appeal to Referee, Field Judge or Linesman for their testimony on points involving disqualification.

Note 17. Rule XII.

In case of a place-kick the kicker may touch or adjust the ball in the hands of the holder so long as the ball does not touch the ground.

Note 18. Rule XX., Section 4.

It should be noted that the rule reads: "Players of the side which put the ball in play." Hence when a kicked ball is returned by a kick the players of the side which returned it are not put on-side by the ball striking the ground.

Note 19. Rule XVII., Section 4.

Opponents must bear in mind that a player running toward a fly ball has the right of way, and if off-side they must get out of his way. Otherwise they will interfere with him in his opportunity for making a fair catch.

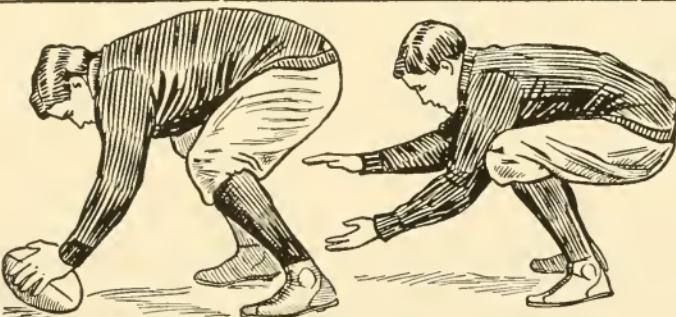

No. 1

LEGAL POSITION OF BALL BEFORE BEING PUT IN PLAY IN A SCRIMMAGE—The ball is flat upon the ground with its long axis at right angles to the line of scrimmage. (See Rule VI., Sec. 3, Page 188.)

No. 2

ILLEGAL POSITION OF BALL BEFORE BEING PUT IN PLAY IN A SCRIMMAGE—The ball is neither flat upon the ground, nor is its long axis at right angles to the line of scrimmage. (See Rule VI., Sec. 3, Page 188.)

No. 3

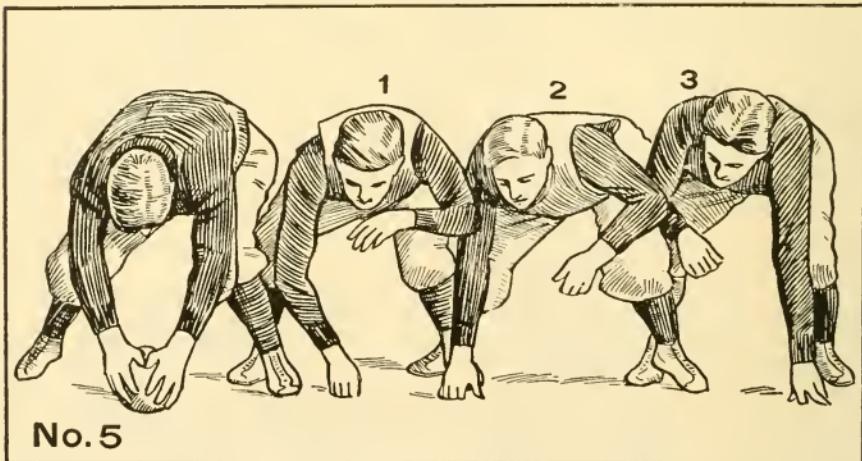

ILLEGAL POSITION OF BALL BEFORE BEING PUT IN PLAY IN A SCRIMMAGE—The ball is neither flat upon the ground, nor is its long axis at right angles to the line of scrimmage. (See Rule VI., Sec. 3, Page 188.)

No. 4

ILLUSTRATION SHOWING THE TWO LINES OF SCRIMMAGE, ONE FOR EACH SIDE.

Also showing the snapper-back with his head and hands legally off-side. (See Rule VI., Sec. 3, Page 188, and Rule VIII., Sec. 2, Page 196.)

No. 5

LEGAL POSITION OF PLAYER
SUPPOSED TO BE ON THE LINE OF SCRIMMAGE.

Player No. 1, since he is one of the two players standing on either side of and next to the snapper-back, has legally locked legs with the snapper-back. (See Rule VIII., Sec. 1, Page 196.)

ILLEGAL POSITION OF PLAYERS
SUPPOSED TO BE ON THE LINE OF SCRIMMAGE.

Players numbered 2 and 3 are not standing with both feet outside the outside foot of the player next to them, that is, they are illegally "locking legs." (See Rule VIII., Sec. 1, Page 196.)

No. 6

ILLEGAL POSITION OF PLAYER SUPPOSED TO BE ON THE LINE OF SCRIMMAGE.

The player facing the reader has neither both hands nor both feet up to or within one foot of the line of scrimmage, nor has he one foot and the opposite hand up to or within one foot of it. Furthermore, he has taken a position, facing away from the center, that will enable him the more rapidly to get into the interference. (See Rule VIII., Sec. 1, Page 196.)

No. 7

ILLEGAL POSITION OF PLAYER SUPPOSED TO BE ON THE LINE OF SCRIMMAGE.

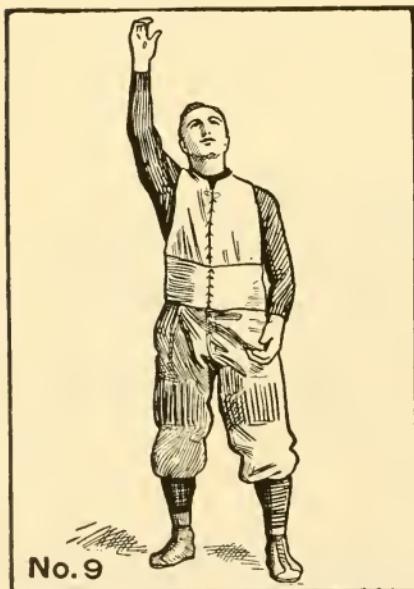

The player standing back to the reader has neither both hands nor both feet up to or within one foot of the line of scrimmage, nor has he one foot and the opposite hand up to or within one foot of it. Furthermore, he has taken a position facing in toward the center, that will enable him the more rapidly to get into the interference. (See Rule VIII., Sec. 1, Page 196.)

No. 8

ILLEGAL POSITION OF PLAYER SUPPOSED TO BE ON THE LINE OF SCRIMMAGE.

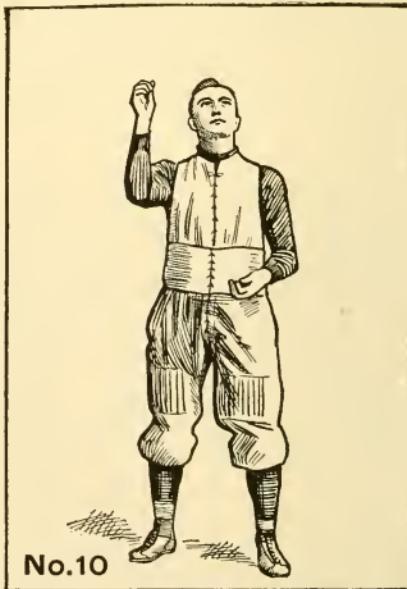

The player in the foreground may be said to have both hands or one foot and the opposite hand, up to or within one foot of the line of scrimmage, but he has taken a position that will enable him the more rapidly to get into the interference, and is therefore violating the spirit of the rule. (See Rule VIII., Sec. 1, Page 196.)

No. 9

VALID SIGNAL FOR A FAIR CATCH.

The player, while advancing toward the ball, has raised his hand clearly above his head. (See Rule VI., Sec. 5, Page 188.)

No. 10

INVALID SIGNAL FOR A FAIR CATCH.

The player, while advancing toward the ball, has not raised his hand clearly above his head. (See Rule VI., Sec. 5, Page 188.)

No. 11

ILLUSTRATION OF TRIPPING.

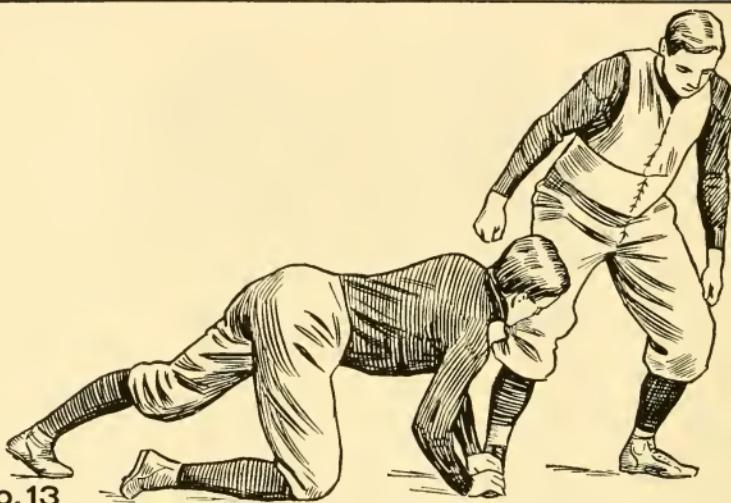

The player wearing the sweater is obstructing the other player with that part of his leg that is below the knee. (See Rule VI., Sec. 14, Page 193.)

No. 12

LEGAL USE OF BODY IN BLOCKING.

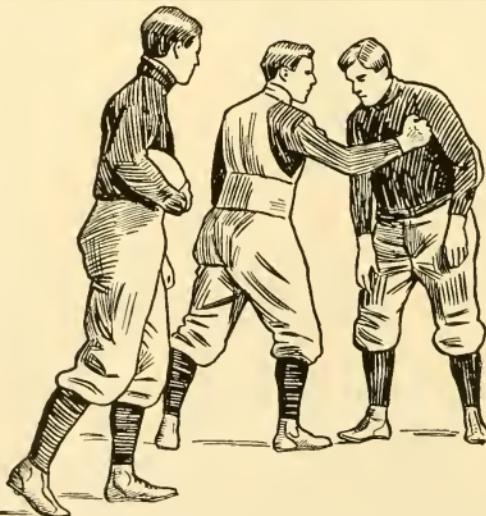

The player on the right has thrown his shoulder against his opponent's thigh to block him away from the play, but is not using his hands or arms.
(See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No.13

ILLEGAL USE OF HANDS BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

Player is grasping with his hands the foot of an opponent. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No.14

ILLEGAL USE OF HAND AND ARM BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

The middle player of the group, in endeavoring to protect the "runner" behind him, has grasped an opponent by the jersey. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No.15

LEGAL POSITION IN BLOCKING.

The player facing the reader has slipped his leg in between the legs of his opponent, but is not using his hands or arms to hold him there.

NOTE—This case shades very rapidly into that indicated on plate No. 16. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

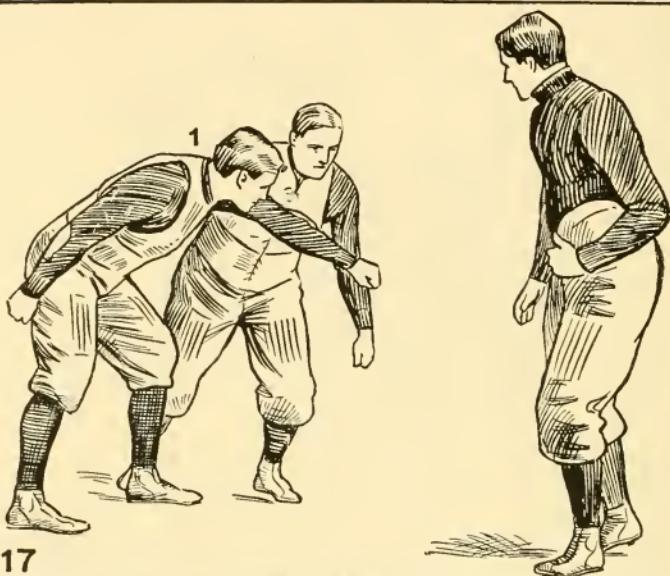

No.16

ILLEGAL USE OF HANDS AND ARMS IN BLOCKING.

The player facing the reader has slipped his right leg in between the legs of his opponent, and is holding his opponent's right leg against his own by the use of his hand and arm.

NOTE—The use of the leg, here pictured, is legitimate. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 17

ILLEGAL USE OF ARM BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF BALL.

Player No. 1, in endeavoring to obstruct an opponent, is using his arm to push an opponent away from the play. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 18

ILLEGAL USE OF HANDS AND ARMS BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF BALL.

Player No. 1, in attempting to obstruct an opponent, has placed his hands upon an opponent to push him away from the play. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No.19

ILLEGAL USE OF HANDS AND ARMS BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

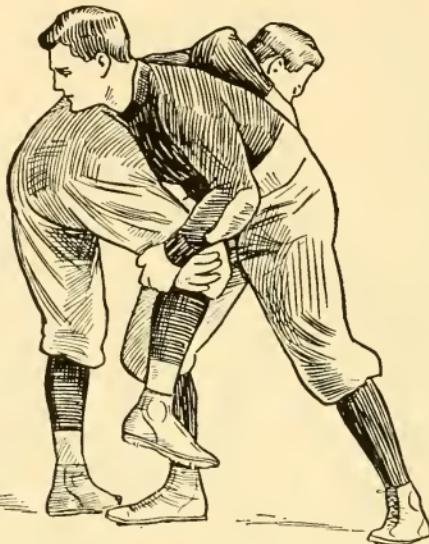

The player, in attempting to obstruct his opponent, has circled him with his arm. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No.20

ILLEGAL USE OF HAND AND ARM BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

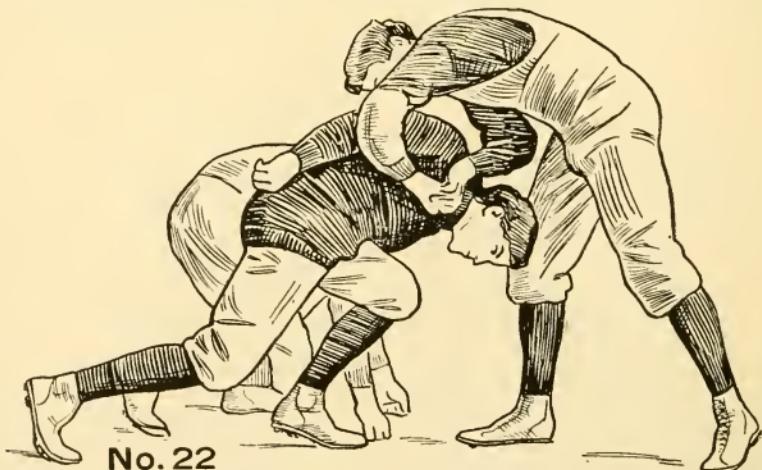

The player, in obstructing his opponent, has circled him with his arm and grasped him with his hand. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 21

ILLEGAL USE OF HANDS AND ARMS BY PLAYER OF THE SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

The player has grasped his opponent around the knee and is lifting him up.
(See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 22

ILLEGAL USE OF ARMS IN LIFTING AN OPPONENT IN BLOCKING.

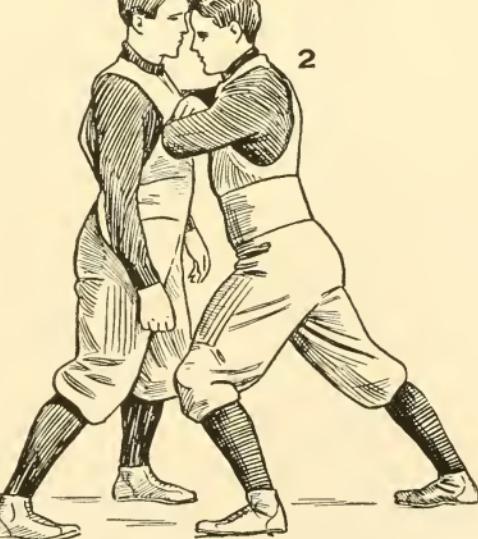

The player on the right has managed to get under his opponent's right shoulder with both hands and is lifting him away from the play.
(See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No.23

ILLEGAL USE OF HANDS AND ARMS IN LIFTING AN OPPONENT IN BLOCKING.

The player on the right has slipped both arms, from his elbow out, in under his opponent, and is commencing to lift him up and away from the play.
(See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No.24

LEGAL USE OF ARMS BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

Player No. 2, in attempting to obstruct an opponent, is keeping his arms close to his body. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 25

LEGAL USE OF ARMS BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

Player No. 2, in attempting to obstruct an opponent, is keeping his arms close to his body. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 26

LEGAL USE OF HANDS AND ARMS BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF THE BALL.

The player in the middle of the group, in attempting to obstruct an opponent, is keeping his hands together and his arms close to his body.

NOTE—The Committee wishes to make it plain that if, in interfering, a player keeps his hands together and close to his body, he may legitimately use the projecting portions of his arms. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 27

ILLEGAL USE OF HANDS AND ARMS BY PLAYER OF SIDE IN POSSESSION OF BALL.

The player in the middle of the group is attempting to obstruct an opponent by the use of his hands and arms—which are not close to his body.

NOTE—The Committee wishes to make it plain that if, in interfering, a player does not keep his hands together, and his arms close to his body—he may not legitimately use the projecting portions of his arms. (See Rule XVIII., Sec. 5, Page 210.)

No. 28

ILLEGAL STRIKING, WITH THE LOCKED HANDS, BY A LINE MAN IN BREAKING THROUGH.

The player on the right, having locked his hands is on the point of dealing his opponent an upward blow under the chin.
(See Rule XXIV., Sec. 1, Page 218.)

No. 29

ILLEGAL STRIKING OF AN OPPONENT IN THE FACE WITH THE HEEL OF THE HAND BY A PLAYER ON DEFENSE.

The player on the right, who is on the defense, is on the point of striking in the face, with the heel of his hand, the opponent who is carrying the ball.

No. 30

LEGAL TACKLING ABOVE THE KNEES.

(See Rule XXIV., Sec. 7, Page 220.)

Officials' List American Intercollegiate Foot Ball Rules Committee, 1908

(Subject to Additions and Corrections.)

It is difficult for the Central Board to attempt to publish any complete list of satisfactory field officials, but in order to put the results of their work in more concrete form and preserve these data for convenience of managers, have prepared the enclosed partial list of men who have proved most serviceable to the sectional committees in the East and West. It is hoped this will be of permanent value and simplify future arrangements.

We take great pleasure in extending this to those whom it may aid.

(Signed) CENTRAL BOARD ON OFFICIALS.

L. M. DENNIS, J. B. FINE,
WALTER CAMP, JAS. A. BABBITT, Chairman,
C. W. SAVAGE, Haverford, Pa.
C. LINN SEILER, Secretary.

SUGGESTIONS FROM THE CENTRAL BOARD.

The Central Board on Officials would suggest the following plan for its work in the future:

(1) That the Central Board should be appointed by the Rules Committee whose function, (a) should be advisory, rendering assistance as indicated, (b) to assist by published interpretations of the foot ball rules, (c) to maintain a certain control over sectional boards in the management of executive details, (d) to publish lists of accredited officials, (e) to offer recommendations for the conduct of these officials, (f) to arrange meetings for interpretation, (g) when advisable arrange conferences tending to the formation of sectional boards.

(2) While the Central Board will take no arbitrary action as to the appointment of sectional committees, it recommends that such representative conferences be called in various sections of the country, and by these when unanimously desired, sectional boards of control be appointed. As before stated, the Central Board does not assume jurisdiction over the sectional committees, but on the basis of the past year's experience suggests the following method of procedure:—(1) That official lists of officials be prepared and issued, (2) that these official lists be sent to managers with requests for suggestion, (3) that managers in conference with the committee select officials for important games, (4) that question of fees be considered, (5) that after consultation with the managers the officials for minor games be selected by sectional committees, (6) that full lists of officials be published as scheduled in September of each year, (7) that in case of later refusals to accept such officials, institutions at first accepting the lists shall reimburse the latter with customary fees, (8) that all the above steps be taken in full co-operation with foot ball managers and college representatives.

What a Foot Ball Player Needs

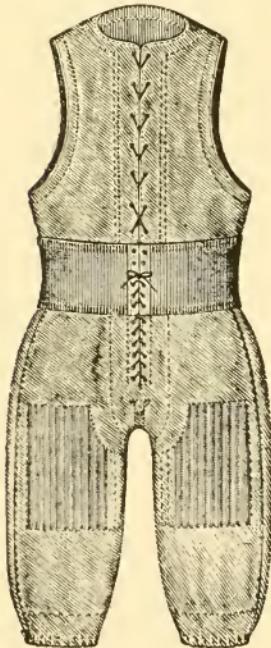

As the action of the game centers around the ball, it is necessary that the latter should be of perfect construction, of finest material and well put together; such is the Spalding Official Rugby Foot Ball No. J5—the only official foot ball. It is used in every important match, because the players know that it is absolutely dependable and its record of nearly a quarter of a century of use in all the prominent games without the bursting of a single ball is the best evidence of the care that is taken in the Spalding factory to see that each ball lives up to the guarantee of the Spalding trade mark.

The price of the Spalding Official Rugby Foot Ball, No. J5, is $5.00, an inflater, lacing needle and rawhide lace being packed with each ball. It is guaranteed absolutely if the seal on the box in which it has been packed has not been broken. The next best ball to the No. J5 is the Spalding "Rugby Special," which is made of specially tanned imported grain leather and is undoubtedly superior to many of the imitations of the Official No. J5. Each ball is put up in a sealed box, with guaranteed bladder and rawhide lace. The price of the Spalding "Rugby Special" No. A. is $3.50. Six other balls comprise the Spalding line, each the best value for the money that an experience of thirty years knows how to produce and they range in price from $3.00 down to $1.00.

FOOT BALL CLOTHING.

Speed is now the first requisite of a team and the old moleskin trousers are being succeeded by the lighter canvas style. A pair of the latter, made of extra quality brown canvas, soft finish, well padded, and with cane strips at the thighs, costs $1.75; other good qualities cost $1.50, $1.00, and 75 cents. For those who prefer the moleskin, however, Spaldings use a material that is manufactured for foot ball purposes exclusively and padded with curled hair and with cane strips at the thighs. These cost $5.00 per pair.

Jerseys have largely superseded the canvas jackets for foot ball, but the latter are still made for those who prefer to use them. They cost 40 cents, 50 cents and 75 cents, according to quality, in sleeveless style. The canvas jacket is often used in a combination suit—known as the Spalding Union 'Varsity Suit—the jacket and trousers being connected by a broad elastic belt. The suit conforms to each movement of the wearer's body, and makes an ideal outfit in every way. It costs $5.00. Jacket, trousers and belt may also be bought separately, the jacket costing $1.25 or $1.50, according to whether reinforced or not; the trousers, $2.50 and the belt $1.50.

Although the roughness of the game has been practically eliminated by the new rules, still shin pads and shoulder guards are sometimes needed. Shin guards cost $2.00, $1.50, $1.00, 50 cents and 40 cents per pair, and shoulder and elbow guards cost 25 and 50 cents each. An improved style costs $1.00 and a still better one—invented by Glenn S. Warner, of Cornell, $2.50 each. Mr. Warner is also responsible for a combined leg, knee and shin guard, which costs $5.00 each.

SPALDING'S OFFICIAL FOOT BALL GUIDE.

The old style head harnesses that used to be so hard and heavy have now been retired in favor of lighter and more pliable models. Spalding has produced a new one this year that gives complete protection and yet is almost as light as a feather on the head. The very best kind made costs $5.00, and very good ones may be had for $3.00, $2.50, $2.00 and $1.00 each.

As before noted, jerseys are superseding the old style canvas jackets. The very best Spalding jersey made costs $4.00. It is fashioned or knit to exact shape on a machine and then put together by hand, an altogether different process from that usually followed in the manufacture of jerseys, the latter process consisting of cutting them out of a piece of material and then sewing them together. Other good Spalding jerseys can be obtained for $3.00, $2.50, $2.00, $1.25 and $1.00.

Spalding sweaters have been long and favorably known in the athletic world, their No. AA sweater being the heaviest sweater made and is controlled exclusively by them. It costs $8.00 each. Other good sweaters, in the same grade, but not so heavy, cost $5.00 and $6.00 each.

Spalding Foot Ball Shoes are recognized as standard by foot ball players everywhere. They are made by shoemakers who do nothing else but make athletic shoes from year end to year end, and who become thoroughly familiar with the various details of what is needed by the athlete, who is necessarily more particular with his requirements for an athletic event—on which so much depends—than he might be with his ordinary everyday footwear. The very best Spalding shoe costs $7.50, and is exclusively bench made, while excellent and serviceable foot ball shoes at a lower price are the Spalding 'Varsity at $5.00 per pair; the Club Special at $5.00 and the Amateur Special at $3.50. The 'Varsity is equipped with the Spalding Foot Ball Ankle Brace, which was designed by the famous Mike Murphy, the celebrated trainer of the University of Pennsylvania. It absolutely prevents turning of the ankle and affords almost absolute protection against the spraining of ankles and at the same time does not slow up the player. When bought separately they cost 50 cents per pair.

Space does not permit a complete enumeration of all the articles in which a foot ball player may be interested, but the complete line, with pictures and prices can be found in the Spalding catalogue, which will be sent free anywhere upon request by addressing any Spalding house—of which there are twenty scattered throughout the United States and Canada, a list of which will be found on the inside cover of this book.

THE SPALDING OFFICIAL INTERCOLLEGIATE FOOT BALL

THIS is the ONLY OFFICIAL RUGBY FOOT BALL, and is used in every important match played in this country. Guaranteed absolutely if seal of box is unbroken. We pack with leather case and pure Para rubber bladder, an inflater, lacing needle and rawhide lace.

No. J5. Complete, $5.00

THE SPALDING GUARANTEE means that we stand back of our promise to deliver a perfect article. We do not guarantee against abuse or ordinary wear. In a foot ball, if there is any imperfection in material or workmanship not apparent upon first inspection, it will certainly show during the first game or in preliminary practice, and, if it does, the ball should be returned to us at once. We will not replace any ball that shows from its appearance that it has been abused or one that has simply been worn out.

SPALDING PATENTED SHIN GUARD

(PATENT APPLIED FOR)

We claim that this shin guard is made according to the only correct principles, in that:
FIRST—It is built to prevent contact with the sensitive shin bone, rather than to attempt to soften a blow by piling on padding.
SECOND—It is thoroughly ventilated, making it the most comfortable to wear of any.
THIRD—It is extremely light in weight, simply consisting of elkskin ventilated leg-piece with molded "barbette" piece and soft tanned leather fastening straps.

EXPERT FOOT BALL COACHING $10

GLENN S. WARNER
the famous Coach advances a splendid idea
for Foot Ball Instruction and Training

The new foot ball rules have so radically changed the game that all writings or books on the subject are practically of no use. Old players who have not played the game within the past year or two, and who have heretofore been a great help in spreading a practical knowledge of the game, have also been put out of date. Therefore, while the new rules have made the game more complex and scientific, and the need of expert coaching greater, the difficulty of securing proper coaching has also been increased.

In order to meet the needs of this situation, supply expert instruction and raise the standard of foot ball, a plan has been devised whereby such coaching is placed within the reach of every coach, player and team in the country, no matter how limited their resources.

The originator of this plan is Glenn S. Warner, who has acted as Head Coach of prominent foot ball teams for the past thirteen years, and whose coaching and training enabled the Carlisle Indians to make such a remarkable record last year, and to be given credit for playing the most scientific and up-to-date game of any team since the adoption of the new rules. Mr. Warner has for many years been most successful in teaching the open game, and there is no one in the field today who is better qualified to carry out this plan than he.

Mr. Warner's plan is to coach foot ball players and teams by mail. An exhaustive series of letters or pamphlets will be mailed to subscribers covering, in a thorough, scientific, yet simple manner, every department of the game. These letters will be profusely illustrated by snap-shots of the stars of the Indian team in action, and will be of inestimable value, not only to the smaller teams, but to coaches and teams of the highest class.

Among the subjects treated will be the following, on each of which pamphlets or letters will be supplied :

GROUP ONE

How players should be outfitted ; How to train ; How to avoid, treat and protect injuries ; Tackling ; Falling on the ball ; Blocking and interfering ; Punting ; Drop-kicking ; Place and goal-kicking ; Forward passing ; Catching punts and passes ; Separate pamphlet on how to play each position on the team.

GROUP TWO

How to make and use all kinds of tackling and charging machines ; Different plans and methods of teaching rudiments ; Preliminary practice ; A daily program of a week's work ; Generalship ; Defense for all kinds of formations ; Systems of signals ; Offense—consisting of a full repertoire of the best plays, plainly diagrammed, which were used by the Indians and the best teams of the East last year, and other new plays as fast as they are developed and used successfully.

The course for individuals will consist of an exhaustive letter on how to play their positions, together with the pamphlets or letters in Group One. The price for this course for individuals will be Five Dollars.

The course for coaches, captains and teams will include everything, and the price will be Ten Dollars.

Both courses will start about September 15th, or later, to suit subscribers.

Spalding Official National League Ball

IS THE STANDARD OF THE WORLD

Spalding Official National League Ball
OFFICIAL ball of the game for over 30 years. Adopted by the National League in 1878, and the only ball used in Championship games since that time. Each ball wrapped in tinfoil, packed in a separate box, and sealed in accordance with the latest League regulations. Warranted to last a full game when used under ordinary conditions. No. 1. Each, $1.50

Special to children, 50¢

Spalding Official National League Jr. Ball
Made with horse hide cover, and in every respect same as our Official National League Ball No. 1, except slightly smaller in size. Especially designed for junior clubs (composed of boys under 16 years of age), and all games in which this ball is used will be recognized as legal games. Warranted to last a full game when used under ordinary conditions.

No. B1. Each, $1.00

It is the Original League Ball

It is the Official League Ball

It is the Universally Adopted League Ball

It is the Best League Ball

IT HAS BEEN FORMALLY ADOPTED AS THE OFFICIAL BALL OF THE NATIONAL LEAGUE FOR OVER 30 YEARS

It has also been adopted as the Official Ball for all Championship Games by the following Professional Leagues:

Eastern League	for 20 years	Western Association	for 11 years	N. Y. State League	for 11 years
New England League	for 20 years	Pacific Coast League	for 5 years	Central League	for 5 years
Northern League	for 5 years	Inter-State League	for 9 years	Cotton States League	for 5 years
		Indiana, Illinois and Iowa League	for 7 years and by 22 other Professional Leagues that have adopted the Spalding Official National League Ball from 1 to 4 years.

THE SPALDING OFFICIAL NATIONAL LEAGUE BALL was first adopted by the National League in 1878, and is the only ball that has been used in Championship League Games since that time. In the recent great World's Championship Games in Chicago between the Chicago Nationals and the Detroit Americans the Spalding Official National League Ball was used.

IN ADDITION to the different American adoptions, the Spalding Official National League Ball has been made the official ball by the governing Base Ball Associations of Mexico, Cuba, Canada, Australia, South Africa, Great Britain, Philippine Islands, Japan, and, in fact, wherever Base Ball is played. The Spalding Official National League Ball has received this universal adoption because of its well established reputation for uniformity and high quality, but the special object of such adoptions, from the players' standpoint, is to secure absolute uniformity in a ball, that will prevent unfair "jockeying" with an unknown ball, and make National and International Base Ball contests possible, and at the same time make the records of players of value, and uniform throughout the world, which can only be secured by standardizing one well known ball.

The Spalding Official National League Ball is used by Yale, Harvard, Princeton and all prominent college teams. The soldiers and sailors in the U. S. Army and Navy use it exclusively. In fact, the Spalding Official National League Ball is in universal use wherever Base Ball is played. Once in a while a minor league will experiment for a short time with some other ball, but invariably returns to the Spalding Official National League Ball, which has now become universally recognized

The Nondescript
Manufacturer says to the Dealer:

"Why pay 15 to 20 per cent. more for Spalding Trade Marked Athletic Goods, when I am prepared to furnish you "Just as good" articles for so much less price?"

The Substitute
Dealer says to the Consumer:

"We are just out of the Spalding article asked for, but here is something "Just as good" at 25 per cent less price."

Spalding Cautions the Consumer to make proper allowances for these "JUST AS GOOD" manufacturers and substitute-dealers' statements, but see to it that the Spalding Trade-Mark is on, or attached, to each Spalding Athletic article; for without this Trade-Mark they are not genuine Spalding Goods.

We are prompted to issue this Caution to users of Spalding's Athletic Goods, for the reason that many defective articles made and sold by these "Just as Good" manufacturers and dealers are returned to us as defective and unsatisfactory, and which the consumer, who has been thus deceived, has asked us to repair or replace under our broad Guarantee, which reads as follows:

We Guarantee to each purchaser of an article bearing the Spalding Trade-Mark that such article will give satisfaction and a reasonable amount of service, when used for the purpose for which it was intended and under ordinary conditions and fair treatment.

We Agree to repair or replace free of charge any such article which proves defective in material or workmanship; PROVIDED such defective article is returned to us, transportation prepaid, during the season in which it was purchased, accompanied by the name, address and a letter from the user explaining the claim.

A.C. Spalding & Bros.

Beware of the "Just as Good" manufacturer, who makes "appearance" first and "Quality" secondary, in order to deceive the dealer; and beware of the substitute-dealer, who completes the fraud by offering the consumer the "Just as Good" article when Spalding's Goods are asked for.
